Until this survey is concluded no title will be valid until signed by Col. Lucas, and he says that time, money or effort exnended in the attempt to secure a title to the natural beds will be lost. He feels no respect for those who would trangress or evade the law. He is posted on the subject and fully determined to baffle all attempted evasions Presbyterian Church-Services at 11 of the law. He says further there shall .m. Sunday-school at 8:15 p.m. The be no dredging next season, and it will offenders.

Col. Lucas is familiar with matters pertaining to the oyster industry, and is interested in its protection and development. He possesses clear ideas, strong will-power and a fearlessness in dealing with both persons and issues that eminently qualifies him for the position he holds, and while he is chief shell-fish commissioner, there will be but little chance to come in conflict with any provision of the oyster law and escape
