CONFLICTING reports as to the condition of affairs in Brazil. It is evident that monarchical sentiments are growing, and patriots are apprehensive that Brazil is not ready for Republican government.

PARNELL's estate will be inherited by his brother, John Parnell, who is soon to leave Atlanta for Ireland to claim the property. Mrs. Parnell receives only a life interest in the estate.

A CONSPIRACY has been discovered in Russia with ramifications throughout the Empire for a movement having for its end the creation of a representative assembly; sixty members of the nobility and upper families have been arrested.

The Wilmington Messenger closes an article on Kiptempore Orators with this paragraph: So far as we know among living North Carolinians the man who commands at will the most abundant sonorous and off-hand rhetoric, some times kindling into eloquence, is Dr. John S. Loag, of New Berne.

The Charlotte Chronicle hits the nail on the head when it says: It makes but little difference whether Sherman or Foraker is elected to the Senate so far as the South is concerned. The former is able and mean, the latter is too mean to be able. But Democrats should have nothing to say. They have a man there named Brice who has nothing but money.

The Boston Post, in an editorial advocating the election of Mr. Mills to the Speakership, says he has agreed, in case of his success, to thrust the silver question to one side. Mr. Mills has written a card, in which he states, in the most emphatic terms, that he has entered into an agreement with the anti-silver men, and the Post should hasten to set Mr. Mills right.

A DISPATCH, dated Shanghai Nov. 13, says: The United States cutter Charleston has left these waters for Honolulu, and it is asserted here in quarters likely to know the truth or falsity of a report of this nature that the commander of the Charleston, George C. Remey, has received instructions from the United States Government to seize the Hawaiian Islands in certain contingencies.

WHEN the Emperor of Russia passed privately through Berlin the other night he was attired in plain clothes, and it was the first time that he had ever appeared in public thus arrayed. The Emperor's towering figure was not displayed to advantage in a loose suit of brown tweed, especially when contrasted with the splendid Russian uniform in which Prince Frederick Leopold appeared, and His Majesty was the only personage in plain clothes. The Emperor, who stopped for nearly an hour at the Stettin Line station, dined on sandwiches, which he washed down with several bowls of tea (well laced with rum), which was made on the spot by his own servants, with his own caravan tea.—London World.

Mr. Oast's wife and child accompanied him on a pleasure trip to the city.

Not only are strangers moving in goodly numbers to our city but young men who left here some years ago to try what they thought were more inviting fields are moving back to their old home—and that too from "booming" cities. Mr. Philip Thomas, as we have announced, moved back from Durham last week to establish a cigar factory here, and last night we had the pleasure of welcoming another young native of the city, Mr. Fred G. Mitchell, returning to his early home from Henderson. He will engage in the brokerage business. Mr. Geo. Womble also moved back last night from Raleigh.

The Nettle W. Sunk.
About sundown Saturday evening the steamer Nettle W., Capt. B. Dixon, bound from Kingston to New Berne, with a full load of naval stores struck some submerged obstruction supposed to be a portion of a partly removed jetty in Neuse river at Caswell Turn, 9 miles from Kingston, 41 miles from New Berne, and sunk in five minutes thereafter. The steamer Kingston which fortunately was not far from the scene of the accident rendered assistance and the cargo was saved and brought by her with the Nettle W. to New Berne. The Kingston returned last night with both crews and holing apparatus to try to raise the steamer which it is believed will be successfully accomplished. The Nettle W. belongs to her captain and Mr. Thomas Dixon, an engineer.

RIVERS AND HARBORS.

Handsome Sums Recommended to be Expended to Improve Them.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 19.—The annual estimate of Gen. Casen, chief of engineers, United States Army, for river and harbor improvements for the year 1892, contains the following recommendations for North Carolina: From Norfolk harbor to Albemarle sound, N. C., through canals to sound, $8,877 (estimated), but $25,000 could be profitably expended; Roanoke river, Va. and N. C., $181,000, of which $60,000 can profitably be expended in 1892; Crococks inlet, $510,000, of which $100,000 for expenditure in 1892; Pamlico and Tar rivers, $59,000; Neuse river, $100,500; inland waterway between New Berne and Beaufort, $37,000; Beaufort harbor, $38,000; waterway between New river and Swansboro, $38,000; Cape Fear river, $25,000; Black river, $30,000; Cape Fear river above Wilmington, $173,000; same river below Wilmington, $1,655,000, of which $500,000 is to be expended in 1892; Yadkin river, $5,000.

