Warning to Timber Owners.

We have repeatedly noted the vast drawing upon the timber supply of North Carolina. The quantities that have been purchased by speculators and transported from our borders has been astounding, and still there is no abatement in the traffic. The loaned out to its members more than to a Roston company 200 000 trees, poplar, cucumber, ash, linden, etc., for $2 50 a tree standing located on a West Virginia tract. The Philadelphia com-pany will get more out of the trees than the land cost them. The Boston com-pany will double the value of the timber before putting it on the market. West Virginia is not only left completely out but has to submit to the denuda tion over a great tract, thus increasing liability to freshets and drouths and taking at a swoop s large amount of wealth out of her boundaries. There will come a time when the State Gov ernments will be forced to interfere to protect the people from the danger and damage involved in this sort of traffic."

Mrs. Hawkins came down without injury, and so did the dog.
