The JOURNAL received last night from Washington, D. C., with the compliments of the author, a copy of an address delivered before the American Statistical Association at Boston on the 16th ult., on "The Eleventh Census, by Robert P. Porter, the Superintendent of the Census. The pamphlet was plainly directed to New Berne!

At first no announcement was made that the train on the Scotland Neck Railroad would wait at Kinston for the A. & N. O. R. R. except on Tuesday and Wednesday, but as a number of people have expressed a desire to go up on Thanksgiving Day, it gratifies us to be able to announce that the same connection will be made on that day also.

The petition to the authorities of the A. & N. O. R. R. to put on a double daily mail and passenger train is being circulated and receiving the signatures of our most influential citizens. The Government has signified its willingness to pay for the extra service it will receive, and there is good ground to hope for a favorable decision by the railroad officials.

The manufacturing of buggies will be its specialty, but attention will be given to making and repairing any other wheeled vehicle in use in the community.

A SLANDERER.

Lying About the Origin of the Great Yellow Fever Epidemic in New Berne During the War.

He Says the "Flendish Rebels" Introduced the Dread Disease "To Kill OR Union Soldiers."

In time of war, when passions are excited and garments rolled in blood, men are not expected to observe the gentle amenities of life or cultivate the spirit of charity. But when peace has come, with its blessed benedictions, every manly nature discards the evil genius of malvolence and seeks affiliation with the good, the beautiful and the true.

The war between the States was the prolific source of hatred and bitterness. For four long and bloody years the tide of battle rolled furiously, making shipwreck of fortunes and bringing desolation to thousands of homes; but peace came more than a quarter of a century ago, and a reunited people are rejoicing in the prosperity of a common country, blessed by Heaven over all the world besides.

The South, that was the scene of the greater desolation and whose blood was poured out like water on hundreds of battle fields, gratefully acknowledges the assistance of the North in rebuilding her waste places and restoring cheer and comfort to her homes. With genuine cordiality she greets citizens of the North who come within her borders, and with true patriotism salutes the flag of the Union wherever it waves.

It is a pleasure to any Southern gentleman to meet a true man of the North, take him by the hand and introduce him to the companionship of friends and the hallowed associations of his home.

We wish that all Northern men were worthy a welcome to a Southern home. But, every community has in it different orders of beings. Some are gentlemen formed in nature's finest mold, while others seem to have been born to show how base a thing a man can be—how vile a reptile a woman can give birth to. A serpent naturally brings forth a serpent, but it seems a most unnatural thing for a woman to give birth to a being so defiled and devilish that a paradise becomes a hell the moment he enters it; but, such a being is WILL L. WELCH, of Boston, Mass.

This creature has published, in the Washington National Tribune, of Oct. 8th 1891, an account of the yellow fever epidemic at New Berne, N. C., in 1864, which for downright falsehood and superlative meanness is without a parallel.

After giving the official reports of medical officers, all of which account for the epidemic in the usual way, he antagonizes them and says:

"Here you have the official medical reports of Surg. Hand, Medical Director of the Department, and of Dr. Cowgill, Surgeon in charge of Foster General Hospital; also, the comments and summary of Surg. Smart who compiled the history. Dr. Hand seems determined to have it that the yellow fever originated in New Berne, and was not contagious. Dr. Cowgill, I think, clearly shows that it was contagious. Dr. Smart thinks fever did not originate in New Berne; may have been imported; but doesn't know how or where from. I am convinced that the fever did not originate in New Berne, but that it was sent there, not by mistake, but with a purpose; and that those sent there were the same ones that schemed to send infected clothing to all the hospitals, and thus kill off Union soldiers faster than in battle or at Andersonville and other prisons. Those concerned in it were those noted copperheads as Vallandigham and Thompson; Dr. Blackburn, since the war elected Governor of Kentucky, and others too numerous to mention.

I don't believe that there is anything in the annals of modern warfare equal to the fiendishness of these copperheads and rebel sympathizers in the last war in these United States. Never was there a baser or more malicious slander! It can do no harm, for it will be branded as infamous by every reputable man in the Federal army. Several Northern soldiers who came with Welch are useful and highly respected citizens of New Berne, and every one of them is emphatic in his denunciation of the miscreant.

