SENATOR KANSOM is doing splendid work in this campaign. Remember he speaks in New Berne on the evening of the 31st. We trust that multitudes will come from adjoining counties to hear the great Orator.

GOVERNOR HILL will speak in advocacy of Democratic principles in Ohio and West Virginia. If he had always been so anxious for the success of Democratic principles it is probable that Grover Cleveland would now be President of the United States. Hill is very smart and is politically sound, but the conduct of his friends toward Cleveland cannot be forgotten, and may not be forgiven.

WITH a great increase of the war taxes, a surplus of over ninety millions squandered, and the ballots of the people in the hands of hired and dependent employees of the central power, "a government by the people" would certainly be seriously crippled, and the people, like subjects of the Czar, would be in the hands of the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy.—Hartford Times.

Tonight is the last night for the train to arrive from Goldsboro at 7:30. Tomorrow it will come in at the usual time, 6 p.m.

A special meeting will be held in the Salvation Army barracks this evening at 8 o'clock, to which all persons are cordially invited. After meeting refreshments will be served.

How many white men will lose their votes in this election because they all along intended to register when it was convenient, and they deferred the matter until it was too late! If you have not registered, attend to it this morning.

Over a hundred people left here yesterday morning for the Goldsboro Fair and returned in the evening. The attendance was very large, probably 3,000 people on the grounds. There was a slight rain but not enough to interfere with the sight-seeing.

Our agent, Mr. L. E. Duffy, who has been doing good work for the JOURNAL at Beaufort during the holding of the Superior Court, passed up to Dover yesterday to spend a few days at his home. He will attend Jones county Superior Court in Trenton next week in the interest of the JOURNAL.

On account of pupils from the Oxford Orphan Asylum desiring to show here next Friday night the entertainment for the benefit of the Yacht Club has been postponed until next Tuesday night. It has been but a short time since the idea of having this entertainment was first conceived and difficulties were in the way but the ladies entered into the plan with enthusiasm and they were overcome, and our citizens can look forward with assurance of its being a good entertainment.

The sea cows will be exhibited at the foot of Craven street from the 23d to the 28th insts., inclusive. Admission 10 cents. The Washington Post, in describing them, says the length of each is nine feet and they have the appearance of a whale in the body and of a cow in the head, subsist entirely on vegetation—living on the marine grass often, are exceedingly gentle, and show their wonderful intelligence and affection in such a manner as to excite the wonder and admiration of those who see them.

Laboring men, do you want to increase the demand for your services? Merchants, do you want to sell more goods? Professional men, do you want those whom you serve to be better able to promptly remunerate you for your services? Property owners, do you want your houses to be in constant demand by good paying tenants, with steady employment? Capitalists, do you want better and more numerous opportunities for investment? If so, every one of you, whether a stockholder or not, attend the meeting of the Co-operative Manufacturing Company next Monday night, with the steadfast determination that beneficial results shall flow therefrom, and that another factory shall speedily be started.

Two Mistaken Ideas.

We find that there is an impression on the minds of some of the farmers that in case the railroad came through cultivated fields it would necessitate their building a line of fence along each side of the track. This is a mistaken idea. No more fencing would be required than before. If the railroad took down a panel of fence it would place a culvert or cattle guard there, that would accomplish the same purpose the fence would.

There is also a little misapprehension among some of them as to the amount of ground they would lose the use of if the railroad passed over their land. The size of the right of way that the railroad asks for is 125 feet—62 1/2 feet on each side, measuring from the center of the track, but the railroad does not object to others using the unoccupied adjacent ground. Go where you will and you will find the cleared land ditching which the railroad does improves the bordering land.

The railroad in nearly its whole course uses only about 15 feet, and the reason that it desires a wider space is so that a side track can be run at points where it is necessary to have one, and also because it wishes to have the authority to remove any forest tree that endangers the road. Beyond its actual requirements the railroad will not interfere with the land nor care to what use it is put.

Faithful Service Bearing Fruit.

Ever since Mayor Battle was placed at the head of the city government he has been the terror of evil doers. The vigilance of the marshal and policemen, in ferreting out violations of the law, and the certainty of the punishment which transgressors are beginning to realize will be meted out to them when convicted are beginning to have a wholesome effect. The arrests and convictions under the present administration have been many, and seldom, if ever, in the history of the city, have more fines and costs been imposed than last month and now we are having a calm following the storm. The marshal reports that never, in his experience, has the city been so quiet; there has not been a single case before the mayor in twelve days.

As everybody seems to be on their good behavior the marshal has having plenty of time to devote to improving the streets and he is diligently making use of the opportunity. At present he is nicely grading Metcalf street; the work on it has progressed from Queen to Broad street and will be extended throughout its length, and then Mr. Hargett hopes he will be able to go on until all our thoroughfares are in as excellent condition as he is now making that street.

We hope the present gratifying condition of affairs may have long duration.

The Oxford Orphans.

