

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT

THE DAILY JOURNAL is published every Monday at $2.00 per year; $2.50 for six months. Delivered to city subscribers at 20 cents per month. THE WEEKLY JOURNAL is published every Thursday at $1.00 per annum. Notices of Marriages or Deaths not to exceed ten lines will be inserted free. All additional matter will be charged for at 10c per line. Payments for transient advertisements must be made in advance. Regular advertisements will be collected promptly at the end of each month. Communications containing news of sufficient public interest are solicited. No communication must be expected to be published unless it contains objectionable personalities, or withholds the name of the author. Articles longer than half column must be paid for. Any person feeling aggrieved at any anonymous communication can obtain the name of the author by application at this office and showing wherein the grievance exists.

THE JOURNAL.

E. E. HARPER, - Proprietor. G. T. HANCOCK, - Local Reporter.

We double the greatest part of our faults by the excuses which we make use of to justify them.—Seed.

Those who in public places never say "Thank you!" to the waiters at home you may be sure have no waiter to thank.

The World says that "Mr. Cleveland is still a factor," yes, verily. A necessary factor in the solution of the paramount issue of the day.

A CORRESPONDENT says that in saving seed corn there are five points to look at: Length of ear, depth of grain, smallness of cob, well filled ends, and a good place to keep it.

The New York Times has made the startling discovery that Ex-Gov. Hill, while proclaiming, "I am a Democrat," made more Republican appointments than any other Democratic Governor of New York.

THERE are three things that our common schools should be compelled to do: First, get the young in love with land and home—make home so intensely interesting that the children will prefer it to all else; second, teach them to make agriculture profitable; and third, make farm life intellectually and morally on a level with the best possible life elsewhere.

THE annals of crime had seldom disclosed anything more fiendish and revolting than the wholesale murders of servant girls for which a man and his wife have been sentenced to death in Vienna. The most strenuous opponents of capital punishment, after reading what the spirit of lust and of murder had thus accomplished, would be inclined to admit that no torture could atone for atrocities such as savages would have shrunk from.

A WESTERN paper says: "The Dakotas now find themselves in the position of the land of Egypt during the seven years of plenty, when the earth brought forth by handfuls. They are suffering from a congestion of wealth. The granaries are overrun, the elevators are all full and the guest chamber is thrown open for a royal visitor. The farmer is enjoying the pleasant inconvenience of having more than he knows what to do with. This is a year of rewards."

In the Courier Journal Mr. Waterson says. "The Courier Journal presents its compliments to those of its esteemed contemporaries who have kindly interested themselves in its behalf with respect to the Presidential candidacy of Governor Hill, and begs that as soon as this paper has declared itself in favor of Governor Hill, or as soon as may be convenient thereafter, they will do us the favor to wire us at our expense. The matter may not be of much or any importance to the public, but we live to be advised of what is going on, you know. In the meantime, what is the matter with Grover Cleveland? Don't everybody speak at once?"

THE Democracy of the country is now clearly informed as to the sort of campaign that will be waged for Hill's nomination. It is something new in the history of the Democratic Party. We never before saw a candidate for the highest honor in the gift of the party playing the role of the small politician. Just fancy Horatio Seymour, Samuel J. Tilden, Winfield Scott Hancock or Grover Cleveland juggling in a hotel corridor with a State Committee to fix a scheme by which their grip could be fastened on a delegation. These men never stooped to such contemptible methods, and if they had, they would not have won the honorable places they hold in the history of the Democratic party.

SPURGEON AND MANLY.

The Baptist Denomination, and the Religious world at large, have suffered an irreparable loss in the death of Charles H. Spurgeon, of London, and Basil Manly, of Louisville.

Mr Spurgeon was the world's great preacher; Dr. Manly was a pillar in America's temple of our God.

The London papers contain long memoirs and obituary articles on Mr. Spurgeon.

Mr. Spurgeon was born at Kelvedon, Essex, England, June 19, 1834, and died at Menton, France, January 31st, 1892. His first sermon was delivered at sixteen years of age, and so well did the congregation like his sermon that they made him their pastor. The fame of the boy preacher soon became world wide. At nineteen Spurgeon began his work in London. No ordinary church edifice could hold the crowds that flocked to hear him, and the great Tabernacle was built for him with a seating capacity of 6,000. The membership of the Tabernacle a few months ago was set down at 5,354.

But his ministry was not confined to the Tabernacle. At one time he preached at the Crystal Palace to an audience of 25,000, and his sermons are scattered in hundreds of thousands broadcast throughout the world. If we look for the secret of Mr. Spurgeon's success we will not find it in scholarship, social positions, not any of the usual accompaniments of fame. It is rather to be found in his wonderful ability to present gospel truth in its simplicity and majesty, and his sympathy with the masses.