The improvement of her navigable waters is an exceedingly important matter to North Carolina, which has a larger amount of inland water than any other State, affording natural transportation facilities that are very valuable even as they now exist, but which are capable of much greater improvement.

One fact that renders such a movement so important is that so much reliance has to be placed upon them for travel and traffic where they abound, owing to the fact that the cost and difficulty of bridging them has a tendency to check railroad building and to prevent the lines from running so close to the coast as they otherwise would do, which renders it necessary that the waters be utilized as much as possible.

Sometimes the deepening of the channel of a small stream or the removal of some obstruction will make it navigable for a much greater length than before, and there are places in which such work will enable vessels, by using a newly opened route, to save long stretches in the voyages they make. A good example of this is furnished by the two water routes between New Berne and Beaufort. The canal route shortens the distance about fifty miles, saving half the distance, which is a very important point to gain.

It will be remembered that this canal was recently so deepened that larger vessels could pass through than could pass at some points through the creeks which it unites, owing to the fact that having become obstructed to some extent, and we are pleased to learn that the nice sum of $37,000 is recommended to be used as necessary on these streams.

It is hoped that the appropriations recommended by the chief engineer will be allowed without trouble. The improvements are badly needed, and the money expended in making them will be put to excellent use.

Small Game.
O'possums appear to be remarkably abundant around New Berne. A morning or two ago we saw a man with four o'possums which he stated he had just caught at one spot and he didn't succeed in securing all that were there either. We were told of another hunter that got three o'possums and a fox—he shot the latter with a revolver. Our readers will remember that an o'possum was caught a few weeks ago running along the streets of the city. Saturday night another one was discovered in the heart of town on a shed at Mrs. M. D. Nelson's by Messrs. Thomas and James Carraway and knocked on the head and killed with a base ball bat. He was as large, fat and fine a specimen as is ever seen.

Hunters of small game in this vicinity are reporting fine sport. Partridges have never known to be so plentiful as they are this year; other game birds are around as usual; fine mallard ducks are being bagged near the city and if one wants larger game and more exciting sport the deer and bears afford the opportunity for it.

Coming and Going.
Judge H. B. Bryan left yesterday morning to hold Halifax court. His son, Mr. F. J. Bryan who has been home on a short visit, left returning to Norfolk.

Miss Octavia Winder, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. F. W. Hughes, returned to her home in Raleigh.

Mr. F. W. Hancock left for Oxford accompanied by Mr. Robert Hancock and Mr. Jos. Lucas to be present at his marriage which takes place tonight.

Dr. O. N. Mason and family, Miss Emma Bell and Miss Emeline Pickett, of Harlowe, came up Monday and left on the steamer Neuse to spend a few weeks in Baltimore.

Miss Lillie Morris who has just concluded a good season of the city for "The Herald of Health," returned to her home in Kingston.

Mr. Fred D. Thomas arrived last night to visit his relatives in the city.

Mr. J. L. Harshfield returned from a visit to friends at Kingston, and Mrs. A. Davis, of Kingston, came down to visit relatives.

Mrs. B. G. Credle and Mrs. T. E. Mace left to visit relatives in Beaufort.

NEW BERN.

Our Sister Town—Is It Kingston, Caswell or Kinston.

1763. An act for establishing a town on the land of William Herriage at a place called Atkins Banks, Dobbs county.

Whereas, it has been represented to this assembly that the land of William Herriage, lying on the north side Neuse river and called Atkins banks, in Dobbs county, is a pleasant and healthy situation, and commodious for trade and commerce; and the said William Herriage having acknowledged his free consent to have one hundred acres of the said land laid off for a town, and fifty acres for a town common, which will greatly promote the trade of the said river. "Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and Assembly and by the authority of the same. That the directors or trustees herein after appointed, or a majority of them shall as soon as may be, after the passing of this act, cause the said one hundred acres of land to be laid off in lots of half an acre each, with convenient streets, lanes and alleys reserving one acre and a half of the said land whereon the chapel and public warehouse now stands, which land laid off according to the direction of this act, is hereby constituted, erected and established a town and shall be called by the name of the town of Kingston in the County of Caswell, Simon Bright, Jun., John Shine and David Gordon, be and they and everyone of them are hereby constituted directors for designing building and carrying out of the said town.

