Woodward Memorial Association.
EDITOR JOURNAL:—Pursuant to notice previously given, a considerable number of the former students of Richlands Academy, under the late L. G. Woodward, met in the Academy building on Saturday, May 17th, 1890, and organized "The Woodward Memorial Association," by electing Frank D. Koonce as President, E. L. Francks, jr., as Secretary and F. W. Harget as Treasurer.
 The object of the meeting was stated by the President in a brief eulogy of exceeding beauty and pathos, on the life and character of their faithful teacher and friend, the late L. G. Woodward, and in declaring the purpose of the Association to be the erection of a suitable monument to his memory.
 On motion of E. L. Francks, it was resolved that the President appoint sixteen persons, to be selected from the body of former pupils to act as vice-presidents of this Association, whose special duty it shall be to aid in raising funds sufficient to erect said monument, conformable to which the President designated the following persons, viz:

Dr. Chas. Duffy, jr., and Capt. K. E. Jones of Craven county; Dr. A. R. Miller of Lenoir county; Col. L. W. Humphrey and Dr. Jno. D. Spicer of Wayne county; Jno. F. Murrill, Esq., of Hickory, N. C.; Dr. L. Hussey and L. H. Hodges, Esq., of Duplin county; Dr. D. L. Rhodes of Pender county; Benj. Brock, Esq., and Dr. R. A. Whitaker of Jones county; Dr. G. N. Ennett of Carteret county; D. S. Aman, Esq., Dr. R. W. Ward, Richard G. Ward and Jno. A. Pittman, Esqs., of Onslow county.

On motion of J. W. Mills, it was resolved that the proposed monument be placed upon the Academy grounds, in Richlands village, and that we pledge our best efforts to collect at least five hundred dollars, to be applied to that purpose.
 On motion of E. L. Francks, jr., it was resolved that the following persons, selected from the number of former students of the late L. G. Woodward, be appointed a special soliciting committee to raise the necessary amount of money for the erection of said monument, to-wit: Jno. W. Mills, Jno. A. Ervin, L. W. Humphrey, W. H. Rhodes, J. R. Francks, Jas. W. Spicer, J. F. Giles, A. C. Huggins, F. Thompson, Isaac Brock, Cad. Koonce, E. H. Cox, C. H. Koonce, Jno. A. Jarman, W. T. Cox, G. A. Thompson, S. W. Venters, Dr. W. J. Montfort, E. J. Newbold, Edward Humphrey, E. H. Henderson and Jesse Humphrey; and that said committee be requested to raise amount, of money, and report to this Association at its meeting on the first Saturday in December, 1890.

On motion, it was ordered that the regular meetings of the Association be held on the first Saturdays in July, October and December.
 On motion of W. H. Rhodes, it was ordered that the Secretary immediately notify the persons designated as vice-presidents of this Association, and as the special soliciting committee of their appointments, and the purpose thereof; and to urge their speedy and active co-operation in behalf of the objects of this Association.
 On motion, the President and Secretary were added to the special soliciting committee.
 Dr. O. Thompson, being present was called upon for an address, and responded in a neat and appropriate manner.
 On motion of Jno. A. Ervin, the Secretary was ordered to send a copy of the proceedings of this meeting to the editors of the Wilmington Review and the New Berne Journal, with a request to publish the same.
 On motion, the meeting adjourned to meet again on the first Saturday in July, 1890.

Profitable Poultry.
 There is money to be made in chickens, but beginners cannot expect to get rich at the first year or two. Usually it takes that length of time to learn the first lessons of poultry raising thoroughly. A great many young people go into this branch of farm work, imagining that it is easy compared with other departments of farm labor, and that it pays better and sooner. Such impressions are likely to be followed by disappointments. The successful poultryman needs capital to begin with; plenty of grass and woodland; a thorough knowledge of his business, and then the willingness to work indefatigably.

Poultry raising is now divided up into two general branches. One man raises nothing but fancy fowl for the market, while another breeds common stock. There is no doubt that fancy fowls pay better than ordinary birds that have no great name and good points. There is quite a demand for fancy birds for breeding, and even in the ordinary markets of our cities they command high prices. As a rule their meat is of superior flavor and tenderness, and like the canvas-back duck, they are sought after by the epicures. Their eggs for breeding purposes frequently sell for several dollars a dozen, which, if there is a steady market for them, would make the business a paying one. But breeding fancy poultry has discouragements and drawbacks too. The field is a limited one, and is nearly full now of active competitors. Longer study and experience with birds are demanded, and great care and experience in tending them. They are more sensitive to neglect than other fowls.

By ordinary and common stock I do not mean poor breeds of fowls, nor mongrels, but the practical, every day-breeds which go about their business to lay eggs and to fatten up well for the markets without strutting around to show their "fancy" feathers and shapes. Many kinds of poultry are included in this list, and every poultryman knows what ones are good practical layers. In selecting breeds for laying it may be laid down as a universal rule that the best breeds are those which are best suited to the climate in which they are kept. Different localities require different breeds, and to this may be due the conflicting reports from all parts of the country concerning certain well known kinds of poultry. The Leghorns are good layers but they do not lay equally well in all parts of the country, and under all circumstances. They do better in warmer climates, although the double comb varieties will do better than the single in cold weather. As soon as the comb of a Leghorn is frozen it ceases to lay. If the fowls are raised for the markets the Plymouth Rocks carry a double recommendation with them. They are good layers, and they have a fine, uniform appearance when dressed for shipment. The Brahmas and Cochins are so slow of growth that many do not like to raise them for market, but they make a handsome fowl when fully matured. In selecting breeds for profits those should be chosen which are peculiarly adapted to any particular section of the country, considerations being taken into the question of their fitness for market, time of maturity, hardiness, laying qualities and disposition. This is but the first step in raising poultry for profit but it is the most important one.

ANNIE C. WEBSTER.
 Love.
 We have read of a poor widow who, bringing a ruble to a Russian Bible Society, was asked if her subscription were not too much. "Love is not afraid of giving too much," was her beautiful reply. We all know that it is not always the largest purse that opens for God's work. The poor too love to spare somewhat for His service, to lay part of their hard earnings upon the Master's altar. Indeed, we heard once of a laundress who gave from a full heart to missionary work, but who, coming into a fortune, pleaded the multitude of her expenses, and would give but a meagre sum to the once-loved work; so dangerous, save for God's mercy, is the abundance of riches to the human heart!—Exchange.

To Get Early Tomatoes.
 Collect old corn and tomato cans and melt off the tops, bottoms and seams through the side, by throwing them on a heap of coals. Some fine broom wire is then obtained and cut with nippers into pieces long enough so that when the ends are hooked and fastened together they will make a loop of the proper size to go around a can. The sides of the can should be lapped by three-fourths of an inch, and the natural spring of the tin will hold the wire on. About three months before it is safe to set out plants, sow the seed in a hot bed, into which set the cans as thickly as they will stand, fill with rich soil and set one plant in each can. Let them grow until they begin to crowd, and then remove some of the cans and plants, giving plenty of room to produce stocky plants. Throw out a spadeful of soil, where each plant is to be set in the garden, and into this set a can containing a plant so deep that when the soil is drawn in, the surface will be about an inch higher than the cans. Cut the wire with the nippers and lift off the tin, thus leaving the roots absolutely undisturbed. Hoe in the soil and the work is done. Plants so set will never wilt, though it is best to thoroughly wet them before lifting from the bed. In this way I have often made a good thing off an acre of tomatoes before others have any to sell. Much depends on the seed. I formerly used the Acme, but lately prefer Livingstone's Beauty.—Farm and Home.

 If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get
 "In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."
