ON tomorrow, Sunday the 6th inst., the editorial columns of the JOURNAL will contain General Gordon's address to Confederate veterans. Read it and give it to your neighbors to read.

WITH flat money, there is no use of the government collecting any revenue at all. Taxation can be abolished. Simply let the federal government print enough flat money to pay the salaries of its office holders and all its other expenses.

UPON hearing of Dr. Sanderlin's injuries at Statesville, the Lodge of Knights of Pythias, of Raleigh, of which order he is a member, at once telegraphed the Mayor of Statesville requesting that every attention be rendered Dr. Sanderlin and stating that they would pay all cost of the same.

SECRETARY PROCTOR, who has been appointed United States Senator from Vermont to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Kimbuda, enjoys the reputation among his colleagues of being "the Lincoln of Vermont." He gets this honorable title because of his clear, practical sense, his sense of justice and right and his naturally serious mind, lightened by a keen sense of humor.

THE last number of the Southern Historical Papers, published at Richmond, may well be called a North Carolina number. It contains Gen. Cox's address on the services of Gen. S. D. Ramseur; Col. Bennett's address on General Junius Daniel; a communication from Gen. W. P. Roberts in regard to the surrender of his brigade, and several articles by Gen. James H. Lane in regard to the North Carolina troops under his command.

AS time progresses the fearful havoc made by Confederate bullets upon the Federal armies becomes more and more apparent. Commissioner Rann has already granted about 700,000 claims for pensions, and says he has 900,000 more on file. Of these latter he says, fully half a million are original claims. Every man, woman and child capable of carrying a musket in the South during the war must have winged a Yankee.—Phil. Record.

A GREENSBURG mother, while chastising her twelve-year old son yesterday, exploded several packages of toy-pistol caps which were concealed in the boy's hip pocket. When the smoke had cleared away she discovered that the family was out one suit of boy's clothing and had a badly-lacerated youth to care for. This is another warning to mothers to make sure their sons are not loaded before applying the paddle. You are liable to find almost anything in a boy's pocket.—Pittsburg Commercial.

LOCAL NEWS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
M. Hahn & Co., horses and mules.
W. M. Watson, notice.
D. Congdon & Co., lumber etc.,
Big Ike, cotton gins.

Evangelist Fife will commence a series of meetings at Clinton September 13th.

The Wilmington Star reports the greatest freshet on record in the Cape Fear river and that another is on its way down. Lowland crops are ruined.

The season for summer pleasure travel being virtually over the parlor car on the A. & N. C. R. R. has been taken off temporarily. It will be resumed however during the State Exposition.

A shipment of mineral water and various kinds of light drinks were shipped from Charlotte by W. M. Hawkins for the colored fair but from some cause they did not arrive until the fair had closed.

Goldboro has purchased an improved road machine for improving the streets. It arrived there Wednesday. New Berne's road machine is expected soon. Progressive ideas are coming to the front in North Carolina cities.

Mr. M. M. Ipack, late clerk at Mr. Alex. Miller's has started in business for himself at the foot of the macadamized road in the building formerly owned and occupied by Mr. W. E. Snellings which Mr. Ipack has just bought and moved to its present position.

Men may as well expect to grow stronger by always eating, as wiser by always reading. Too much overcharges nature, and turns men into disease than nourishment. It is thought, which is mental digestion, which makes books serviceable, and gives health and vigor to the mind.

The Goldboro Argus says: "The eight annual Fair of the Eastern Carolina Fair and Stock Association, which comes off Sept. 15, 16 and 17, bids fair to be a grand success. Already eighteen race horses have arrived and are quartered at the Fair grounds. A force of hands are at work putting up new stables. The management are trying to engage a game of ball each day of the Fair between one of the crack clubs of this and some other State, which will be a novel attraction at our Fair."

Mr. Eugene Tucker was telling some very fine puns on the street yesterday of the Duchess De Angouleme variety. They are as fine as we ever have seen in this market and were sought after at sixty cents per dozen. This section is well adapted to the growth of this delicious fruit. Pear trees take several years to begin bearing, but once started they will bear profusely until they are fifty years. Is not it worth while for any farmer to have an orchard of this choice fruit that is always in demand?

More Singular Still.
We previously announced how queer it was that exchanges in newspaper offices were so much considered as public property but a subscriber thinks that it is even more singular how some people can be so bold as to regularly borrow their paper, and come times even before they, the subscriber, gets a chance to read it.

Both of these evils are bad enough but the worst of all, and that which is most singular is the man who never takes the paper himself, but relies upon borrowing from his good-natured neighbor just to see how poor or mean the paper is. He doesn't like the editor nor the paper and most often the town in which it is published. He only wishes to look at it to try and find something to complain of or sneer at.

If any one of those who habitually sponge on their neighbors should see this, and we believe they will, we would suggest they subscribe and pay for it and get a little ground to kick on when the paper does not suit his individual taste.

More Manufacturing Must Come.
We are glad to note the success of the Scotland Neck cotton mills. The increases in the number of operators has demanded putting up a large number of residences and the products of the mills are rapidly finding sales in new territory. Their goods have found their way in the New Berne market. Our nearer neighbor, the Kinston hose factory is running on time and turning out some good work. This factory is a splendid two-story brick structure, comfortably and neatly furnished, and owned and managed by Kinston business men.

Riverboat Accident.
The Pivendale Alliance building is nearly finished. It is a good building, 25x40. The meetings will be held on the upper floor and the lower one will be used for an alliance store. It is intended to supply almost every article a farmer wants.

