THE New York World says: The logic of protection is very queer. It admits in one breath that binding-twine has been cheapened "more than 50 per cent" by the admission of the raw material free and a reduction of the duty, and claims in the next that clothing is made cheaper by taxing wool and cloth.

LEADERSHIP.

We now come to consider a higher order of leadership, exhibiting superior political thought, a more perfect knowledge of the science of Government and a broader field for its operation as illustrated in Presidential candidates Cleveland and Hill.

Both, of these distinguished men are born leaders of different classes. Cleveland is a statesman who emphasizes Democratic principles: Hill is the political exponent of policy. Cleveland is a political architect and he would build an edifice, founded on the rock of the Constitution, that shall be large enough to shelter every American and grand enough to be the pride and glory of the world: Hill beholds the building completed, and in its admirable proportions sees an application of the science of Government. With him, the question is, who shall occupy that edifice, and by what means shall he gain possession?
The friends of Hill tell us that Cleveland is a back number: that fundamental principles need no presentation, for they are omnipresent and are as fixed as the eternal hills: that a revenue tariff is the darling measure of the Democratic party, and it needs no herald to proclaim it—no prophet to foretell the blessings that will follow in its wake. They say that the only question is, How can we win, and they answer, "By nominating David B. Hill!"

We confess that we are not able to see that such logic is the logic of facts. If Senator Hill is nominated, we shall see it, and see it clearly, but until then, we shall regard the greatest living exponent of Tariff Reform as the logical candidate of the American Democracy.

We do not believe that the time has come in this country when statesmanship is to give place to adroit partisan maneuvering.

True, the temple of our liberty was erected by our fathers, but the grand edifice is not finished. There is not a day in which some modification of the plan is not suggested. This work is to be taken down, and this addition is to be made. If we are only to have men who are only able to occupy and cannot protect, the roof may be taken off, the foundations sapped and great will be the fall thereof.

No campaign can be conducted without a platform of principles, and the more perfectly those principles are embodied in the candidate the greater are the probabilities of success. Candidates do not put themselves in office. It is the people who elect.

If the leading question before the country was, How shall we perpetuate political legerdemain, Hill would be without a rival, but with tariff reform as the paramount issue, Cleveland is the logical candidate.

They tell us that Cleveland is practically out of the race, inasmuch as the New New York State Convention has appointed a delegation to Chicago instructed to vote for Senator Hill.

We admit that this complicates the situation, but it does not overshadow the nomination of Senator Hill. It rather points to some Western Democrat who is not handicapped by State factions and personal embroilments.

Street Railroads.

It is but a little time, says the Railway Age, since all street railways were horse railways, and it is surprising to learn that already more miles of lines are operated by electricity and steam power than by animals, and still more surprising that electricity is even now used for more than half as much mileage as that operated by animal power, as the following statistics of the United States show:
Miles operated by cable.....660
Miles by animal power.....5,443
Miles by electricity.....3,009
Miles by steam motors.....1,918
The number of horses employed on street railway lines in this country is stated to have decreased 28,631, being now only 88,114, while electricity is still pushing forward at a rapid rate to displace the four-footed motors.

MIDDLE STREET.

GREAT MAGAZINE.

The Century's Programme in 1892—A New "Life of Columbus"—Articles for Farmers, etc.

THAT great American periodical, The Century, is going to outdo its own unrivaled record in its programme for 1892, and as many of its new features begin with the November number, few readers should commence with that issue. In this number are the opening chapters of "The Naulahka," a novel by Rudyard Kipling, the famous author of "Plain Tales from the Hills," written in collaboration with an American writer, Wolcott Balestier. It is the story of a young man and a young woman from a "booming" Colorado town, who go to India, he in search of a wonderful jeweled necklace, called "the Naulahka" (from which the story takes its name), and she as a physician to women. The novel describes their remarkable adventures at the court of an Indina maharajah. Besides this, The Century will print three other novels during the year, and a great number of short stories by the best American story-writers.

The well-known humorist Edgar W. Nye ("Bill Nye") is to write a series of amusing sketches which he calls his "autobiographies," the first one of which, "The Autobiography of a Justice of the Peace," is in November. This number also contains a valuable and suggestive article on "The Food-Supply of the Future," which every farmer should read, to be followed by a number of others of great practical value to Farmers, treating especially of the relations of the Government to the farmer, what it is doing and what it should do. This series will include contributions from officers of the Department of Agriculture, and other well-known men will discuss "The Farmer's Discontent," "Cooperation," etc., etc.

A celebrated Spanish writer is to furnish a "Life of Columbus," which will be brilliantly illustrated, and the publishers of The Century have arranged with the managers of the World's Fair to print articles on the buildings, etc.

One of the novels to appear in 1892 is
A Story of New York Life by the author of "The Anglomaniacs," and the magazine will contain a great deal about the metropolis during the year,—among other things a series of illustrated articles on "The Jews in New York." In November is an illustrated description of "The Players, Club," founded by Edwin Booth, and one of the features of the splendidly illustrated Christmas (December) number is an article on "The Bowery."

When Will February Have Five Mondays!

To the first person sending in a correct answer to the above, telling how many times February will have five Mondays from January 1, 1892, to January 1, 1942, a period of fifty years, half a century, we will give a gentleman's or lady's double-case gold watch, positively worth $40; to the second correct answer a gentleman's or ladies gold watch chain, worth $25; To the third correct answer, a gentleman's or ladies silver watch, worth $20; to the five next correct answers, five exceedingly handsome silver watches; To the ten next correct answers, "The Life, Speeches and Writings of Henry W. Grady," the handsomest book of his life ever printed, bound in cloth and gold and handsomely illustrated, printed in large, clear type—the regular price of which is $3.50 per volume. To the next twenty correct answers we will send a copy of Farm Culture," a book of 200 pages, the most valuable work on agriculture and horticulture ever published. The regular price of this book is $2 per volume: To the next twenty-five correct answers, six months' subscription to The Southern Farm. Should this prize fall to one who would not wish the magazine, we will send it to any name they may send us.

PRIZES FOR ALL.
We do not intend any one who answers this advertisement shall be slighted, and there fore make the following proposition: To every one who answers this, stating in what paper they saw the "ad" (this proposition must be done) and does not get one of the above enumerated prizes, we will send postpaid The Southern Farm for March and April. We want every reader in the South to see these two magnificent issues of this superb magazine. These two issues alone will be worth $1. All we ask from you in this offer is that each answer be accompanied with 25 cents to help pay postage and white paper on which these two issues are printed. Send silver, either two dimes and a nickel, or a twenty-five-cent piece. Wrap money up in a piece of paper and enclose in ordinary letter. (No answer counted unless 25 cents is enclosed.)

REMEMBER.
That every person who answers this is sure at least of getting for two months the best magazine on earth, even if you don't get the $40 watch, $25 gold chain, $25 silver watch or one of the silver watches worth $5 or a copy of the Grady book, you are certain of getting the Farm worth four times the amount of money you are required to send. In order to equalize distances no letters will be opened before Wednesday morning, February 17th at 9 o'clock. You are likely to get one of these prizes, if you answer anytime during February. All answers must be sent through the mail or else they will not be counted. Address THE SOUTHERN FARM, Constitution building, Atlanta, Ga.
