COTTON-New Berne Market - Sales esterday 179 bales at 7 1-4 to 7.85.

The number of houses under construction and contract in New Berne is unprecedented, and we have reliable information that there is more than double that number of applications to rent them. This speaks loud words for our city, and all worthy citizens who see fit to cast their lot here will not only find a hearty welcome but will also find as good a people as inhabits the globe.

Cards are out for the marriage of Rev. C. G. Vardell, pastor of the New Berne Presbyterian Church, to Miss Linds Lee, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. Rumple, of Salisbury, on the 27th inst.; also for the marriage of Mr. Robert D. Servosse, of Brooklyn, to Miss Eleanor B, Schenck, of the same city, on the 28th inst. Miss Schenck is a relative of Mr. Enoch Wadaworth's and with other members of her family has spent some time in New Berne and IMPROVED ROADS.

The people of this section strongly of familiarity. They become accustomed to the bad holes and the deep mud over and through which they often pass and by through continued contact what at first appeared and truly is a frightful and unnecessary annoyance and obstruction to public travel, gradually loses some of its hideousness by famil-

Much attention is paid to roads in countries of the old world. "In England the country roads are so good that a single horse can pull a vehicle with two passengers and a driver more than forty miles a day and do it with ease. On the continent of Europe the same thing is true, and the roads are put down with curbs, the gutters are paved and the drainage is perfect.

The Norfolk Landmark calls attention to these things, and forcibly contracts leaf represents one dollar and may then them in general with the present roads of the United States and more particularly of its own State. It says it knows of no subject more important to the cent received in lieu thereof and saving State of Virginia now not even excepting the State debt, than good roads. It then goes on to say:

"Suppose that we had public roads like those we have described in the old country. What a land this would be. What the delights of travel would be. What would be the increase in values to our lands? What would be the attractions to desirable immigration? It is impossible to calculate the advantage our State would derive from such a change. Our farmers would save more by such roads, after paying the expense of building them and repairing them than is now taken away by the regular taxes and the tariff combined. There is no exaggeration in saying this. Our people do not appreciate at all what they lose in the way of time and wear tear of farming vehicles by the wretched highways over which they are bound to conduct their business. Every newspaper in the State should be talk ing about this matter. Every preacher in the State should be invoking the attention of his congregations to this vital subject. Every public speaker on the hustings should be giving a part of his discourse to it. Every grand jury and every judge should be giving it consid-eration. The General Assembly, when comes together again, should take the subject up with earnestness '

Another exchange goes so far as to keep flying at its mast head: "This paper will not support any candidate for the Legislature unless he announces his intention to advocate some measure for the improvement of the roads."

These extracts, with news items we have recently given indicate what an awakening is taking place in the South on this subject. Are North Carolinians content to be less progressive on this have secured. One of our furniture line than people of neighboring States? of different grades, some of it elegant, them?
