Enforcing Sunday Laws.

THAT the size of a city presents no obstacles to the enforcement of Sunday laws, when such laws are supported by the public sentiment of the community in which they exist, is shown by the fact that the city of London—the largest city in the world, containing as it does a population greater than any State in the United States with the exception of New York-strictly enforces the laws intended to prevent the transaction of business on Sunday. Mr George W. Ochs, of Chat-anooga, who is traveling in Great Britain, has recently written a letter to the Times, of that city, in which, referring to the observance of Sunday laws in Great Britain, and on the Continent, he 8ay8:

Sunday in London is very different from what we in America are accustomed to. One would suppose that it would be totally impossible to enforce a Sunday law in a city of $5,000,000 inhabitants, but it is not Everything is closed tight in London and there is no "back door business." Every theatre, gallery, museum, store, shop, saloon and resort is shut, and shut tight, from midnight Saturday until Monday morning, and very many of the trains cease running.

No newspapers are issued on Sunday-not even the Times. The only rlaces open on Sunday are the cigar trains and freights do not run and the city and country are as quiet as the grave. The business streets are entirely deserted, and in the central part of the city not a sound is heard and scarcely a person is seen. This rigid observance of Sunday is gen eral throughout Great Britain and it impresses one the more who has ust come from the Continent, where hey never know such a thing as Sunday—at least no such thing as Sunday law is heard or thought

ATLANT.C FLECTROPOISE. Gentlemen:—
For the a s five years my wife has been a suffered from the pensia. To completely dithe d.sease make a wreak of neriorme, saif that life was almost despaired of Her nervous system was almost enti-tly destoyed and the sightest holse would throw her into a nervous spatem, which would last for hours. Modicel skill failed to bring any reli-f.

Through the recommendation of an eminent divine we ware indued to try the slectropoise. After a persistent use of the instrument, the effect has been wonderful. Her nervous system has been extored to its almost normal condition; her digest on is wonderfully improved; she is rapidly gaining in flesh; and, upon the whole, is making a rapid recovery, which speaks volumes for the Wo-deffuld curative powers of the E ectropoise, as her case was considered hopeless. If any are skept cal on the subject, let them try the Electropoise, and it wonderful powers will quickly dispit all doubt.