A letter to Mr. T. A. Green from the teacher in charge, states that the orphans, eleven in number, will give an exhibition here Friday night. They are now at Morehead and Beaufort, and will come up Friday morning.

The price of admission is so low that every one can go who will. It is only 25 cents for adults, and 15 cents for children.

The asylum is in urgent need of funds to meet the requirements involved in the constant care and expense of supporting and educating hundreds of parentless, destitute, little children gathered from all sections of our State, and in view of the low prices, the delightful recreation afforded, and the noble purpose to which the money is to be applied, we hope that they will be greeted by one of the largest audiences that ever assembled in the New Berne theatre.

Fifty Years in a Pastorate.

DANVILLE, Va., Oct. 21.—Fifty years ago Dr. Geo. W. Dame founded the Episcopal church here, and since that time has served it continuously as rector. The fiftieth anniversary of his pastoral connection was celebrated at the church tonight in the presence of a large congregation. Dr. Dame was present and his son read an interesting sketch of the history of the church which the venerable rector had prepared.

Dr. Long's Address at Raleigh in Favor of Co-education of the Sexes.

The following is a synopsis of Dr. John S. Long's remarks at the educational meeting Thursday night: Dr. John S. Long was called upon to discuss the co-education of the sexes. He said that he heartily endorsed the system. It was in harmony with civilization, common sense and Christian progress. The finest universities in the world were adopting it, and the mathematical honors won by Miss Jewett, the daughter of a former Postmaster General of Great Britain, showed that women would make good use of the opportunity. He believed that the best scholarship, the best discipline and the highest development of character were the outcome of this education. The Baltimore City College and the Western Female High School, two of the noblest institutions of this country, boldly proclaimed that their best students came from the grammar schools, where co-education existed.

Where the sexes were taught together, the very high respect which they acquired for each other caused them to respect and obey the law. Hazing and other reckless violations of discipline would not take place where the civilizing influence of this inter-communion existed. The natural chivalry of a boy's character could only be reached by the society and magnetic power of woman. And the gentleness and womanly spirit of the girl student could only be developed by the pressing demands of the other sex. Character is the outgrowth of social relations and not of asceticism. The boy and girl together over the same books will be the architects of each other's principles and habits, hallowing and blending the noblest qualities which either possesses. Here is the corner-stone of this fine temple of learning, which is destined to fill the whole earth with its matchless beauty.

And, said the Doctor, what are the arguments against this co-education? Does anyone believe that immorality can spring from it? Why, the very history of home life shows the contrary. A boy educated with his sisters is always the purest and best boy. Every president and professor of a college knows that the student fresh from the consecration of a mother's or sister's love are the truest and noblest members of their community. It is out of the ranks of these that faithful and holy ministers are called to bear the cross before the people. And why should not the same principle of home influence sanctify co-education from the old field school up to the universities?

As to woman fortifying her refinement by the application of this system, there cannot be the shadow of truth in it. For whom does she dress herself with exquisite fabric, beautifully made? For her own sex? Nay, verily. But to please the taste and honor the society of the other sex. And why should not her personal grace be educated for the same purpose? A sweet, winning woman, full of the charm of a gracious manner, instead of losing her charm will have it enhanced by association with the other sex.

Dr. Long closed with an earnest tribute to the school girls of this country. He said that they were the brightest and most gifted he had known in his experience of half a century. They carried away the laurels of the schools everywhere. They are the hope and the bulwark of the land. They were the coming teachers and the mothers who would redeem the nation, turn back the tide of bribery and corruption, and restore the purity, honor and glory of the republic.

Shot and Killed His Wife.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., October 20.—T. K. Peterson, an employee of the Illinois Central road, shot and killed his wife last night. Peterson returned home unexpectedly at 10 o'clock and found his wife and S. M. Maxwell in a compromising situation. The woman was sitting on Maxwell's lap with her arms around his neck. The husband drew a revolver and fired twice at Maxwell, who drew the woman in front of himself and she received both bullets. The woman died within fifteen minutes. Maxwell was a lodger in Peterson's house. Peterson was arrested and placed in jail.

Perilous Situation.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Oct. 21.—A special from Chattanooga, Tenn., says: Two members of the British Iron and Steel Institute had an experience here they will never forget. They were walking over a trestle on a summit of the mountains and were caught by an approaching train. On one side was a rock wall one hundred feet high, on the other a precipice of one hundred feet, and the ties too short to stand on without being struck by the cars. In this fearful dilemma they lay down as far as they could get, but by the merest chance the engine was stopped just before it reached them.

A Little Girl Burned to Death.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 21.—Lizzie, the four year old daughter of Anderson Tonksley, engineer on the Richmond & Danville Railroad, was burned to death this afternoon while her mother was across the street. The child undertook to start a fire.

THE PULPIT AND THE STAGE.

Rev. F. M. Shrout, Pastor United Brethren Church, Blue Mound, Kan., says: "I feel it my duty to tell what wonders Dr. King's New Discovery has done for me. My lungs were badly diseased, and my parishioners thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and an sound and well, gaining 25 lbs. in weight."