Prior to the railroad accident near Statesville in which State Auditor Sanderlin sustained some injury he had been invited and had accepted the invitation of this alliance to deliver an address at its barbecue and picnic on the 19th inst. He has not communicated with the alliance since that time but it is expected that he will be present.

Why Is It Allowed?
Mr. Editor—I ask permission in your valuable paper to call attention to the proper authorities to abate a nuisance at the depot upon the arrival of the afternoon train which is a disgrace to any town or city in this enlightened age.

The negroes around the gateway when passengers leave the station are yelling and grabbing at strangers, ladies not excepted, should not be tolerated.

A scene witnessed yesterday afternoon would have aroused the ire of any gentleman. A young lady alighted from the cars and passed out of the gate and was immediately pounced upon by the mob referred to, and but for the timely assistance of one of our prominent citizens I am afraid she would have presented a dilapidated appearance. A visitor regrets the occasion that demand a protest, but such is the case.

HIS ESCAPE A MIRACLE.
The Experience of a Dawillian in the North Carolina Railroad Disaster.

Charles E. Bailey, a citizen of this Western North Carolina Railroad city, who was in the disaster on the Thursday, reached home yesterday. He says he cannot tell how he climbed up the embankment. All of his clothing torn from his person into tatters. He has a scalp wound three inches in length, a piece of flesh the size of a fifty cent piece was torn from his arm to the bone, and was bruised from hip to hip. He has blackened bruises on other portions of the body. He was continually writhing and vomiting yesterday. He was asleep and was awakened by the cars bumping on the ties. Bailey declares his escape nothing but a miracle, yet he is badly injured.—Ex.

AT REST OVER THERE.

Our community was deeply pained on Wednesday to hear that the good and excellent wife of that pure and blameless and upright christian gentleman Mr. John Hutchinson had passed away from the scenes of earth, and had entered the hushed realm of the Eternal Beyond. Though she had been in ill health for a number of years, and was almost as frail as the dew drops upon the flowers, yet no one dreamed that the end was so near, and when the announcement of her eternal departure was made it sent a shock to the hearts of all who knew her shining worth, and prized her sterling virtues. She was a fine woman, and had many attractive and lovable traits of character. We know her well, and when in her view we always found her ready for the interchange of those bright halos of fun and delightful pleasures which made her company so delightful and attractive. But alas, her career has ended, the heart has ceased to beat, the hands are folded across the pulseless breast, and she sleeps the dreamless slumber of the grave. We deeply sympathize with the affectionate and most loyal husband in the bitter bereavement which has thus shut out the sunlight from his dark and desolate home. We sympathize with her noble and devoted son, and that kind and loving daughter in that utter desolation of feeling and overwhelming anguish which follows the death of a mother, and leaves the heart in the rayless deeps of faithless grief and sorrow. Only those who have stood at the grave of a mother, know the bitterness and the fury and the agony of these wild, passionate, seething billows of anguish that sweep over the wildly tossing ocean of such a dark and bitter bereavement. Let them also know that while this grief-stricken soul is sad and pained, it is not amid the drooping willows of death, yet through the beams of halcyon life's consolation will be made, a radiant stream of cheer and hope will pour out in silver lustre a bright rainbow of sweetest consolation will span the now wildly throbbing sea of sorrow, and above the roar of his sobbing billows will be heard the soothing words "He giveth his beloved sleep."

With this assurance then we will not even attempt, when the temple of anguish is so widely raged, to soothe the torn and lacerated heart, for well we know that words of consolation cannot calm the stormy beatings of that wild grief which sweeps through the bosom when a loved one is torn from its fond and tender embrace. The bursting cloud spends its rain, and the ever bright and beautiful gleams of cheering sunshine, its grief must dissolve in tears, and then the soft, milky golden sunlight of the Christian faith will lend its cheering and glowing gleams of resignation to the with its brightened rays a radiance of comfort and blessed cheer shall break at moments of earth's gloom and sorrow. Yes, there is a light able to even the darkest shadows, and for the comfort of general grief, we are offering 1000 beautiful copies of every issue of the present Light—1000 copies of the great white Throne of God, and brighten with its lustre even the portals of the tomb.

The funeral took place on Friday morning from the residence of her beloved husband, and a large number of the most prominent citizens turned out to pay sincere tribute to her memory. The services were conducted by her first pastor, the Rev. Mr. Willis, aided by the Rev. Mr. Cole, the Rev. Mr. Battle and the Rev. Mr. McAnn. As the deceased joined the church at Statesville under the ministry of Mr. Willis, and through his earnest preaching was led to seek the pearl of great price, it was fitting that she should desire him to conduct the last sad rites at her burial. And so this good man of God came to her sleeping clay and made some appropriate and impressive remarks pertinent to the sad occasion. After his remarks were concluded and after the reading of some beautiful hymns, all that was mortal of a good woman was borne to the great City of the Dead under the escort of the following gentlemen who acted as Pall Bearers: Judge Connor, G. W. Bennett, G. D. Green, J. F. Braton, F. A. Woodard, E. M. Nadal, A. B. Deans and C. A. Young.—Wilson Mirror.

The Star's Comment's on Tobacco in the East.

The Wilmington Star in giving our item on the successful results of Messrs. Hackburn & Willitt's experiment in tobacco culture goes on to say:

Further eastward the culture of tobacco is practiced. This opens up a new source of profit to the farmers of that section, and one which cannot be easily overestimated, for it offers something which, combined with truck-growing, promises good returns whether the truck patch pans out well or not. With the demonstrated success in tobacco, truck and fruit-growing the farmers in Eastern North Carolina may let cotton alone and look confidently to the future.
