through which will run the Norfolk. Wilmington & Charleston R. R. It has been truthfully written and said, that is no country so little known, so little seen, except by its own residents, as this portion of the couth, and yet there portion of the South or even the great West that offers to many inducements to emigrants of means and capitalists than this section. She grows every cereal that is grown in Penneylvania, has immense virgin forests of the finest timbers, consisting of cypress, beach, maple, and the finest ash (the latter which is to abundant that the natives use it for fuel,) every variety of soil, some of it the richest in the world, producing three different crops per annum, her immense fisheries, her unrivalled oyster beds, and last but not lesst her unrivalled and unsurpassed climate, and with all these advantages the ever resistless tide of emigration has never to any extent yet crossed her borders.

Through the very geographical centre of this magnificent region the Norfolk, Wilmington & Charleston R. R. passes. The surface of this section of the country under consideration, through which the Norfolk, Wilmington & Charleston R. R. runs, is level and is well watered Would it not be well for the Board of Trade to consider the question immediately?

the richness of the soil. Henry Yeager, Mr. Frantz, W. From one farm alone visited by these gentlemen belonging to Hackburn & Willett, $70 000 was cleared last year simply in gard-n truck; another planter marketing 40 000 bushels of corn another 25 000 carrels of potatoes, other planters in the same business increasing their capacity every year. One of th main factors in the construction of the N. W. & C. R. R. is to tap this rich country and shorten the distance from New York to Charleston, so that pas sengers traveling South will arrive there in the quickest possible time, and perishable freight, such as garden truck

The distance as projected by the N.
W. & C. B. B. from New York to Charleston, passing through the States of Virginia, Eastern North Carolina and South Carolina is 697 miles. The dis-Atlantic Coast line from New York to Charleston is 808 miles, so that you will at once see that the difference in favor of the N. W. & C. R. R. is 105 miles. The distance from the great Southern scapors, Norfolk, to Charleston is only 353 miles, showing a difference in favor of the N. W. & C. H. B. of 108.

The quicker the planter gets his truck to the great markets of the East the quicker he realizes upon it and the better the prices, and this road will open up to settlement and traffic as tri-butary to Norfolk a tract of country nearly 500 miles long and from 30 to 60 miles broad. These farms of Eastern North Carolina have never made their

North Carolina have never made their best efforts to raise vegetables and fruits on account of alow transportation, and for that very reason the merits of the country are not known.

On the other hand, we have a population on the route of the road over 400,000 people, millions of acres of the finest virgin forests of all kinds of timber, cotton, tobacco, garden truck plantations, all of which are tributary to this road, and are capable of supplying unlimited and immediate traffic, and it is safe to say that the commerce of the several water streams which this new road will cross near their outlet to the sea, is sufficient to insure its support.

One word more in conclusion. A greater portion of this territory is thinly settled, but capable of sustaining a population of 100 times its present density. If you are a capitalist seeking investment for your money, the country and cities along the line of the Norfolk, Wilmington & Charleston R. R. afford you now ample opportunities. History repeats itself in prices as in other matters, and you can think of no investment today that will assure you a safer and better return than money invested along the route of the new great Southern Trunk line, and in going there you will find not only a generous soil, a genial climate, but above all a hospitable and generous people who are ever ready to carend to you the right hand of fellowhip as they did to the writer of this and many others who were with him. One word more in conclusion.