We make no apology for associating the name of Basil Manly, with that of Charles H. Spurgeon. His fame was not so broad, but it is not in the power of any pen to portray his services to the church, and the value of his life to the world at large.

As one of the professors in the Southern Theological Seminary at Louisville, his influence was continental. With the meekness of Moses, the patience of Job, the fervor of Isaiah and the consecration of Paul he labored in the cause of his Master, and the fragrance of his memory is as holy incense in the sanctuaries of our God.

A telegram to Mayor Manly, of this city, gives the painful intelligence that Dr. Basil Manly died at Louisville, Feb. 1st, 1892.

THE Republican press had tried for a quarter of a century to make free trade treasonable, until the passage of the McKinley Bill, since that time it has been congratulating the country on the good results of free trade on sugar. If free trade on sugar is good, free trade on iron, steel, cutlery, blankets, clothing, shoes, hats, bagging, ties, twine and other necessities are better, because sugar was strictly a revenue article, the duty on it going directly into the Federal treasury. But the duty on those articles go into the pockets of the American manufacturer at the expense of the farmers and other consumers.

OFFICE OF YORK ENTERPRISE, YORKVILLE, N. C., Aug. 14, '91. ATLANC ELECTROPHONE - GENTLEMEN: - I have a five year old wife who has been a sufferer in dyspepsia so completely did the disease make a wreck of her former health that she was almost despaired of. Her nervous system was almost entirely destroyed and the slightest noise would throw her into a nervous spasm, which would last for hours. Medical skill failed to bring any relief. Through the recommendation of an eminent divine we were induced to try the Electrophone. After a persistent use of the instrument, the effect has been wonderful. Her nervous system has been restored to its normal condition; her digestion is wonderfully improved; she is rapidly gaining in flesh; and, upon the whole, is making a rapid recovery, which speaks volumes for the wonderful curative powers of the Electrophone, as her case was considered hopeless. If any are skeptical on the subject, let them try the Electrophone, and a powerful power will quickly dispel all doubt. Yours truly, W. M. PROBST.

GREAT MAGAZINE

The Century's Programme in 1892—A New "Life of Columbus"—Articles for Farmers, etc.

THAT great American periodical, The Century, is going to outdo its own unrivaled record in its programme for 1892, and as many of its new features begin with the November number, few readers should commence with that issue. In this number are the opening chapters of "The Naulahka," a novel by Rudyard Kipling, the famous author of "Plain Tales from the Hills," written in collaboration with an American writer, Wolcott Balestier. It is the story of a young man and a young woman from a "booming" Colorado town, who go to India, he in search of a wonderful jeweled necklace, called "the Naulahka" (from which the story takes its name), and she as a physician to women. The novel describes their remarkable adventures at the court of an Indian maharajah. Besides this, The Century will print three other novels during the year, and a great number of short stories by the best American story-writers.

The well-known humorist Edgar W. Nye ("Bill Nye") is to write a series of amusing sketches which he calls his "autobiographies," the first one of which, "The Autobiography of a Justice of the Peace," is in November. This number also contains a valuable and suggestive article on "The Food-Supply of the Future," which every farmer should read, to be followed by a number of others of great practical value to farmers, treating especially of the relations of the Government to the farmer, what it is doing and what it should do. This series will include contributions from officers of the Department of Agriculture, and other well-known men will discuss "The Farmer's Discontent," "Cooperation," etc., etc.

A celebrated Spanish writer is to furnish a "Life of Columbus," which will be brilliantly illustrated, and the publishers of The Century have arranged with the managers of the World's Fair to print articles on the buildings, etc.

One of the novels to appear in 1892 is A story of New York Life by the author of "The Anglomaniacs," and the magazine will contain a great deal about the metropolis during the year,—among other things a series of illustrated articles on "The Jews in New York." In November is an illustrated description of "The Players, Club," founded by Edwin Booth, and one of the features of the splendidly illustrated Christmas (December) number is an article on "The Bowery." To get The Century send the yearly subscription price ($4.00) to The Century Co., Union Square, New York, N. Y.

The Pittsburgh Lamp is one of those inventions that seems to be finished. It seems to reach the end as to goodness of light in every way, and ease of management.

The only care it requires is filling and wiping. Dirt falls out when the chimney is taken off, not into a pocket as in other central-draught lamps. Putting in a new wick is a very easy matter indeed. All this seems strange to one who knows how troublesome other good lamps are. It is in all the good lamp-stores. Send for a primer. Pittsburgh Pa. PITTSBURGH BRASS CO.
