The New York Post in a recent article seems to have discovered the eilent but gignantic agencies at here. In speaking of the annual expansion of the value of the products of Southern labor, by $500,000,000 since agricultural production, cotton only represents about 30 per cent, * * The expansion and diversification of farming industries is going on with steady speed, and this growth far exceeds the Ives, 3rd best do., $5; Walter Homan, growth in population. At the same time pre-emptive rights enjoyed for generations, must not be taken under the form, but not the spirit of law. Wisely managed, we have wealth here for the remotest generation. The transportation lines, which have brought the prairie crops thousands of miles to compete with ours in the world's markets, stand ready to convey our sea products to the far West, and to have taken with the other.

The increase of the fish and cyster supply is of national concern, in more than one sense. Modern science de-monstrates, that while the Americans are a wasteful people in many ways, rioting as they are upon the riches of a mighty continent, practically untouch-ed for thousands of years, until they seized upon it—the most of them, with in the present century; yet in a special sense are they wasteful in the matter of daily diet. They consume more meat than other peoples, heavily loaded with fat, and eat largely of engar and starchy foods, all of the fatty character.

Thus statisticians tell us that where the European consumers only 1 to 5 ounces. The result is disease from this excess, in various forms. We need more vegetables containing nitrogen, and mest of similar character, which is found in fish.
