TEN thousand farmers have left their farms in Kansas on account of the failure of crops.

THERE are 3318 abandoned farms in Maine, many of them with costly improvements.

ILLINOIS is very close. The Legislature stands 101 Democrats, 100 Republicans and 3 Alliance men.

A DELEGATION of braves is to visit "their great Father." Won't they be surprised when they see little Bennie?

ON Wednesday the Senate passed the Free Coinage bill, pure and simple, as a substitute for the Financial bill.

BOTH branches of the Colorado Legislature are working without rules and it seems to be a question of physical strength which shall prevail.

THEY tell us that the estate left by Miss Emma Abbott amounted to between six and seven hundred thousand dollars instead of several millions, as was expected.

"THE Durham Recorder has passed its three score years and ten and has added one more to the years of its pilgrimage." Yet it looks young and possesses vigor and strength.

THE statement is made that the new cruiser Philadelphia will have to be loaded with a few hundred tons of lead to bring her down so that she does not float too high in the water. Her centre of gravity is out and she's liable to turn bottom up without much provocation.

THE late contest in New Hampshire, for the Governorship was caused by there having been three candidates, no one of whom received a majority of the votes cast. This gave the election of a Governor to the Legislature and Tuttle, Republican, was elected.

It is announced that the Lincoln Banquet at Toledo Ohio on Feb. 12th, is to be a notable occasion. On that occasion Congressman McKinley will reply to ex-President Cleveland's speech at the Thurman banquet, Nov. 13. Mr. McKinley's toast will be: "An American Tariff for the American People."

In Nebraska all of the newly elected State officers are in possession of their offices except Boyd, Powers, the Alliance candidate, and the Legislature recognized him as Governor. Gov. Boyd has been recognized by all the new State officers as Governor and they report to him.

SHALS, quite a number of them, were sighted in the upper bay yesterday, and caused some excitement on Governor's and Ellie's Islands. It is thought they are a delegation which has come to protest against the abuse of their cousins in the Behring Sea by British poachers and American sneak thieves, who sail under the British flag in order to escape punishment.—Brooklyn Standard.

TWENTY THREE blast furnaces have shut down in the Shenango and Mahoning valleys of Pennsylvania and Ohio, throwing nearly 10,000 men out of work, and the reason given by furnace owners why they cannot continue operations under present conditions is the large amount of Southern iron now being shipped into that district.

THIS "takes the cake." At Kansas City, Jan. 9, W. R. Gregory was sent to jail for stealing a red hot stove, the oven of which was filled with biscuits. He sold it at a second hand store, biscuits and all, for $3.

C. E. SLOVER—Small hams, etc.

COTTON—New Berne Market—Sales of 8 bales at 8 to 8 1/2.

The Excelsior Hose Company are jubilant over the fact that they got the first stream of water on the fire yesterday.

A shipment of spinach was made yesterday over the E. C. D. line by Messrs. Hackburn & Willett. It is the first of the season and quite early.

A special train will leave here Sunday morning for the benefit of those wishing to attend the Fife meetings at Kinston. It will return at night, and the low rate of one dollar for the round trip has been secured.

From the high endorsement given Prof. Ford as an elocutionist, the Y. M. C. A. have been very fortunate in securing him. He will recite next Monday night for the benefit of the Association.

The very low rate of one cent per mile has been secured on all the railroads in the State to visit the New Berne Fair. This inducement, with the splendid and unique exhibition that is determined upon, promises to be rewarded with a larger attendance than on any previous occasion. The papers of the State are requested to announce in their columns the special railroad rates that have been secured.

The School Chronicle is a neat and attractive literary paper published under the auspices of the English Literature Class of the New Berne Collegiate Institute. It will be issued every two weeks under the following editorial management: Editor-in-Chief, Prof. J. S. Thomas; Literary, Misses Emma K. Jones and Hattie B. Lane; Personals, Miss Mary L. Hendren and Master Carlyle Hancock. Our best greetings to the sprightly and new little Chronicle.

We are pleased to announce that the account of Mr. M. Makely's killing a man who was taking oysters from his beds is entirely a mistake. Mr. Makely has been out of town, but not to Hyde county where his grounds are located; neither has there been any trouble on them. The story probably grew out of a difficulty that occurred between two oystermen in that vicinity over a week ago. One was taking oysters from a bed that was the property of the other and would not stop when ordered to do so and was shot by the owner of the bed and wounded—not killed.

