ALL hail, 1892!

GRIP has become terribly malignant. An Indiana man died from it in three hours.

TO-DAY Mr. Flower becomes Governor of New York, and David B. Hill United States Senator.

WESTERN merchants and farmers say they have lost a million dollars this fall and winter by bad roads.

In a railroad accident in Missouri four men are killed and eleven car loads of cattle are burned.

MEXICAN troops are gathering on the Rio Grande to fight Garza's forces, and U. S. troops are arriving at Laredo, Texas.

THERE are no new developments in the Chilean affair. Our Government is awaiting the investigation of the Chilean Government.

THE World says: "There is nothing whatever the matter with Gov. Hill, or with the State of New York. They are both 'all right.'"

SIXTEEN hundred bales of cotton, owned by the George Taylor Commission Company, were burned at St. Louis on the night of the 23rd of December.

A CONVENTION of cotton planters, merchants, factors, etc., is called to meet at Augusta, Ga., January 27th, to devise some plan for reducing the acreage planted in cotton.

The bond given by Jefferson Davis, to answer the charge of treason, has been stolen. This paper bears the signatures of Horace Greeley, John Minor Botts, Gerrit Smith and other prominent persons.

REV. J. D. BUNDY, after nine years in editing the Laurinburg Exchange has retired. He conducted his paper with good sense, fairness and dignity. He has the best wishes of the JOURNAL for his prosperity and happiness.

"I CONSIDER Governor Pattison much more likely to be nominated for President by the Democratic National Convention than any other Eastern man," said Governor Campbell, of Ohio, who passed through Pittsburg Saturday.

THERE are now three vacancies on the Inter-State Commission, owing to the resignation of Judge Cooley, of Michigan, the death of Mr. Bragg, of Alabama, and the expiration of the commission of Mr. Morrison.

In Wilmington, on Tuesday, Dec. 30, at the preliminary hearing for false pretense Mr. John C. Davis waived an examination, and was required to give a bond of $750 for his appearance on the first Monday in January, 1892, at the Criminal Court of New Hanover county. Mr. Davis failed to give bond and was recommitted to jail.

THE wholesale lynching of the Sims gang of murderers in Alabama was perhaps a most deserved fate. When Judge Lynch acts he acts promptly always, and sometimes wisely and precipitately. But we look for an increase in mob executions of villains. The laws delay and the jury system will always provoke lynchings in the South. People feel that they must be protected. Right or wrong such is the feeling.—Wm. Messenger.

THE CHILIANS, spoiling apparently for a fight, are doing all they can by delaying justice and by setting watches on the American legation to provoke this Government into warlike measures. Chill should be better advised.

HARRISON is said to be scheming to have won the pennant in Virginia. He is keeping Egan, it is alleged, in Chill because he is so distasteful, and to stir up bad blood more and more. We do not know how this is. One account says all the reports from Chill are "entirely sectional."

THE Elks of Roanoke appear to have won the pennant in Virginia, so far as the charitable operations of a single organization are concerned. The estimate is that one thousand hearts have been made glad by their ready hands. The past year has fallen heavily upon many a family who have bravely and uncomplainingly borne the load of poverty, and we merely suggest that New Year's Day still remains to any other order, or branch of the Elks, which may be sensibly ambitious to break the Roanoke record.—Norfolk Virginian.

Happy New Year!
Don't write it '91.
Capt. J. M. Ispock's new steamer R. E. Lee will make her trial trip to Vanceboro today.

Here and Hound chase at 3 p. m. sharp, assembling at junction of macadamized road and railroad.

It is stated on the authority of revenue officials that in the year just ended 700,000,000 cigarettes were made at Durham.

The National Bank of this city has declared its 44th semi-annual dividend of five per cent. It is a splendid showing for this solid and finely officered institution.

For the information of the young ladies and the gratification of the young men, we will inform them that this is leap year. We do not suppose that widows and old maids will need to be reminded.

Messrs. Brinkerhoff and Hanson, representing the Retail Commercial Agency, of Chicago, are in the city for the purpose of organizing a local branch here and are meeting with such success as assures an early organization.

Two hundred and fifty New Berne Fair premium lists are now being mailed. Those who wish a few copies to mail to friends can obtain them by applying immediately to Mr. C. R. Szaizstein at his residence.

Mr. Shepard Bryan, a graduate of Chapel Hill, who for some time previous to his graduation and since that time up to the present has been Assistant Instructor of Latin there, has accepted the chair of Latin at the New Berne Collegiate Institute and will enter upon his new position Monday morning.

The colored people of New Berne and James City will duly celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation today. Those in the city will form a procession at the junction of George and Cedar streets, and after parading the principal streets will assemble at St. Peter's A. M. E. Z. church where the exercises will be held. James City will begin celebrating at 9 o'clock.