The people of New Berne remember that epidemic. It entered their homes and bore away their loved ones to the grave. It may have been brought about by the criminal neglect and maladministration of Federal officials, but the good people of New Berne accepted it as the act of Providence, and meekly bowed in submission to the divine will.

About noon yesterday the roof of Mr. B. K. Bryan's residence was discovered to be in flames. As the chimney is known to have been on fire some time previous, the inference is that it caught from a burning coal which fell on the roof, unnoticed until it had got quite a hold. No one was at home at the time except Mrs. Bryan. The fire was extinguished, but not until the front portion of the roof was badly damaged by the fire and the house flooded with water to the great injury of the carpets and furniture. The damage by water is much in excess of that by the fire. It is estimated that several hundred dollars worth of property was destroyed.

THE WEATHER BUREAU SERVICE.

Its Phenomenal Improvement under the Department of Agriculture—All State and Territories, Except Idaho, Represented by Local Service—The Liberal Policy Pursued to Benefit Agriculture.

On July 1, 1891, the Weather Bureau became a part of the Department of Agriculture, and was organized with a view of carrying out the express intention of Congress to especially develop and extend its work in the interests of agriculture. State and territorial services were organized in Arizona, California, Florida, Georgia, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming, thus covering every state and territory in the United States except Idaho.

While the organization of the new service has been in progress much attention was devoted to a general supervision of the work of those cooperating services previously established, the desire being to greatly increase the number of meteorological observers, and to effect a more thorough dissemination of current weather crops information among those classes of people most likely to be benefited thereby. Nearly 500 voluntary meteorological stations have been established since July 1st, the stations in operation June 30, 1891, being less than 2,000 and at date nearly 2,500.

The report from voluntary observers serve twofold purposes: For agricultural societies and experiment stations, giving them accurate meteorological data on which to rely in dealing with experiments on vegetation, etc., and the reports of rainfall, temperature, sunshine, etc., are utilized weekly in the weather-crops bulletins as standard meteorological features for the State or territory, while the compiled monthly conditions are used in various ways in establishing the climatology of the sections, and as records for courts, physicians, engineers, etc.

The most practical portion of the exclusive work of these local services is the issue of the weekly weather crop bulletins. These are sources of reliable information for all interested in agriculture, following up the season from week to week so that an excellent estimate can be made at any time relative to the crops of any county, state, or the country at large. These bulletins are a thorough dissemination in all the States and territories, and are of very great practical benefit to all interests. The National Bulletin issued at Washington City during the growing season deals with the weather of the week throughout the country, considering of charts showing the departures of temperature and rainfall, the table of season and weekly departure of like data, besides giving a decision of such charts and tables, with edited telegrams received from the several local services showing the actual condition of crops and the effect of the weeks weather thereon.

New Passenger Coaches.

The handsome cars recently purchased by President W. S. Chadwick for the Atlantic and N. C. Railroad have arrived and are greatly admired by all who have seen them. The frame is of oak, as is also the paneling and all other finishings. They are upholstered in crimson silk plush and the seats have adjustable backs. Each car is lighted by three beautiful 2-light lamps which enable passengers to read easily in any portion of it. The windows are broad—24x30 and they are supplied with double blinds. The shawl racks and other furnishings are of brass and the ventilation is very good. They are supplied with the Westinghouse automatic spring and Jenney automatic coupling, and the boiler springs are large quadruple springs, giving easy motion to the cars which are equal in every respect to any of that class of cars now in use. They are numbered 17 and 18 and make three purchased this year—the parlor car "The Old North State," being the other and they make 13 passenger coaches that the Atlantic and N. C. Railroad now has in use.

Coming and Going. Rev. R. A. Willis, Mr. J. K. Willis, Mrs. Robert Hancock and Miss Emma Henderson left yesterday morning to attend Conference at Greenville, and Revs. G. F. Smith, of Beaufort, T. C. Lovin, of Carteret circuit, and F. S. Beeton, of Pamlico circuit, passed through en route to Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rountree and their little son, Mitchell, returned on the steamer Newberne, of the O. D. line, from a visit to relatives in Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. S. K. and Miss Sadie Eaton returned on the steamer from the North where they have been visiting relatives, and Mr. Eaton buying a Christmas stock of jewelry.

