PRESIDENT HARRISON should receive the attention to which his position entitles him, but the press dispatches from Cape May are disgusting. Just think of the great dailies publishing such miserable stuff as "the President met Baby McKee and walked home with him."

ALL Europe is looking longingly to the wheat fields of the United States. Last year many hoped that South America would help supply the deficit, especially the Argentine Republic, but today no mention is made of these countries, all hope is built upon the United States' harvest. The fact, as recently stated, is that the bread of Europe must come from America.

SECRETARY BLAINE in an interview with an Associated Press reporter at Bar Harbor, says the sensational reports about his bad health are lies. Those who are circulating the reports are Harrison Republicans and it is pleasant to hear Mr. Blaine denounce them as liars. Blaine may do the Democracy and the country some good after all. He pitched into the McKinley bill without gloves and now he gives the Administration a black eye.

THE Republicans admit now that Mr. Tilden was the strongest candidate for the Presidency in 1880, but Hancock was taken and the Democrats were slaughtered. They played into the hands of the enemy and chose the weaker candidate. In 1892, they may repeat the act of hark-kiri. They may overlook the strong candidate and put in another man whom the Republicans may defeat. There are people talking up Hill and Carlele and Pettison and Campbell, and yet it seems to us that an overwhelming majority of the voters have their eyes turned to Mr. Cleveland. - Wil. Messenger.

The grading of the business portion of Middle street is nearly completed. The work appears to be thorough and is much more attractive. It is now to be coated with a layer of shell marl as an experiment, which formation, it is thought, will act as effectively as concrete. Should it prove successful the other most important streets will be similarly dealt with until New Berne has a perfect system of streets.

We have seen a copy of the fourth issue of the Bible Reader, a new, bright, neatly printed, undenominational religious paper, designed to aid in and incite to the study of God's Word. Will Move to New Berne. Mr. L. Scheltz, proprietor of the dry goods store recently opened in the Duffy building, corner of Pollock and Middle streets, has determined to make New Berne his home. He returned yesterday to his home in Elizabeth City and will come back with his family in about two weeks. Before leaving here he rented a residence and leased the store now occupied by Mr. Henry L. Hall, book seller, and Mrs. M. J. Rhodes, milliner; these will be thrown into one for Mr. Scheltz' dry goods store. He will, however, still retain his present stand and run a grocery business there.

The Oriental Fair. The premium list of the Second Annual Oriental and Industrial Fair is out and contains a complete list of the various articles usually to be seen at Fairs. Their first Fair was held last year and proved quite a success, and reflected much credit upon the colored race in this section. In this industrial move they should receive encouragement and assistance as much as possible.

We are requested to announce that in the list of special premiums the name of Mr. E. B. Hackburn, the grocer, and the premium offered by him, were unintentionally omitted. He will give a handsome bowl and pitcher to the colored merchant making the best display of merchandise.

ANOTHER FACTORY STARTED.

The Ice Factory at Work - First-Class Equipments - Bright Outlook.

New Berne is still striding forward. One more industry - the factory of the New Berne Ice Company - is started on a solid foundation with all the machinery new and of the best and latest improved make.

The factory freezes by the agency of anhydrous ammonia, and the ice is made from water distilled by the York Manufacturing Company's patented process.

The machinery consists of a compressor, steam and ammonia condenser or distiller, a cold water tank, and a brine tank in which are 168 cans containing the fresh water ready to be frozen, and a 60 horse power boiler which furnishes steam to the compressor and distiller.

We will now follow the water in its travels from the start to the finished product.

The water comes from a well bored for the purpose through the strata of rock that underlies the city, which proves that all surface water is excluded. The water is pure, cool and delicious. A pump raises it from this well into the ammonia condenser; then another pump puts it into the boiler where it is converted into steam; it then goes through the distiller, where it is partially converted into water again, and then it goes through a trap which completes the change and separates all gases and other impurities from the water if any are there, releasing them and retaining the pure water perfectly sweet and clear.

From the trap it is conveyed into the cooler, where the temperature is reduced to about 40 degrees Fahrenheit before it is put into the cans to be frozen. These cans are kept in their place in the brine tank and filled with cold water by means of hose connected with the cooler, and after the ice is frozen each can is lifted out and immersed for a brief period in a hot bath to thaw the blocks of ice free from the cans.

