SENATOR VANCE AT RALEIGH.

When Zeb. Vance speaks the people listen. No man has the ears and the hearts of North Carolinians as Vance has them. In the Senate he is recognized as the representative of his State and the oracle of his people. It is no wonder that Raleigh filled with people on the fourth of July to hear Senator Vance. The address was not a prepared one, but whoever knew Zeb. Vance unprepared to speak to a North Carolina audience? The speech was brimful of sound sense, lofty sentiment, pure patriotism and wise counsel. We wish we could reproduce it, but one or two extracts must suffice. Among other things equally good the Senator said:

"I want to speak a brief word about the essence of things. I want to ask those gray haired men yonder—men who remember how things were—if the love of liberty, of patriotism, of country, is as great as it ever was. Has it grown with the growth of the country? Has abundant charity and fraternity, and the purpose to protect all men in their rights grown with the material advancement and progress of these States?"

"As our empire is so much greater than when in the days of the patriot fathers, do we love liberty more than they did? Do we hold the rights of man more sacred than they? Are the people willing to make greater sacrifices for personal liberty and the public good than they? Are the rights of this State and of the other States more respected than in 1789? Alas, no! We do not love liberty so well. Our devotion is not so fixed, so bright, so pure, so self-sacrificing as when the Representatives of North Carolina were directed to move forward in the Continental Congress for the independence of the people. There is less respect for law and custom than ever before in the United States. There is more danger to the rights of the people than ever since the foundation of the government; more sectional hatred than ever since the close of the war. It is hard to believe, but it is true. The first wave of sectional hatred was excited by the war, that soon gave way; it wore itself out. Now another has come. They say those who sought to destroy the government are about to secure control of it, and it has excited all the North and they are undertaking now to pass legislation that will arbitrarily put us back as if in a new period of reconstruction."

"And the Supreme Court of the United States is as bad as the politicians. In one case they have held that the person of a Federal Judge is sacred and that he can carry a ruffian along with him as a body guard to protect him from assault, and that when the guard slays a man he shall have immunity and not be tried in either the State court or in the Federal court. And here in our own State, a Federal judge has decided that an internal revenue officer whose business it is to collect taxes may stop you in the road and make you go and show what there is to be taxed, and if you fail, that he can shoot you with impunity. These things are evidences that everything must give way to the sacred character of federal officers—the lives of citizens are as nothing. They are more destructive and dangerous to the principles of personal liberty than anything that has happened. I regret that these things are so."

What avails our great growth in material wealth—our vast expanse—our many millions—if the poorest man and humblest citizen are not secure in the rights the law gives them?

Democratic Convention.
In pursuance to a call of the Democratic Executive Committee, the Democrats met in convention at Trenton Jones county Saturday, July the 5th, at 2 o'clock. The convention was called to order by Mr. Samuel Hudson, chairman Democratic Executive Committee, who explained the object of the meeting and called Mr. E. F. Sanderson to act as temporary chairman and K. F. Foscue secretary.

On motion, the temporary organization was made permanent. A committee of one from each township was appointed on rules and resolutions. The committee consisted of the following gentlemen: Cyrus Foscue, Samuel Hudson, J. C. Parker, Lewis King, Edgar Kouse, Dr. F. A. Whitaker, C. H. Foy, L. A. Haywood. While the committee was out P. M. Pearsall was called and responded in a short speech, urging harmony and well suited for the occasion. The committee reported through its secretary, Mr. Samuel Hudson, the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved 1, That we intend to do our whole duty during the coming campaign as Democrats, and that we will support the principles of the Democratic party.

Resolved 2, That we are in favor of the repeal of the tax on banks chartered by the State.

Resolved 3, That we are in favor of free and unlimited coinage of silver.

Resolved 4, That we are in favor of the real estate of the United States being owned by naturalized citizens of the government of the United States.

Resolved 5, Believing in the doctrine of equal rights to all and special privileges to none, and that taxation, National or State, shall not be used to build up one interest or class at the expense of another, we believe that the money of the country should be kept as much as possible in the hands of the people, and hence we ask that all revenue, national, State or county, shall be limited to the necessary expenses of the government, economically and honestly administered.

A committee of two from each township was appointed to select delegates to represent the county in the different conventions. The delegates reported by the committee and elected by the convention are as follows:

EDWARD F. SANDERSON, Ch'm.
K. F. FOSCU, Sec'y.

Mr. Krehbiel had many interesting things to say about the precursors of the pianoforte. Equally interesting might be some account of the pianoforte, drawn from experience of patrons of summer resorts and dwellers within earshot of a hive of music teachers.

A timid man, who was much afraid of burglars, on leaving town for a week or two spent half a day in fastening up all the doors and windows, and otherwise securing the house till, on finishing, he discovered that the only way by which he himself could leave the house was by the chimney or the letter-box slit.

Surgery.
The first honors of surgery are awarded to those who are first to perform difficult operations. Judged by this standard, Dr. Valentine Mott, the distinguished exponent of surgical science, is entitled to the first rank among the surgeons of the world. In his thirty-third year, he placed a ligature around arteries within two inches of the heart—an operation sufficient of itself to place him at the summit of his profession. In 1828, he performed what is universally allowed to be the most difficult feat ever attempted in surgery.

A clergyman was afflicted with an enormous tumor in the neck, in which were embedded and twisted many of the great arteries. In removing this tumor, it was necessary to take out entire one of the collar bones, to lay bare the membranes inclosing the lungs, to dissect around arteries displaced by the tumor and embedded in it, to apply forty ligatures, and remove an immense mass of diseased matter. All this was done without the aid of chloroform. The patient survived the operation, and subsequently discharged the duties of his profession.

Doctor Mott was the first to operate successfully for immovability of the lower jaw, and the first to entirely remove the lower jaw. He was the first to succeed in sewing up a slit in a large vein; and he did this in some cases where a portion of the vein had been sliced away—an operation of inconceivable delicacy. He once cut away two inches of the deep jugular vein, which was embedded in a tumor, and tied both ends of it. In the course of his long professional life, he tied the carotid artery forty-six times and amputated nearly a thousand limbs. Sir Astley Cooper truly remarked: "Doctor Mott has performed more of the great operations than any man living or that ever did live."

Peculiar
Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which one can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."
Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is now more sold in Lowell, where than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly. Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine.

"The price is very low, the form exceedingly handy for a work of reference, and the editing skillful and comprehensive."—Literary World, Boston.
"The literary skill and judicious editorship which have characterized the undertaking from the outset have been in no degree relaxed."—Sun, New York.

"It is an unabridged dictionary and a storehouse of information on almost every conceivable topic. The more we use of the work the more we are pleased."—Educational Monthly, Akron, O.
"The convenient form, the excellence of binding, paper, and illustrations, and the skillful arrangement of articles make this a handy cyclopaedia, which will be used ten times where the bulky 'Britannica' would be consulted once. The illustrations are really helpful, and are very numerous. No matter what other cyclopaedia a writer may have, 'Alden's Manifold' should be upon his shelves."—The Writer, Boston.

"It is a remarkably well made book for the price. The peculiar shape makes the book extremely easy to read, which is a most valuable feature. The clean cut, heavy faced type used for titles is a good feature and materially lightens the task of the investigator. The accepted symbols of every difficult word is plainly marked and the pronunciation, which it offers any difficulties, is set forth phonetically. In a word, this popular work is most carefully edited and neatly and accurately manufactured."—American Bookman, New York.
