THANKFULNESS.

There is always cause for thankfulness. The sunshine that comes to all is cause for thankfulness, and darkness that shuts out business cares and invites to sleep makes us thankful.

But we North Carolinians have especial cause for thankfulness. Where in all the world is there a land more blessed of heaven?

Health revels in its mountain breezes and rejoices in its sea air. Fruits and flowers spring spontaneously from its bosom, and fields of golden grain reward the husbandman.

But there is yet greater cause of thankfulness; still higher reason for gratitude. Here in this old North State the mind has scope for its loftiest thought, and the soul rises on exultant wing to its native heaven.

When we consider the intellectual and moral darkness that envelops many portions of our planet, how should our bosoms swell with gratitude in that the lines have fallen unto us in pleasant places and ours is a goodly heritage!

Thankfulness and gratitude are best attested by works of beneficence. It is right on all proper occasions to express our gratitude in words and lift up our hearts in thankful song; but it is better still to let our deeds express emotions no language can portray.

To act the heart and live the soul amid "the war of elements," is to enable the world by living in it, and make bright the path to heaven.

A DRAMATIC SCENE IN THE SENATE.

Vance Rather Puzzles the Gentleman From Rhode Island.

In the Baltimore Sun we find the following article which we reproduce:

"Mr. John R. Morris, of Baltimore, formerly of Goldsboro, N. C., in a letter published in the Wilmington (N. C.) Messenger, thus describes a recent scene in the United States Senate during the discussion of the glass schedule:

"You know that Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, had charge of the tariff bill. The glass schedule had been reached. Vance asked Aldrich why common window glass, the glass of the poor man's house, was made dutiable at one hundred and fifteen per cent., while fine, polished plate glass, the glass of the rich man's mansion, was to sustain a duty of but fifteen per cent."

ern statesman. 'Mr. President,' cried Vance, in a shrill, tremulous key of which I did not know his voice capable, 'I want it to go abroad to all the American people that I have asked the Senator from Rhode Island why the glass of the poor man is taxed 115 per cent. and the glass of the rich man but 15 per cent., and that I have received no answer.'

Raising his voice still higher he almost shrieked the refrain of his own words, 'Yes, I want the American people to know that I have received no answer.' Vance was unconsciously dramatic. The effect was to bring a deep hush over the Senate chamber.

The Republicans could not say anything without admitting too much. They had to refrain from admitting the truth that they were paying for Harrison's election, and owed much to the makers of common glass in America, but were indifferent to the makers of fine plate glass in France.

The Republicans did not soon recover from the question and the terrible manner in which Vance had hurled it at Aldrich. John Sherman fingered his stubby beard, Judge Edmunds, who affects indifference to everything and everybody by apparent absorption in some book, peeped over the top of his constant volume.

Quay, the stolid dude, shook the lappel of his grayish flannel negligee coat. Allison rolled his eyes toward the upper frescoes, while Frank Hiscock, on whose shoulders rests Conklyn's mantle of vanity, with several additional breadths, looked hopelessly toward his colleague, poor old dried up Everts, who himself sank farther into the physical nothingness of an unsexed witch."

FARMERS' ALLIANCE. ACTION OF THE GEORGIA STATE CONVENTION—THE PLATFORM OF THE NATIONAL ALLIANCE ADOPTED.

ATLANTA, GA., August 21.—The Georgia State Alliance finished its labors to day and adjourned. The most important action was the unanimous passage of a resolution endorsing the platform of the National Alliance adopted at the St. Louis convention.

The convention was largely attended. Cotton tagging was adopted as the Alliance covering of cotton, as against jute. This is carrying out the fight on jute made last year, which was so successful.

The eligibility clause was made identical with that of the National Alliance, providing that no one shall be admitted to membership in the order unless he be a farmer, laborer, mechanic, country school teacher, country preacher, country editor, or editor of a strictly Agricultural journal.

The convention was largely attended. Competition and Advertising. "Can't afford it; no, sir; can't afford it!" exclaimed a retail merchant one day this week when approached by an advertising solicitor who wished to sell him space in some medium or other.

"It's all I can do now to meet the competition in my business and keep my expenses down. What with high rents, high prices and high prices for advertising, I must cut somewhere, and I cut the advertising." It was none of our affair, and we therefore offered no comment on what seemed to us to be the illogical not to say absurd, position taken by this merchant.

However, he echoed the sentiment of a number of men in commercial life, which number, we are pleased to say, is diminishing with great rapidity. Not advertise because competition is too strong? When, then, in the name of common sense and good business policy, ought a man to advertise? It is precisely because competition has become so great in all trades that every enterprising business house, every house that expects to hold its own, must advertise.

Competitors are so numerous, and towns are becoming so big, and facilities for reaching other towns still bigger are so easy of access, that the man who doesn't keep his name before the public not only cannot gain new business, but imperils the business he has. It is competition, indeed, that has developed the new and extensive methods of advertising that now prevail.—The Northwest Trade.

Long Credits. The complaint of many of our houses for not working up a trade with south America on account of long credits is justifiable; the disadvantages in collecting large sums that are outstanding are innumerable. These are hindrances, it is true, but may be considered trifling when the enormous distance between the nations is taken into consideration.

In comparing this condition of affairs to our own country, how often do we hear, and is it not to be regretted, that our Western houses, in purchasing goods, extend their payment to extremely long time! Under such circumstances, if money were to become scarce, it is almost impossible to forestall what the results would be to the country.

Do we not now hear of goods being purchased on great length of time—sales made in the fall, wares to be shipped in the spring, and time of collection extended four months more? This long credit system may secure orders, but it is decidedly a disadvantage to the business interests of this country.

These too broad and democratic principle of our limit should be carefully weighed and long credits more thoroughly considered, from an economic standpoint, though long credits are an inducement to purchase, it would be decidedly beneficial to the country were they to be discontinued.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Eld. M. E. Church South, tillnoy 1 No. 28 Tattnall st. Atlanta, Ga.

When a man is going down—him he finds the attraction of gravitation and the encouragements of the public a great help to him.

One of the most effectual ways of pleasing and of making one's self lone is to be cheerful; joy softens more hearts than tears.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms.

Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the sympathetic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia, I had but little appetite, and what I did eat did me no good. In an hour after eating I would expel, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, which I think was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.
