DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE. It is interesting to compare the work done by the Department, with intelligently as to farming, today, one needs to be quite a scientific man. He must have more than a smattering of chemistry ; he should have a fair knowledge of geology and he will be hopelessly stupid if he is not informed in botany. And now there is a department of vegetable pathology, and bucolic exin the efforts to cure the diseases of wheat and cabbages by direct constitutional treatment. There does not seem to be any good reason why the effort should not succeed; for there is a close analogy between vegetable and animal life in the important particulars of circulation and even of respiration. What will cure the man might, with modifications, cure the melon-Detroit Free Press.

The analogy between vegetable and animal life is no new discovery. Dr. Henry Drummond in his great book, "Natural Law in the Spirit World," has traced the analogy; but, long before his day, Dr. Benjamore than one of his lectures before his medical students. In 1850 retired Alabama physician-a

Get an Honest Census

One of the first duties to be performed by the coming session of Congress is to order a correct enumeration of the population of the country.

It must be known to every Senator and to every Representative that the census just taken under Superintendent Porter's direction is disgracefully erroneous. His min Bash made it the subject of dismissal should be demanded for notorious incompetency ; but whether that shall be done or not, there should be a unanimous command from Congress for a re-enumeration of the population of the United The complaint of inefficiency in taking the census came from every section of the country ; indeed from every State and leading city of the Union, and the complaints of deliberate injustice to _important sections of the nation are so emphatic that they should not be disregarded. The short and simple way out of sis and decided upon "hercis treat- this national disgrace is for Congress to order a re-enumeration of the entire population of the country, with such safeguards as would be likely to enforce fidelity. If proposed in Congress and allowed to reach a vote such a measure would pass both branches by large majorities, and shall it not be done ? Get an honest census.-Atlanta Constitution.

The writer recalls one instance of remarkable success. A muscadine vine showed signs of disease. The bark was hard, the leaves were shed prematurely and the fruit dropped from the vine before it matared. The doctor made his diagnoment" of the patient. First there was copious bleedings-no Rushite ever failed to begin with the lancet -and this was followed by inserting into the vine, near the roots, the most drastic compounds known to the materia medica. The result was wonderful. The plant put on new life, grew with remarkable rapidity, and produced the largest and most luscious fruit ever seen of that yariety. Hundreds visited the vine and partook of the delicious grape. Perhaps ninety nine in the hundred of such experiments would have failed, but a single success should stimulate investigation.
