THE NORTHERN PRESS.
 The insane ravings of Shepard, of the New York Mail and Express, having been given to the country, we can do no better service than to present, through our columns the sentiments of representative Northern papers in regard to the Lee Monument at Richmond.

No part of our common country is more loyal to the Union than that which was embraced within the lines of the late Confederate States.

The people of the South have deeply regretted the unwillingness of the people of the North to accept their declarations of loyalty to the Federal Government and devotion to the Union and the Constitution, and it is with genuine pleasure that we hail the rosette flush of the auspicious morn that is to usher in the day of restored confidence and mutual good-will.

We have heretofore spoken of the liberality and fairness, as well as the ability of the Washington Post. It was with no surprise that we read, in its issue of the 29th of May, an editorial on Robert E. Lee that concludes with these stirring words:

"So let the statue be unveiled in all its majestic proportions, amidst music, oratory and heroic ode. It will not shame the sunlight. It will not endanger the liberties of the people. It will cause no patriot to draw a bated breath. It will shock no manly sensibility. It will simply show that the South retains a grateful appreciation of her noblest son, and commends his name to the muse of history as worthy of exalted perpetuation."

While the Post has given us no surprise, our pleasure is not diminished because we rightly judged its spirit and its chivalry. But we are surprised that papers of which we expected nothing but censure, have risen superior to party bias and sectional animosity and spoken words of truth and commendation. From a great number of papers we have selected the New York Tribune as the best representative of that class of newspapers to which we are just referred. We have read its words over and over again to see if they did not contain some covert stab, but here they are, open as the day:

"The Tribune has never hesitated on fitting occasions to denounce disloyal acts and tendencies in the South; and it will continue to do so, if need be, in the future. But for that very reason it may fairly claim the right to defend the South when it is unjustly assailed; as in our opinion it has been in connection with the ceremony of unveiling the Lee monument on the 29th ult. in Richmond. That the people of the South should delight to honor the memory of that great and popular leader need not and does not reflect on their loyalty in the slightest degree. It is true that numerous Confederate flags were flung to the breeze in the quandom Confederate capital; and there were a great many things said about the Lost Cause the good taste of which might be questioned. But there was no hint of disloyalty to the Union from the beginning to the end of the celebration, and we are sure there was no thought of disloyalty in the hearts of those who took part in it. On this day, sacred to the memory of the loyal dead, we can well afford to be generous to those who were once armed against the nation but who are now an integral part of that nation. If the South loyally accepts the verdict of the war, as it is doing, the North will not criticize it for honoring the memory of its fallen chieftains, or even for occasionally bringing out its old flags, which to enlightened southerners today are no longer emblems of treason."

We conclude with the following sharp extract from the New York World:
 "The brilliant oration of Colonel Archer Anderson at the unveiling of the Lee statue—an address at once eloquent, philosophical, and patriotic—is a sufficient answer to the tirades which have been uttered in certain quarters against the observances at Richmond on the 29th."

The hardest fought political battle ever known in Alabama, within the lines of the Democratic party, has just resulted in the nomination of Thomas G. Jones, of Montgomery, for Governor. Several candidates were before the Convention and at the commencement of the balloting Capt. R. F. Kolb, the candidate of the Farmer's Alliance, led the field. At length the opposition to Kolb combined on Jones and secured his nomination. Great enthusiasm prevailed and speeches were made by all the candidates, Kolb specially stirring the hearts of the Convention and pledging his followers' support of the ticket.

FRUIT RAISING.

Country Gentleman.
 The publications of the day give many interesting statements of the successful cultivation of the large and small fruits but often leave out some essential part. We have just read an account of a fine strawberry crop, stating that twenty-five acres of the land were purchased to begin with. Half an acre was then set out with strawberries with some additional plantings. This patch then bore "an immense crop," so much finer in quality than others that all sold at high prices, although the market was already overstocked with common fruit. More were planted, and the "six hundred bushels which were marketed brought four dollars a bushel while others sold at two. This is quite an interesting statement, but it does not inform us how much land the six hundred bushels grew on, what the expense and profits were, nor briefly, what the improved treatment was, which produced such satisfactory results. We desire distinctness.

J. H. Hale, of Connecticut, who has had wide experience in fruit raising, after speaking of the advantages of the present day—the railways, nearness to towns, home markets, cheap conveyances, etc., says: "Yet with all these advantages none of us are getting rich. Some are just making a living, others are losing money and are becoming discouraged with low prices. We hear indeed about the successful cultivator who produces 6,000 to 8,000 quarts of berries to the acre and sells them for fifteen cents a quart, while nothing is said of the ninety and nine just men who raise 2,000 quarts and sell them for five cents. But at present I advise those who are established in the business to hold on; cultivate fewer acres, give better care to what they have and let new beginners not begin." These remarks apply to those who raise fruits for market; they can have no retarding effect on such as provide an abundant supply for their families at home.

Irving D. Cook, of Genesee county, stated in his last report last winter to the Western New York Horticultural Society, a successful instance of fruit raising for home use and for neighborhood marketing. J. F. Rose, of that county, raised on a portion of his lot last year not exceeding three-fourths of an acre, crops of currants, grapes, pears, berries and other fruits, which he sold for $78, besides what was given to his neighbors, and for supplying his own family, while many of his grape vines have not yet come into bearing, and he received premiums for his fruit at the county fair amounting to $16. He depends much on the bone-dust and ashes and good management. Mr. Cook's advice to his hearers was, "Go and do likewise."

The Wondrous Power of Song.
 Congressman John Allen, of Mississippi, in addition to being one of the wits of the House, is also something of a "plunger" in society. He was present at a musicale given at the Shoreham by Mrs. Jeanette Thurber a few evenings ago, and talked music with a fluency that astonished some of those who heard him. During the evening Mrs. Thurber engaged the Mississippi Congressman in conversation for a few minutes, and incidentally inquired if he was familiar with the study of music.
 "Oh, yes," replied Mr. Allen, promptly. "I am something of a musician myself. In fact I am so fond of music that I introduce it into my every day life with very beneficial effect. I control my wife and family and govern my entire household by the power of my music."
 "I don't quite comprehend you," answered Mrs. Thurber, smiling.
 "Well," said Mr. Allen, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "it is just like this: When I request my wife or any member of my family to do anything, and they refuse, I threaten to sing. They immediately relent and do my bidding rather than hear me."—Baltimore Sun.

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can SCROFULA Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.
 "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLISLE, Nauright, N. J.