The public warehouse referred to above was erected under an act as below, 1758.

An act to establish a warehouse for the inspection of tobacco in the county of Dobbs at Yadkin Banks on the land of William Herriage and at Contentment, the town of Kingston the same is called Atkins banks. It is supposed the latter must be correct as the original owner of the land, William Herriage and his son-in-law, Richard Caswell, were appointed "directors or trustees," in the act and the former being then an eminent attorney, it was probably written by him. But Caswell was, at the time (1763) a member of the Assembly in New Berne from Johnston county, it is known to have been formed from Graven, and a lawyer and practiced the profession well, success and he may have drawn the bill. At any rate, it is reasonable to presume they knew the name of their own place and how to spell it whether we do Newbern or not. We have been thus particular as there is difference of opinion at present and which has existed for years relative to the name of that place. If less noisy it is somewhat akin to the Newbernian's dispute about Newbern. While the g. in Kingston was so gently dropped it never did create a ripple of contention. A scene touching the subject is vividly in our mind. It was a bright, piping hot day in summer; we were crossing Atkins branch with horse and buggy, the water was above the hubs of the wheels. Noticing when half way over a small negro boy with fishing rod in hand, sitting on the foot way soundly sleeping, it was an opportunity we thought for a scare and a ducking. Turning the horse toward him and driving as quickly as possible until within a few feet of the boy when rapping the horse with the whip, he sprang as we designed, forward covering the sleeping boy with a spray of water, who sat paralyzed with fear. I expected to see him tumble backwards in the branch and was thus disappointed as he clung to the log. But when fully aroused we drew the horse off, and enquired how far to Kingston and what do you call this place. He instantly replied "Diser place is de Ye-adkin and when you go up de hill you are dar already." We treated the boy to the remnant of a dinner we had and passed on. We had been that way before a number of times.

Meeting unexpectedly a highly esteemed citizen of Lenoir a day or two ago, we asked the name of the first branch on the road towards his home from Kingston and he replied "Adkin." "Spell it," we requested, "A-d-k-i-n." "Slowly he spelled the letters. "Then you are certain," we continued. "I am," he answered, "and though it is often called Yadkin, in the old deeds it is Adkin." We were mute respecting our object for the information and he never dreamed the subject probably had been so certain. The gentleman alluded to was John Tall, Esq., who owns and resides on the very land once selected for the Capital of the State of North Carolina. Tower Hill, Lenoir county.

Name Settled.
A correspondent of the New Bern JOURNAL most effectually disposes of the spelling of the name of that famous little city. He gives proof positive that the name was spelled New Bern from its foundation in 1763 to 1871. The colonial Records published by the State and edited so ably by the late Col. William L. Saunders fix the matter beyond all doubt or peradventure. Dr. Graffunder spelled it New Bern, and the Colonial Records show that it was so spelled from 1769 to 1771. The correspondent made a partial examination of the Colonial Records and found them "abundant with the name New Bern."

At the Harvest of Death.
Much grain is prematurely reaped by the ravages of disease, they might have ripened to a golden maturity if "miser" bodily ravages had been attended to in time. Nothing is truer than this—bodily ailments not only grow upon, but beget one another. Thus biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia follow close on the heels of one another, flourish together the one promoting the other, and begetting a numerous progeny of like ailments more or less spread as their cause is more or less disregarded and neglected. Incontinent rheumatism, neuralgia and "algia," inactivity of the kidneys, of what else dissatisfied, are the cases when no or but slight attention is paid to their early warning. Chills, "miser," ailments with Rheoctor's Stomach Bitters, and forestall the inexorable reaper, who exacts the forfeiture of life as the penalty for disregarding the means of preserving

Clark-Ford Comedy Company.

"In brilliant contrast to the mediocre line of comedy that has been running at the theatre this season, was the presentation at Edgewood last night of Oliver Goldsmith's fine old English comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer" by Ford's English Comedy Company. The comedy lost none of its piquancy and spirit in the hands of the company that produced it last night, and from beginning to end the audience was delighted. "The fun created had about it a richness and refinement that was particularly pleasing. The play was replete with ludicrous situations and delightful bog motifs, and is altogether the best thing seen in Atlanta this year. "The company is a strong one and every role last night was sustained in such a manner to leave little if anything to be desired."—Herald.