Miss Myrtle E. Pope returned home last night from Dover to spend the Thanksgiving holidays.

Rev. Wm. C. Hunter of Columbus Gr., but formerly of New Berne, arrived on a visit and is stopping with Dr. N. H. Street.

Its Excellent Qualities. Command to public approval the California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Fig. It is pleasant to the eye, and to the taste and by gently acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, it cleanses the system effectually, thereby promoting the health and comfort of all who use it.

THE ALLIANCE & CLEVELAND.

He is Strongly Their Favorite in Spite of Polk's Assertions to the Contrary.

AN UNEQUIVOCAL LETTER FROM AN ALLIANCERMAN, ONE OF THE LARGEST FARMERS OF EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA.

Time to Assert Manhood and Stand for Convictions.

ED. JOURNAL:—I see from your paper of recent date an account of a speech made by Col. L. L. Polk in which he states that North Carolina and especially the Farmers Alliance were not in favor of Cleveland for President. While I cannot speak for the Farmers Alliance of the whole State, I can speak for the sentiment of those in Jones county and I have never yet heard a single one speak unfavorably of Cleveland, and in fact a very large part of these are in favor of him for President.

We the farmers and members of the Alliance are now and ever have been a conservative people and we do know that Cleveland is a friend to the great mass of working people of every section of this mighty commonwealth and knowing and appreciating this fact we intend to stand by and for him whenever his name is presented to the people.

We have frequently noticed that when the great(?) Polk speaks, he does it in such a manner as if he knew what the Alliance was in favor of, when in truth and in fact he cannot be but little acquainted with the tone and real sentiments of the great mass of our people. We have frequently noticed that if too long absent and I think it time for us to assert our manhood and have the courage to stand for our convictions. I for one, a member of the Alliance and able to speak for a large part of our people, say we are for Cleveland, Polk to the contrary notwithstanding.

J. B. BANKS JR.

Wilfred Clark. Ford's Theatrical Company will present Goldsmith's five act comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer," at the opera house tonight. The Pittsburg Press says:

"Mr. Clarke, we are told, is the son of an illustrious comedian and a grandson of a great tragedian, and therefore, forsooth, he could not fail to please. "It matters not what Mr. Clarke is by birth, as an actor he is most promising. He certainly pleases. His humor needs no diagrams. His face, his movements on the stage, his rollicking ways and apparent simplicity of manner, all are natural graces, an art in comedy. Mr. Clarke has a good voice and he knows how to use it without straining the lines. On the whole the audience was much pleased with this young man and laughed heartily at his antics.

Miss Martha Ford is a graceful girl, tall, with clear complexion and oval face; with a pleasing, sympathetic voice. She acted well. The audience saw in her a young woman whom it respected because she was so modestly in earnest, so conscientious. The impression left upon all is that she will succeed and deserved to."

Card of Thanks. Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Bryan desire to show their appreciation of the services the firemen, their lady friends and the public generally who so nobly assisted in saving their home from the flames yesterday.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN LA GRANGE Causing merchants and citizens to shudder when it was announced that A. W. Kennedy had assigned to N. J. Rouse, throwing his entire stock on the market at and below New York cost. It is wonderful how the people desert their usual places of trading when such large bankrupt stocks are thrown on the market. Only a few days had elapsed when, on Thursday, Nov. 19th, 1891, the mighty throng of the old Atlantic, as it was wearing the little city, the business in mighty thundering tones was heard to exclaim "La Grange," and at once the merchants and citizens on the streets in La Grange remarked, "There goes Big Ike, who says so many merchants out at 10 and 15 cents on the dollar." Very soon Big Ike, with his assistant H. V. Williams, and B. H. Kinney, representing the assignees, were seen packing up the entire stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots and Shoes. They well may be the people of New Berne and surrounding country rejoice when they hear of the wonderful reduction in prices of try Goods, Clothing, Boots and Shoes at Big Ike's Clothing Store. The signs of the times are distressing. Men, women and children are bound to cry for help. Hence, they avail themselves of this wonderful opportunity, and secure their goods at half price, while they are slaughtering out better-klether for the next few days.
