HOLD Mr. McKinley down to the tariff and his own monstrosity will destroy him.

THE Republican office holding South is said to be solid for a second term all around.

THE contract for the administration building for the World's fair has been let at Chicago. It will cost $278,492.

A CONVENTION is in session at Roanoke, Va., to take definite steps to have Virginia represented at the World's fair.

NEW ORLEANS has raised $1,318,111 for the Davis monument. Now that the place for it has been decided, let everybody work for it.

THE canal at Columbia, S. C., has been sold to Prince & Co., of Boston, for $260,000. About $1,000,000 has been expended by the State in the construction of this canal.

THE real objection of the Republican papers to the Farmers' Alliance is that this pervasive and powerful organization is allied with the Democratic party upon the main issues of the day.

THOSE persons who do not agree with Gov. Campbell on political lines cannot but admire his fighting qualities. His nomination by such an overwhelming majority indicates that the opposition within the party lines has been largely exaggerated and magnified.

THE Democratic Convention of Ohio renominate Campbell for Governor, and adopted a platform that favors the free coinage of silver and gold, a tariff for Government needs only and an income tax, and denounces the extravagance of the Billion Congress, the tariff and the Force bill.

LADIES who have to run house holds and buy tin-ware can make up their minds here after to pay double the prices they have been accustomed to pay. The McKinley tariff taxes on tin-plate went into effect July 1st, and now the tax will be $2.20 per 100 pounds instead of $1 as heretofore. Dealers and speculators who have had nine months' warning of this increase have been busy importing all the tin-plate they could buy under the old rate. What will be the loss of the householders and users of tin will therefore be their gain, and while the former will have to exercise greater economy than ever to make both ends meet, the latter will daily grow fatter and richer. In the meantime the Government will not get one cent.

THE Augusta, (Ga.) Chronicle notes the advent into Georgia of Senator Peffer, Congressman Simpson and Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease, and says: "There is no use in mincing matters about these third-party apostles, and we think that they come to Georgia with one object in view, and that is to gain converts to the People's party, and thus impair, if not destroy, the unity and strength of the Democratic party. All Democrats should unite as one man to put down this new crusade against the integrity of the Democratic party, which is the only hope of the Southern people for honest government. Our people should not play the fool now and throw away upon mere abstractions and distractions the only chance the Democratic party will probably have in many years to regain possession of the Federal Government."

THE OLD, OLD STORY.

Wants Information as to correct Spelling of the City's Name.

Mr. Henry Gannett, chairman of the United States Executive Committee on geographical names, being puzzled by the various ways in which he has seen the name of this city spelled has been seeking information as to which is the correct one. His letter of inquiry addressed to the city clerk was turned over to Mr. W. H. Oliver to answer and he replied taking the position that as it was, prior to the war, officially written as one word without a final e, "Newbern," and that the original city charter had it that way and that the same style was used in the old laws of North Carolina of which he owns a compilation extending from 1715 to 1793, that therefore "Newbern" is the legal name and no other way should be used unless a change is made by the legislature.

The original charter of the city did designate it "Newbern" but as our readers are aware it is extremely seldom that it is so written now. The prevailing orthography is to make it two words with a final e "New Bern."

Postmaster W. E. Clarke and his predecessor Mr. Matt Manly inform us that the address on nearly every letter that comes to this office has it as two words and that the majority of them use the final e. The letters being addressed in this way shows quite conclusively how our people spell it, for of course, their correspondents as a rule copy after them and as custom has established this way so thoroughly that natural inference is that it is the preferred way.

We do not intend to go into any discussion of this matter. It has been fully argued in the past and we believe our citizens understand the matter and have made their decision and that very few of them indeed wish to use the name as one word.

The city was named after the capital of Switzerland. As we stated, a letter of invitation was received some time ago for a delegation from here to attend the celebration of the 700th anniversary of its founding. The orthography used in spelling the name of the two cities in that document throws some light on whether a final e should be used or not.

Its own name occurs on the letter head in the Swiss language. It is then used without the final e "Bern." In the body of the letter, written in English, it is put "Berne" and the name of our city is put "New Bern."

Why do they make this distinction in the name name in the two languages? Because "Bern" is the Swiss form of the word and "Berne" is the English form, just as the Italian city "Venitia" becomes Venice when anglicized and the people of Berne, Switzerland understand that fact and act upon it.