Two gentlemen from New Jersey who have been engaged in oyster culture there and are experienced in the business came in on the steamer Neuse yesterday. They have been making an examination of the waters of Eastern Carolina with the expectation of engaging in the business here. They express themselves pleased with what they have seen, the only drawback being the unsettled state of legislation on that industry. They say laws should be enacted that would protect the beds, foster the cultivation of oysters and allow their sale in the best market, wherever that may be.

At Major Dennison's mill yesterday some cotton that was passing through the suction blower, which is the machine used to elevate it, ignited, it is supposed, from a match in it and quickly spread over the lint and seed cotton which was on the two upper floors of the building. Over half a dozen streams of water from the Major's waterworks were at once turned on and the firemen likewise were quickly at work and the fire was extinguished without anything being burned except some of the cotton. The greatest damage was from the water which flooded the building from top to bottom, wetting a good part of the cotton and the hundred tons of cotton seed which were on the lower floor. The damage is about four or five hundred dollars.

A High-Handed Outrage
Mr. John W. Jester, who keeps a store at Swan Quarter, Hyde county, about a quarter of a mile from his residence, was made the victim, Friday night, of an audacious robbery and of infamous treatment. The circumstances are these:

A short while before his closing two men came in his store and ascertained that there were two other men in the store besides the proprietor. They left then, saying they would be back in a little while to purchase some goods. Soon everybody left the store except Mr. Jester; then the two men who had entered the store a short time before came back accompanied by two others who remained outside. Only one man did any talking; he ordered a few groceries and handed out a ten-dollar bill for payment. Mr. Jester, standing behind his counter, took his money out of his pocket and leaned over by the lamp to make the change. At this time he was suddenly seized, violently jerked over the counter, a sack quickly thrown over his head, and his arms pinioned to his sides by a rope, and he was told that if he attempted any outcry his throat would be instantly cut.

Being taken by surprise and at a disadvantage, and only one man against four desperate characters, he concluded that discretion was the better part of valor and forebore resistance. His pockets were rifled and he was taken down to a boat and carried to the other side of the bay, and after having his hat, his pocket knife and empty pocket book returned to him, put ashore on a marsh. After wandering until after midnight he got out of the marsh into a dense tangled swamp, known as Bell Island woods, which abounds in mud and water, and through which it is almost impossible to force a way even by daylight. Here he remained until day enabled him to find his way home, where he arrived about ten o'clock in the morning. As he sometimes stayed at the store at night, he was not missed until morning.

The robbers secured $174 in bills besides the change that Mr. Jester had, and of which he does not know the amount.

The robbers appeared to be negroes, but it is believed that at least a portion of them were white men with their faces blacked. There seems to be but little chance of recovering the money or identifying the scoundrels.

Personal.
Mr. Makely returned home yesterday from a business trip to Alexandria, Va., Baltimore, Washington City and Tyrrell county. He has not been to his oyster grounds.

Rev. T. G. Wall, of New York, who was pastor of the New Berne Presbyterian church for several years immediately preceding the war, came in yesterday on the steamer Neuse, of the E. C. D. line, accompanied by his wife, for a visit to his old home. He will conduct the services at the Presbyterian church Sunday.

Mrs. J. A. Richardson left yesterday for a visit to her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Manning, of Durham.

Mr. Wm. C. Clark, of Rhode Island, who has been in the city settling the difficulties between the city and the Electric Light Company, left for Hampton, Virginia, to inspect the plant they have in that city.

Mr. Jasper Wood, who has been visiting relatives in the city, returned to New York.
Col. R. B. Creevy, editor and proprietor of the Elizabeth City Economist, came in on the steamer Neuse and left immediately for Raleigh. Col. Creevy takes great interest in the oyster industry, and we presume that while in Raleigh he will lend the aid of his information and experience in working out a satisfactory solution of the vexed question.

That Lullaby—The Oyster Excitement.
NEWBERNE, N. C.
EDITOR JOURNAL:—"My friend "E. B." gave my lullaby away. It was not written on the A. & N. O. R. R., despite the fact even of having several Bohemian mamas on board. As to crying, I've not cried since I cut my finger, but Roberts has—for more pies.

JIM THE SCRATCHER.
Since writing the above I've been out with your Local hunting up a live local over a dead subject—oyster pirates. My opinion the whole thing was gotten up to Bull the Legislature, and bring it to a sense of duty to pass laws that will protect the oyster beds, as your laws are now. We're open to many objections, and the State and the people are the sufferers.
JIM THE SCRATCHER.

COME TO OUR FAIR.

