WE are still looking in vain for the first instance of an increase of wages since the McKinley bill went into effect.

ARE we to have the Force bill? Be sure you preserve your manhood and it matters very little what becomes of the Force bill.

UP goes the prices Down goes the wages. The last thing to go up like a rocket is plate glass, specially protected by the McKinley bill.

THE Republican Congress first squandered the surplus, then raised the taxes, and now proposes to increase the public debt by a new issue of bonds.

It is said that the crop of cotton now on hand presents an unusual variety of grades and is difficult of correct classification. This it is said has tended to keep down prices.

THE schooner Angelita flying Spanish colors and reported having landed a cargo of smuggled goods on the coast of Florida has been seized by U. S. Marines and sent to Key West.

THE appointment of Judge Brown, to the place on the U. S. Supreme Court bench made vacant by the death of Justice Miller, seems to be satisfactory to the country. Even Harrison sometimes does the right thing.

THE chances for the re-election of Ingalls to the U. S. Senate seem to be small and growing beautifully less; but John James is a sharp slim fellow and will not hesitate to make the Kansas farmers any pledge they would require.

A FEW days ago no little bluster was made over the assumed killing of postmaster Matthews on Christmas day at Carrollton, Miss., on account of his politics. McBride who killed him has, after a searching examination, been discharged on the ground that he acted in self defense.

THE Wilmington Messenger says: The new Congressional apportionment will not go into effect until the 3d of March 1893. So it will neither effect the election for members of the U. S. House in 1892, nor the election for President, as the Districts and Electoral College will remain the same as now.

A ST. PETERSBURG correspondent states that a new law against the Jews will be promulgated with the opening of the new year. It forbids selling, leasing or mortgaging to a Jew any estate within the empire. All privileges heretofore granted to certain Jewish merchants, as to ownership of real estate, are cancelled.

THE regular Washington correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch, in his letter of December 30 says: "It was Colorado day in the Senate. Late in the afternoon Mr. Teller read the riot act to the Radicals advocating the Force bill and went for the whole crowd without gloves for trying to stifle debate. He practically charged that the Force bill was being kept before the Senate to defeat financial legislation and said that was the general feeling in the West. This speech stirred up the Radicals almost as much as that of Mr. Walcott.

JOS. DUGUID—Please exchange.
R. J. GOODING—Seven Springs water.
J. A. RICHARDSON—Schedule "B" tax.

Quite a crowd of the colored hands from States further south, who have been spending Christmas with their families in the city, went off again Friday. A number of new hands also went out with them for the first time.

A new furniture factory is to be established in New Berne by Messrs. Rigdon and Hall. These young men are to be commended in the enterprise and should receive all possible encouragement and patronage from our citizens.

The Harry Lindley Company will appear at New Berne Theatre on Monday evening next, January 5th, in Mr. Lindley's own nautical drama entitled "The Castaways." Mr. Lindley is well known here as he played our Fair dates two years ago.

Arden Benedict who presented "Monte Cristo" some few seasons ago will be in New Berne again on Friday, January 9, presenting his latest New York success, "Fabio Romani," by a strong cast. This production is taken from that well known novel, "The Vendetta."

Mr. Benj. Hahn, who has been North on a business trip, reports that the fame of the New Berne Fair has reached abroad and is receiving considerable attention and discussion in Norfolk and Richmond, and the probabilities are that a good representation will attend from the Old Dominion State.

Governor Fowle began the work of removing his furniture, etc., from his private residence on Fayetteville street, Raleigh, to the new executive mansion, Wednesday. Everything is being placed in readiness for immediate occupancy and he expects to be at home in the big building by next Monday. The building is three stories high, built of brick with trimmings of brown sandstone and numerous porticoes and balconies. The rooms are large, the hallways spacious and the interior beautifully finished. The work of building it was begun about eight years ago.

New Berne keeps steadily going forward. Progress is the order of the day. The machinery for the mammoth new saw mill of the Stinson Lumber Company is arriving and being placed in position, and this also the case at the new planing mill of Mr. O. J. Schelky, and the start has been made for a furniture factory. Messrs. J. O. Rigdon and Chas. H. Hall formed a partnership and ordered the machinery for the factory from Rockford, Illinois, a few weeks ago and it is now expected any day. The boiler is here and being placed in position. The factory will be located in the building at the foot of Brinson's wharf.

