THE LADY OF THE EARL

The reason RADAM'S I saw her in the festive halls, in scenes of pride and glee, Mongst many beautiful and fair, but none so fair as she;

Her's was the most attractive form that mingled in the scene, And all who saw her said she moved a goddess and a queen.

The diamond blazed in her dark hair and bound her polished brow, her swan-like neck of snow: And Indian looms had lent their stores to form her sumptuous dress. And art with natura joined to grace her ty and all glee;

and on her brow of pearl And she was young and innocent, the Lady of the Earl.

But as I looked more carefully, I saw that radiant smile ney and Liver Disease, thills was but assumed in mockery, the unthinking to beguile. Thus have I seen a summer rose in all its every Disease known to the When it has shed its sweetness o'er a beauty bloom, cold and lonely tomb.

> She struck the harp; and when they praised her skill she turned aside, A rebel tear of conscious woe and memory to hide; But when she raised her head she looked so lovely, so serene, To gaze in her proud eyes you'd think a tear had soldom been.

The hamblest maid in rural life can boast a happier fate Than she, the beautiful and good, in all her mank and state:

For she was sacrificed, alas! to cold and selfish pride, When her young lips had breathed the vow to be a soldier's bride.

the late I viewed her move alone, the idol of the crowd; A few short months clapsed, and then, I kissed her in her shroud!

And o'er her splendid monument I saw the hatchment wave, But there was one proud heart which did more honor to her grave.

and Agricultural Implements A war, for dropped his plumed head upon her place of rest, And with his feverish lips the name of Ephilinda pressed;

Then breathed a prayer, and checked the grean of parting pain, And as he left the tomb he said, "Yet we shall meet again."

Startling Discovery, The discovery by the inhabitants of a scality hitherto unvisited by the pestilent scourge of fever and ague, that it exists in their very midst, is decidedly startling. Such discoveries are made at every season, in every part of the Union. Subsequently, when it is as-certained, as it invariably is at such times, through the valuable experience of some one who has been benefited and N. C. cured, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a thoroughly efficacious eradicator of the malarial poison, and a means of fortifying the system against it, a feeling of more security and tranquility reigns throughout the whole neighbor hood. Besides the febrile forms of malarial disease, dumb ague and ague cake are removed by the potent action of the Bitters, to which science also gives its sanction as a remedy for rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint. debility, kidney troubles, and all diseases impairing the