We are also told that the two highest authorities in the United States, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and the Secretary of State for the United States make precisely the same difference according as they use the word in English or Swiss.

We would like to see everybody using one way and it seems to us the easiest way for this to be accomplished is for the few to come over to the way in general use, but while we have our preference in the matter we are willing to abide by whatever method all will adopt if a determination can be reached.

The Episcopal Rectory.

The Episcopalians are preparing to build their rectory. We have seen the plans of the building as designed by Mr. H. W. Simpson, architect. It will measure a little over 43 feet each way, excluding the piazzas, which will be of varying width, but averaging 12 feet.

The first story will have four rooms, parlor, sitting-room, rector's study and dining-room.

A vestibule with nooks on each side will lead into the hall, which will be large with eastlake stairs finished in black walnut. An arch will divide the main hall from the servants' hall, and rear stairs will lead from the latter to the second story.

The second floor will have four bedrooms (all supplied with closets), a hall room, and a bath-room supplied with all modern conveniences.

The attic will be roomy and will have twin dormer windows and a triple window in the main front gable.

The building will be in the Queen Anne style of architecture, handsome and conveniently arranged, costing $4,500.

Men Who Hurt a Town.

An exchange pictures out the men who hurt a town in the following pointed paragraphs:

Who never push their business.

Who disrupt public spirited men.

Who run down their town to strangers.

Who oppose everything that does not originate with them.

Who wear long faces when strangers speak of locating in a town.

Who refuse to subscribe toward the building of churches and schools.

Who find fault with all enterprises with which they are not connected.

Who oppose every public enterprise that is not likely to be of pecuniary benefit to themselves.

Who never subscribe, advertise in or in any way patronize their home paper, and are always ready to find fault with everything it contains.

TAKEN AT HIS WORD.

An Ouslow Assessor Makes His Man Take Water.

A gentleman returning from Onslow tells us how one of the assessors in that county got the best of his man and brought him to repentance.

Mr. A. is known as one of the best citizens in the county and not a man to swerve from what he conceives to be his duty, consequently he was selected by the commissioners as one of the assessors of that county.

Mr. B. has a farm previously assessed at $2000. A comes along for the new assessment. The farm appears to him to be much undervalued and he runs it up to $3000. This very much displeases B. and he undertakes to argue why his land should not be raised, telling A. that it was not worth it and that no man would think of giving that sum for it.

Besides being a man of recognized judgement, A. is also possessed of some means and consents to relieve B. of his overvalued property at the new rating.

B. is also a man of considerable pluck, and with the exception of a little quickening in his respiration he coolly announces it a trade, of course hoping to make a back down. But A. was not built that way and he at once proceeded to draw up writings of ownership.

B's pluck had all busted by this time and he began to plead like a little tin soldier.

B. got his farm back but A. is $100 better off.

Wonder will Craven bear scrutiny.

IRATE COLORED VOTERS.

Ex-Senator Bruce's Political Mission to Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 15.—The colored voters are all stirred up here about the unexpected advent of ex-Senator Bruce, who was sent out by the administration from Washington, to find out why there was so much anti-Harrison sentiment developing in Indiana. He was here for several days and left last night.

The prominent colored men say that his mission was a failure, and some regard it as a very great piece of impertinence. The editor of the Freeman, the colored organ, on being asked if Bruce tried to influence the colored press in behalf of Harrison, said that he could answer that question but would not; but that Bruce's mission here was in the interest of the administration.

The opposition to Harrison, as developed in interviews with prominent negro leaders, is startling, and they cry that if he is nominated the colored voters will not vote for him; that they will simply stay away from the polls.

PANIC AT A CIRCUS.

A Lion Escapes and the Crowd Proceeds to Sell to the Lion.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., July 15.—A panic occurred at yesterday's performance of Forepaugh's circus. There were 6,000 persons in attendance, when a lion in some manner got out of its cage, and the immense crowd rushed for the street. Fortunately no one was killed in the wild rush to escape, but several were seriously injured. The lion did not get very far away from his cage, as the employees easily drove him under his wagon, where he was held by loose pieces of iron fence until the crowd could depart.

Selling Out at Cost.

Now is the time to make your purchases for Dry Goods and Notions. Owing to the large stock to be procured this fall, the balance of goods on hand must be disposed of positively at cost to make room for my goods.