The Winston papers, Twin City Daily and Western Sentinel having been consolidated, the paper resulting therefrom is issued under a name that combines the names of both papers. It is the Twin City Daily-Sentinel. Thus the friends of either of the former papers can feel that they are still patronizing the same paper. Mr. J. O. Foy, the brother of New Berne's banker, Mr. O. E. Foy, is the editor and proprietor. He was in charge of the Twin-City Daily prior to the union of the papers, and made it one of our brightest exchanges. His successful journalistic experience warrants the belief that the Daily-Sentinel will prosper and improve. Success to it.

The following students, who have been spending the Christmas holidays with their relatives in the city, returned to their respective schools: Messrs. R. Nunn, R. D. V. Jen and J. W. Duguid to the State University, Mr. C. B. Foy to Bingham School and Mr. W. T. McCarthy to St. Mary's at Belmont, N. C.

Miss Julia Bryan, from near Pollockville, who has been visiting friends in the city, left last night to take charge of a school at Sander's Store, and Miss Sophie Jones to take charge of one at Cedar Point.

Major P. P. Johnson, of Lexington, Ky., who has been in this section making preparations to raise stock, left on the steamer New Berne yesterday, returning to Lexington.

Interesting Pamphlet.

Mr. W. H. Oliver is preparing a handsome pamphlet on the New Berne Fair for distribution. Fifteen hundred copies will soon be judiciously placed. It treats briefly of New Berne and gives full page engravings of the Collegiate Institute and the Confederate soldiers' monument, but is principally devoted to highly complimentary extracts from leading papers throughout the State and in other States, showing how our past efforts have been appreciated by the crowds of visitors, some of them from distant places that are drawn to New Berne annually by the exhibitions that we make. An allusion is made, copied from the Tennessee Argonaut, alluding to the fish department, says: "It was doubtless the finest collection and greatest variety of fish ever shown in this country."

This annual Fair is doing more than any other one thing to bring Eastern North Carolina prominently before the world, with its fine natural advantages, its wealth of resources, and magnificent opportunities for profitable investments by enterprising capitalists in manufacturing and other enterprises, and it behooves not only New Berneans, but every resident of every neighboring county, to do his full share in providing exhibits for the Fair that will forcibly impress every visitor with the excellence of this favored section in which we live. The time for the Fair is drawing nigh. Be ready with a good exhibit.

The Fair.
Mr. William H. Oliver has undertaken to get up samples of all woolen and cotton goods which are manufactured in the South for exhibition at the approaching Fair. Mr. Oliver has just received samples of hosiery made at the Goldsboro factory. We doubt if any of our merchants know that such goods are manufactured at Goldsboro, but before Mr. Oliver is done with them there will be but few who will not know it. Let the factories at Kinston, Tarboro, Charlotte, Pittsboro, Asheville and other places send in samples of their make of underwear and let it be put on exhibition. Don't wait until just before the Fair, but send it now directed to Mr. W. H. Oliver and he will see it properly cared for. The goods will either be retained, or sold and check sent for the sale of them.

Eastern Carolina Dispatch
On and after Monday, January 5th, 1891, the steamer Neuse will sail from New Berne at 5 p. m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Case of Poisoning.

Directly after breakfast Friday morning Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Watson, their little grand daughter Carrie and the colored man who cooks for them, who were the only ones that partook of the coffee used at breakfast were taken violently ill—the other members of the household not being affected. Drs. Frank and Charles Duffy are attending them but they were still quite sick last night. Symptoms are that of arsenical poisoning.

The regular cook was off Thursday and his place was temporarily filled by a colored woman. She prepared the coffee for supper, but owing to the family's having had a late dinner, supper was sparingly partaken of and the coffee was not used until the next morning. The temporary cook came in after the parties named were taken sick and offered to drink of the coffee, but was not permitted to do so. No charges have been made against any one, and the affair is as yet shrouded in mystery.

UNSATISFACTORY SUGGESTIONS.

Objections to the Law Proposed by the Oyster Conference at Elizabeth City.

