THE JOURNAL.

THE JACKET OF GRAY.

Fold it up carefully and lay it aside. Tenderly touch it, look on it with pride. For dear to our hearts must it be evermore.

The jacket of gray our loved soldier lay wore.

Can we ever forget when he joined the brave band Who rose a defence of our dear Southern Land And in his bright youth hurried on to the fray And proudly he donned it, the jacket of gray.

His fond mother blessed him, and looked up above Commending to heaven, the child of her love; What anguish was hers, mortal tongue may not say When he passed from our sight in his jacket of gray.

But her country had called, and would she repine Though costly the sacrifice placed on the shrine Her heart's dearest hope on the altar she lay When she sent out her boy in his jacket of gray.

Months passed, and war's thunder rolled over the land— Unheeded was the sword, and lighted the brand; We heard in the distance the sound of the fray And prayed for our boy in his jacket of gray.

But vain, all vain, were our prayers and our tears And glad shouts of victory rang in our ears But our treasured one on the red battle field lay While the life blood oozed out on the jacket of gray.

His young comrades found him and tenderly bore, The cold lifeless form to his home by the shore; All that day our hearts on that terrible day When we saw our dead boy in his jacket of gray.

Oh, spotted and tattered and stained now with gore Was the garment which once so proudly lay before; We bitterly wept as we took it away, And replaced with white robes the jacket of gray.

When we laid him to rest in his cold narrow bed, And engaged on the marble placed o'er his head As the proudest of tributes our sad hearts could pay, "He never disgraced the jacket of gray."

Then fold it up carefully, lay it aside, Tenderly touch it, look on it with pride, For dear must it be to our heart evermore.

The jacket of gray our loved soldier lay wore.

S.S.S.

Mrs. Geo. P. Snoots, a highly cultivated and estimable lady of Prescott, Ark., writes under date of April 23, '89: "During the summer of 1887 my eyes became inflamed, and my stomach and liver hopelessly disordered. Nothing I ate agreed with me. I took chronic diarrhoea, and for some time my life was despaired of by my family. The leading physicians of the country were consulted, but the medicines administered by them never did me any permanent good, and I lingered between life and death, the latter being preferable to the agonies I was enduring. In May, 1888, I became disgusted with physicians and their medicines. I dropped them all and depended solely on Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), a few bottles of which made me permanently well—well from then until now."