Messrs. Jesse Brown, John Henderson and Zedrick Norton, assisted by a colored man, caught a day or two ago, on one night 750 trout in New River, which they sold wholesale the next morning on the spot at 5c. each. Sixty dollars for four men's work one night, an average of fifteen for each one engaged, is not bad pay, though some of the trout fishermen there have done doubly as well.

Mr. F. J. Hardison finished a seventy five foot bored well for Hotel Albert Wednesday and a forty foot one for the New Berne Electric Light company Thursday. The water runs in the latter and overflowed so that it had to be plugged up until connection is made with the pump at the works to keep the water from accumulating on the surrounding ground and becoming annoying.

While the improvements are going on at the Gaston House, the barber shop connected with it is not being forgotten. The rear partition has been removed and space taken in thereby which doubles the size of the room; from the chair board down is nicely called and is being painted and Mr. W. L. Lawrence, of Philadelphia is papering the walls with stylish gilt paper adapted to the room, and four new climax chairs and a dressing case have been ordered from Cincinnati. Five hundred dollars will be expended in fitting it up leaving it in first-class style.

THE OLD AND NEW YEAR.

Reflections and Expressions on the Past and Future.
Father Time in his onward and unceasing round has turned another leaf on his book of reckoning and 1891 is no more. Christmas, with all its jollities is over, and today the New Year, in all its youth and beauty puts in an appearance.
"Rest in peace thou good Old Year, Darkly, deeply, tranquilly; And when the archangel's call I hear, 'Gainsay me to testify.'"
With the new year we begin to make our resolutions for the future—promises for a better life; but how often we frail creatures, weak and prone to go wrong rash over and scatter all good resolutions to the winds; but gather them up and again try it over, and so life goes on, a constant warfare, until the last day comes and we are called to give an account of our stewardship, and we stand before the Great Judge, who looks on our actions not as man does, but on the motives of the heart. Oh, that we could all keep it pure and clean.
What is time? Longfellow says that it is the shadow on the dial, the striking of the clock, the running of the day and night, summer and winter, months, years, centuries; these are but arbitrary and outward signs, the measure of time, not time itself. Time is the life of the soul.
Carlyle writes:—That great mystery of Time, were there no other, the illimitable silent, never resting thing called Time, rolling rushing on, swift, silent like an all embracing ocean tide, on which we and all the universe swim like exhalations, like apparitions which are, and then are not: this is forever very literally a miracle—a thing to strike us dumb—for we have no word to speak about it.
Lake wind flies Time 'tween birth and death;
Therefore, as long as thou hast breath Of care for two days hold thou free The day that was and is to be."
Emerson thinks that it should be written on the heart that every day is the best day in the year, and that no man has learned anything rightly until he knows that every day is dooms day.
As the old year blends into the new every mortal stops and gives his opinion. Time a little respectful consideration. His power is acknowledged; the speed at which he travels is commented upon, if not with approval then with astonishment. His revenges are remembered, and plans are built for conciliating him. He is admitted to be a formidable foe, sure to close in on one eventually, but who can be bribed and cajoled and persuaded into leniency for many a day to come. Most of us try our best to pull the wool over his eyes, and believe we are doing it finely, only to find out at last that we never succeeded.
How beautifully does Bryon in his Child's Harold speak of time:
O Time! the beautifier of the dead, Adorner of the ruin, comforter And only healer when the heart hath bled—
Time! the corrector where our judgment errs,
The test of truth, love—sole philosopher, For tall beside are sophists, from thy thrift,
Which never loses though it doth defer Time, the avenger! unto thee I lift My hands, and eyes, and heart, and crave of thee a gift.
Today we stand at the beginning of another year with all its great possibilities for good or evil, and we may well pause for a moment to enter upon it with soberness and hope, while the pealing bells that ring out the dying year.
"Ring in the love of truth and right, Ring in the common love of good."
Poisoned His Family.
Geo. Best, colored, who lives one and a half miles from Dover Station, was brought to the city last night under suspicion of having murdered his wife by poison, which from the symptoms is supposed to have been "Rough on Rats," and is thought to have been mixed with the flour used in cooking Monday's dinner, from which meal Best absented himself, and after partaking of which his family, consisting of his wife Rachel and two children, were taken violently ill, the wife dying Tuesday night and the eldest child still being in a critical condition.
Coroner Primrose went up yesterday and held an autopsy and brought the stomach down with him last night for analysis. In the meantime Best is held in custody till further developments.

Happy New Year.

This is what the JOURNAL would have befall every one were it in its power, and towards our readers do we especially extend good wishes. It is the beginning of the new year of 1892 the turning of a new page, the closing of another volume in our lives. In this accustomed time for new hopes, resolutions and plans for the future, there are both joyous and solemn thoughts.
The year 1891 has been a memorable one with our fair city. Its business, prosperity and outlook has been very gratifying and far beyond the most sanguine expectations. The health record has been exceptionally good, and no calamity of a serious nature has befallen us.
To the patrons of the JOURNAL we have much cause to be grateful, and we enter upon the new year with renewed energies to fulfill what we conceive to be our duty regardless of our near and dearer friends.