The blocks of ice measure 14x14x36 inches, and will be sold for 200 pound ones, though they actually weigh from 205 to 210 pounds.

The 168 cans hold nearly 17 tons of ice, but it takes 48 hours to make the ice after it is begun, and to give a daily supply the work is so arranged that half the contents or eight tons of ice can be taken out each day.

Connected with the factory is a good size refrigerator or cold storage room kept about the freezing point for the convenience of all who wish to keep butter, meat or other articles stored there.

An ice factory gives a luxury cheap, and even if the manufactured ice was not cheaper than the natural article it would still be preferable, for whatever impurities are in the latter are frozen in it, while in ice manufactured by this process if any impurities were in the water they would be removed before being frozen, leaving the ice perfectly pure, sparkling, and tasteless, and in addition to that the water this factory uses is good and pure to begin with.

The amount of capital invested in the plant is $15,000. The officers of the factory are Wm. Dunn, president; Jas. Redmond, vice-president; Chas. Reizendstein, secretary and treasurer and general manager; and Messrs. G. N. Ives and P. H. Pelletier in connection with the officers named constitute the board of directors.

The factory starts under very favorable auspices for these reasons: there is a demand for it; the machinery is the best for the purpose that is made, and the stockholders, officers and directors are home capitalists who have been successful in their several vocations. They are among the best of our business men, sound, well-informed, wide-awake and progressive. These are the reasons not only for hoping but confidently believing that a prosperous future is before the New Berne Ice Company. Long may it flourish! On such enterprises as this the future growth and prosperity of the city in a large measure depends.

A Runaway. Quite a commotion was created on Middle street by the running away of a horse with Mr. J. J. Tolson's grocery dray yesterday while loaded with empty barrels. The driver, Solomon Askew, colored, who was on them was thrown off and badly hurt by the jar but no bones broken. The dray struck an electric light pole and broke, releasing itself all but the shafts from the horse which continued on his way for some distance farther, sustaining slight damages himself.

The cause of the runaway was the beating of drums by colored boys carrying a banner advertisement through the street and we are told they did not desist when they saw the horse was frightened. There ought to be some way of reaching any one thus offending.

NEW BERNE.

Her Workers and Business Men.

NUMBER SIX.

The Old Dominion Steamship Company is every where noted for the excellence of its service. The line is continuous from New Berne to New York. The staunch and elegant steamer Newberne plies from here to Norfolk under the command of the efficient Quarter-deck Captain Southgate.

All who have ever had the pleasure of going over this route speak in its praise. The varied scenes along the rivers, through sounds and canals are enjoyable and exhilarating to travelers and those in seek of pleasure and recreation.

Capt. E. B. Roberts, the genial agent at this point, informs us that the patronage of his line is large and steadily increasing both in passengers and freights.

The imports for 1890 amounted in tonnage to 9,158,430 pounds. Exports in tonnage to 23,510,826 pounds. They were, cotton 12,390 bales, naval stores 9,000 barrels, lumber one million feet, shingles two hundred and fifty thousand, together with fish and cotton seed oil, staves, rice and all other merchandise exported to northern ports.

The truck shipment for 1890 amounted to about 25,000 packages - peas, beans, potatoes, cukes, squashes, tomatoes, etc., while the truck shipments for this season of 1891 amounted to about 35,000 packages already and more to come.

The Atlantic and North Carolina railroad is the chief artery that sends the life blood through this section of the State to the coast. It is impossible to estimate its value to New Berne, but all business men know the advantages of rapid transit, and this the road furnishes. Farmers, merchants, and people of all classes recognize their obligations to it for increased facilities for shipments, attention to passengers and the careful handling of freights. Cars have been constructed with special reference, to the trucking interest, in which care is taken to secure proper ventilation, and trains are kept through to the northern cities with promptness and dispatch and the time in which goods are in transit has been greatly reduced. We are pleased to chronicle the fact that the road is in splendid condition. Notwithstanding the fact that passenger and freight rates have been reduced, the receipts of the road are larger than at any former period in its history.