EDITOR JOURNAL—We noticed in the WEEKLY JOURNAL of January 1st an article said to be a clipping from the Elizabeth City Economist, of an oyster conference held at Elizabeth City, of an informal, free-and-easy character, which, after a full, fair and straightforward investigation, came to the conclusion to suggest the following to the Legislature for its consideration, amendatory to the oyster laws of North Carolina:

"1. That the law in its reference to non-residents, as it exists, should be rigidly enforced."

This we approve of and it is to our minds the only wise and disinterested conclusion and suggestion of the meeting referred to.

"2. That a 'culling' law should be passed by the Legislature requiring all oysters under the size of two inches from hinge to mouth, be not removed, under a penalty of fine, imprisonment, confiscation, or as the Legislature may enact, except oysters taken for planting in North Carolina."

We are not sure that we grasp the full meaning of the latter article, but will venture to say that it was not suggested by an oysterman, or one acquainted with the oyster business of our sounds.

We approve of a "culling" law, but many of our best oysters grow in bunches which are often covered with small oysters, less than two inches in length, adhering to the large oysters, the removal of which would break the shell and spoil both large and small.

"3. That a license tax of $3 a ton should be required of all boats engaged in taking oysters from the natural beds, except boats owned by residents twelve months preceding the act, and taking oysters for sale to private persons."

"Taking oysters for sale to private persons" we do not understand the meaning of, nor are we lawyer enough to say whether this discrimination between residents and non-residents in regard to license conflicts with the Inter-State Commerce act or not, but would say that of all the deliberations and suggestions of this oyster conference this is the most absurd, unreasonable and unjust to the residents of North Carolina, because they, and not outsiders, ought to have the full benefit of the oysters, and this law would open wide the door for all non-residents to carry off as large quantities of our oysters as they please without any restraint except the payment of this small license tax, which would amount on boats of from fifteen to thirty-five tons to from $45 to $100 for a year's license for dredging. This dredger, so licensed, might pay the amount mentioned by a few hours' work.

The fourth and fifth articles being lengthy and unimportant we will not quote, but would say that no wise body of men would pass a law without making provisions for executing the same.

"6. That owners of oyster establishments now in full operation or such as may hereafter be established shall have the same rights and privileges as residents."

This we approve of.
The editorial opinion of article the third is "that a license tax of two or three dollars upon non-residents would furnish a princely revenue, from which fund a police might be paid to execute the law upon such non-residents as attempted to take oysters from our waters without license."

It occurs to us that this is similar to a suggestion to enact a law requiring horse thieves to pay a license tax for the purpose of raising a fund for prosecuting those that steal without license.

We do not believe that one man out of one hundred residents of the State of North Carolina who are interested and understand the oyster business in its every feature in the waters of our State would sanction permitting non-residents to take oysters under any consideration.

Notice!
On account of the health of my family I am compelled to return to my plantation four miles from Pollockville, where I can be found at all times. Telephone messages will reach me at one o'clock. Dr. E. W. Ward, an experienced physician will take my place at Pollockville, and when necessary the services of both can be had.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castor.

The Campaign in North Carolina.

Under the above heading we find an article in the New York "Nation" of Dec. 11th. It is written by a correspondent from Chapel Hill and gives what we believe to be pretty nearly a true statement of the situation in the State. We quote:

"TO THE EDITOR OF THE NATION:
SIR: It may interest some of your readers to know that during the recent campaign quite a number of the more prominent Republicans of this State openly withdrew from their party, most of them alleging as the cause the McKinley bill and the Lodge Election bill. Again, during the election, a certain tool of the Administration, for the purpose of getting material in support of the Lodge bill, went down to one of the black counties to watch the election, and having been invited into the polling-place, was free to admit that he could see no unfairness."

It is also interesting to note that the negroes seem to have grown discontented with the control of the white Republican minority, and in some counties nominated tickets of their own, in others did not vote at all, and in others voted the Democratic ticket. In a certain township containing a large number of negroes, only one of them voted the Republican ticket, and he for only one candidate. If this beginning shall result in a more even distribution of the negro vote among the two parties, will it not do more towards settling the negro problem than the Lodge Bill?

Very truly,
W. M. LITTLE,