The time for our Annual Fair is now drawing near. This season there will be added many new and attractive features; among which is a fine race course, one of the best in the State. Taking it all in all, it will be the most varied, interesting and unique exhibit ever known in North Carolina. All of the exhibits heretofore made have excited the wonder and admiration of all visitors; but the approaching exhibit will be far more varied and interesting.

This Fair Association was gotten up for the purpose of showing to the world what a great country Eastern Carolina is by far the best part of the State. Nature has been wonderfully lavish in her gifts to this section. She has given us a mild climate, rich soil, and unexcelled beds of marl; it abounds in vast forests of timber, we can raise profitably every variety of cereals known and nearly all of the fruits and vegetables of the temperate zone. We have the greatest variety of fish in the world, and the finest oysters. We want visitors, we want the surrounding counties to bring in their exhibits and contend for the prizes. We suggest that the members of the Farmers' Alliance lend us a helping hand, as it is an institution in which they are as much interested as any portion of our people, and if they would devote the same energies to the building up of the Fair Association as they have in exposing corruption in high places, we would be grateful, for then the success of the Fair would be assured.

We have a great country, and we want the world to know it. We want visitors from the North, East, West and South. We want to show the visitors from the western part of the State that we live in a country that can supply them with vegetables when their section is wrapped in snow and ice, and lands upon which three crops a year are made, and also the best tobacco lands in the State. We want them to visit a county of twenty-five thousand people that has only eight drug stores and twelve practicing physicians, who often practice in the adjoining counties. We want to show them a town whose death rate among the white population is less than any other town or village in the United States. We want to show them our plate factory, our immense oyster canning factories that can handle five thousand bushels each of oysters a day. We want them to see our immense steam saw mills that send fifty million feet of lumber a year to the north as Wisconsin, as far east as Maine, and as far south as South America. And we are very desirous that they should visit the magnificent trucking farms of Dunn, Willett and Hackburn, Wadsworth, Cox Street, Yeomans, Meadows, Crockett and others; and also the farm of J. L. Rhem, the largest truck farm in the United States. And ere they leave this, the best portion of North Carolina, we want them to become acquainted with the excellent, ubiquitous, persevering and industrious Secretary and Treasurer of the Association, Mr. Chas. Reizenstein.

"The Two Johns."

"The Two Johns"—that is John C. Green, of New Berne, and John J. Royal, of Morehead, were in the city yesterday, for several hours, the trains being delayed, en route for Raleigh, en delegates to the State Grand Lodge of Masons. "John C." had been to Goldsboro before—as Argus readers will remember, he is the man who got scared at the great "coal burner" locomotive and heavy watermelon train passing through here one day last summer. Well, John C. yesterday took John J. out to show him the place where the great trains run through on the Atlantic Coast Line, and lo, while he was yet telling what big "injuns" and heavy trains run on this line, behold ones of them loomed up in the distance—"a coming," and the "Two Johns" got a move on them at once to a safe distance on Walnut street, where they collided with the barbecue stand in their retreat. The sight of the tempting brown barbecue, in clean, white trays, so luscious in vinegar, bedecked with red pepper, and hedged in with corn bread, raised their appetites above their fear, and they "stopped for dinner." When they settled their bill they gave the barbecue vendor an extra twenty-five cents not to tell L. H. Cutler or "Joe Argus" where they got their dinner, as they "didn't want the boys down the road to get hold of it." And then they came around to the front again, where John C. made the statement publicly that they had a new revenue cutter down in New Berne, "the Winona," that could take the shine off anything that Goldsboro could trot out." At this juncture the train for Raleigh started and the "Two Johns" got aboard.—Goldsboro Argus.

The End of the Indian War Not Far Off.
PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., VIA RUSHVILLE, NEB., Jan. 14.—Reported uneasiness among young bucks in the hostile camp last evening kept the troops in fighting trim all night, but an outbreak did not occur. Gen. Carr's command camped at headquarters on Wounded Knee last night, and will march into the Mission today and join Gen. Brooke. The circle is drawing close about the hostiles, and the settlement of affairs, of whatever nature, cannot be far distant, but how this will be brought about can only be conjectured, and it is doubtful if even the commanding officer knows what the step will be.

This morning Little Wound, Little Hawk, Crow Dog and Old Calico came in from the hostiles to talk with Gen. Miles under the escort of Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Horses. Other chiefs are expected. This council is progressing satisfactorily.

Colonel Corbin, Assistant Adjutant General, announced that the chiefs have assented to surrender up their arms, and that the latter will probably be brought in tonight or tomorrow.