To-Night's Entertainment.

The excellence of the entertainment by the Cook Combination company Christmas night is an indication of what may be expected tonight in the entertainment by the same company for the benefit of the Church of Christ. It will be similar to the first one, but the programme, in the main, will be new.
The Juvenile Band, who on the former occasion acquitted themselves with the skill of veterans, and Mr. A. W. Cook who in his inimitable manner appeared in good humorous and pathetic songs, and Mr. C. R. F. Edwards, who, costumed and blacked for the occasion surpassed in negro character songs some who pose as professionals, and elicited continuous roars of laughter and who were all enthusiastically encored, will all appear tonight in new selections, one of Mr. Edward's being a negro stump speech.
The accidental breaking of a part of the apparatus, which the stereopticon views were shown on Christmas night which happened after the audience began assembling, too late to be fixed then, and which prevented the scenes from showing with the vividness desired, has been remedied and the scenes will be elegantly and very brilliantly lit up by a Drummond light as bright as electric light, which will bring out the scenes with the naturalness of life. The best, but not all, of the views shown Christmas will again be exhibited and 25 new ones in addition. One of them is a view of St. Peter's and the castle of St. Angelo. It first appears as a day scene which changes to a night one with the dome of St. Peter's brightly lighted up and a fine display of fireworks will then take place from the base of the castle. Other scenes also will be remarkably fine.
The money raised will be worthily applied and all who attend the entertainment will have an evening of splendid enjoyment.
The admission fee is only 50 cents. No extra charge for reserved seats, and 25 cents for the gallery or children. Tickets are now on sale at Green's drug store. Those who buy tickets elsewhere can have their seats reserved upon making application.

IN MEMORIAM.

MARIE LEDARON.
Old year is dead! Painless and cold he lies
Wrapped in the purple of the midnight skies,
A crown of shimmering stars upon his breast,
His earth reign o'er. Peace to his royal rest!
The jeweled scepter of tomorrow's morn By new-crowned king will proudly be upborne;
E'en now, impatient, rose clad morn-ing
To open for New Year's sun barred golden gates
And gaily on her way the fair morn drifts
To shower in fickle homage gracious gifts,
As now she kisses Old Year's pallid face,
Thou'st off his glow'd length her fond embrace.
Poor fallen year! pierced by Time's cruel blade,
A phantom wandering in the past's drear shades,
Thou soon wilt be; in long procession days
Will follow, weeping, changing lood thy praise.
And laurel wreaths to taint thy empty skull,
The world's hands e'er, thoughtfully will cult;
And where thou list on thy snow-palled bier
The coming age will drop respectful tear.
Then rest, thou royal Old Year, though the New
We welcome with loyal hearts and true;
Still art thou dear to all. Rest Old Year, rest
I lay the rose of sweet remembrance on thy breast.
And though its colors fade, its crumbling heart
A perfume pure shall subtly e'er impart
Its sweetness to our senses. Have no fear,
Thou wilt not be forgotten, dear Old Year!

TRAIN WRECKING.

Another Dastardly Attempt Where the Great Disaster Occurred last August.
The Charlotte News tells of another attempt to wreck a passenger train at Boston's Bridge, near Statesville, at which place on the 27th of last August occurred the most horrifying accident that ever occurred in the history of the State, an entire train being buried 90 feet to the ground below and 22 people killed.
The News describes the unsuccessful attempt made last Thursday night as follows:
"Two crosses had been placed between the rails on the bridge in such a way that the engine of the eastbound passenger train would mount them and leave the track. It happened, though, that a westbound freight train, an extra, passed half an hour before the eastbound passenger train was due. The pilot of the freight engine ploughed under the upright ends of the crosses and threw them from the bridge. There was a sharp shock, but none of the wheels were derailed, and the freight passed in safety. The affair was kept quiet, for obvious reasons, but the News learned this much yesterday and gives it to the public. The section of country adjacent to Boston's bridge is now picketed with detectives."

Five Boys Get Six Deer in One Hunt.

Henry Holmes of Kittyhawk Banks, has five stalwart boys, all under thirteen years of age, who are born sportsmen. A party of huntsmen from Snowboro were hunting for deer in the Gallop Woods last week. They had killed five deer and were in chase of a big buck who made his way into the meadows of Kittyhawk. Holmes five boys saw him as he entered the swamp, they put out after him, the biggest boy, Harry leading. The overtook and captured the antlered monarch of the forest, seized him by the ears and led him to their father's house where they now have him stabled.—E. C. Bopomo's Falcon.

Commendable.
All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figes are purposely avoided by the C. F. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, clearing the system of impurities, but it is not a cure-all and makes no attempt to cure every ailment.
