THE Washington Post says it will soon be in order to change the name of the Third party to the tired party.

SIGNS of spring multiply. Wild ducks have been flying northward and a little robbing has been detected in the council chamber.—Chicago Times.

AN Ohio man who tried to be a preacher, editor, and postmaster at one and the same time has been declared insane. It was a brain-shattering combination.

IF Mr. Reed should exercise his abilities for his country as diligently and enthusiastically as he exercises them for his party he would become a statesman before he dies.

MR. SPRINGER is better but it is not probable that he will be able to take part in the pending tariff discussion. Thirty six representatives have indicated their purpose to take part in the debate.

THE 20th of May will be a big day in Charlotte. Senators Hill, Vance and Bansom, and Speaker Crisp, Congressman McMillin and all the North Carolina Representatives and thousands of people will be there.

A WASHINGTON dispatch, to the State Chronicle, of March the 11th says: In an interview today with a representative of the National Democrat, Col. Polk, President of the National Alliance, declared unequivocally for the Third party movement. He said that he expected to be nominated for Vice President of the Commonwealth.

THERE must be for a leader a man who will win success. The Omaha World-Herald believes that Gov. Boies is that man. The Cleveland-Hill feud has injured both those candidates. A Western man is thus made most available.

ON the final vote for consideration of the free-silver bill the Democrats voted two to one—131 to 60—in the affirmative. The Republican vote was proportionately much stronger—50 in the affirmative to only 18 in the negative.

THE Pacific responds to the Atlantic in tossing up a wave of Democratic victory. On the day after Portland, Me., was redeemed from Reedism, Seattle, in Washington, elected a Democratic Mayor by 800 majority. At the last State election the Republican ticket had 1,300 majority. The country seems to be all right, outside of New York and the national capital.

The revival meetings at Hancock street M. E. Church are going steadily on with increasing interest. Over a dozen have made a profession of religion thus far. Two were added to the number Sunday night and there were a number of other penitents, several of whom were converted last night.

It is expected that about 300 young men the best Y. M. C. A. workers in the State will be in attendance at the sixteenth annual convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of North Carolina which is to be held at Greensboro, March 24-27. An interesting programme of devotional services and practical discussions is arranged for.

We see it stated in an exchange that a good many families of negro laborers left the western section of Halifax county a few days ago for Chicago and that the colored population of that county has been greatly reduced during the past three years by the departure of families of the various States of the Union. It is said that 10,000 laborers are now wanted in the great North West for farm hands and other purposes at good wages.

Rev. Edward Mack who succeeds him, is engaged in cataloguing the library of the late Dr. Miller, says the Charlotte Chronicle. It contains 1,500 volumes. Among the collections are to be found the most ancient as well as most modern criticisms and commentaries to be had on the Bible and all the theological questions. Among the oldest volumes contained in the library is a set of sermons by John Calvin published in 1574. Another book bears date of 1553. Mr. Mack says he has never seen such a library in his life.

A Hand Book of North Carolina. The Raleigh News & Observer says: The World's Fair Executive Committee held a short session Friday morning at which it was determined to prepare and issue a pictorial and descriptive pamphlet, illustrative of the resources of all the counties of North Carolina. The pamphlet will be distributed at Chicago during the great exposition. It is a matter of congratulation that such a publication will be gotten out. It is needed, and during the World's Fair will have an opportunity to accomplish much good.

TO FARMERS. A situation wanted by an experienced farmer competent to oversee or to take charge of a farm, and willing to engage in any form of work.

THE RAILROADS OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Some of the Information Contained in the Railroad Commissioner's Report.

The first annual report of the North Carolina Railway Commission, which is a valuable volume of nearly 700 pages that brings the work of the Commissioners 'down to December 31, 1891 shows that there are 67 railroads in the State with a total mileage of 8,493 miles, every county in the State being represented by one or more roads save Alleghany, Ashe, Clay, Dare, Graham, Hyde, Pamlico, Transylvania, Tyrrell, Watauga, Yadkin and Yancey; 13 counties. The taxable property of the railroads was assessed in 1890 at $12,331,704 and in 1891 at $18,422,250; showing an increase of $6,100,546. An interesting feature of the admirably complete report which contains 630 pages is a summary of the capital stock, earnings, &c., of the roads. This shows that the capital stock is $39,911,313 in North Carolina. The funded debt in North Carolina is $38,584,978. The current liabilities are $3,879,458. The gross earnings in North Carolina in 1891, (year ending June 30.) were $8,651,125 and the operating expenses in this State for the same period were $5,829,541. The report covers the canal. These are the Albemarle and Chesapeake, five miles and a quarter, in Currituck; the Fairfield in Hyde; the Norfolk & North Carolina, (the Dismal Swamp) the Clubfoot & Harlowe in Craven and Carteret. There are tables showing the total value of the 3,433 miles of railway track, which is $10,407,370; of rolling stock, $1,639,931; other property, $524,756. No valuation per mile is given officially for the Seaboard & Roanoke, Raleigh & Gaston and Wilmington & Weldon, but in a footnote $10,000 per mile is set down as the value. The report gives a remarkably complete history of each railway, shows also its organization, property operated, capital stock, funded debt, assets and liabilities, income account, earnings from operation, general balance sheet, mileage, terminal point, employees and salaries, freight traffic; freight, passenger and telegraph rates they have established and regulations they have laid down governing the actions of these corporations, and many other points of interest; and useful to be informed upon.

TEACHER'S ASSEMBLY NOTES.

School Educational Exhibits — Business Address—Oratorical Contest for Gold Medal.

From the North Carolina Teacher we take the following items of information in reference to the ninth annual session of the North Carolina Teacher's Assembly which is to be held at Morehead from June 21, to July 23: The Teachers Assembly Educational Exposition this summer is going to be a big thing. The leading schools have already asked for space for their exhibits, and the displays will fill the Teacher's Building. Among the schools which have already secured space for exhibits are the University, St. Mary's School, Peace Institute, Agricultural and Mechanical College, Institution for the Deaf and Blind, Grandville Institute, Thomasville Orphanage, Graded Schools at Raleigh, Wilmington, Charlotte, Goldsboro, Lexington Seminary, Mt. Olive High Schools, and the four colleges for boys. We know of eight new scholars that a certain school secured on account of the fine exhibit made by that school in the Assembly's Educational Exposition at Morehead City in 1890 and 1891. We know of a graded school superintendent who was elected to a better and more remunerative position specially by reason of the exhibit of work at Morehead City which had been done by his pupils. No graded school or private boarding-school, no college nor the University can afford to be without representation in the Assembly's Educational Exposition this summer. Colonel J. L. Carr, one of the most successful business men of the South, has accepted an invitation to address the Teachers' Assembly this summer upon the timely and important topic, "What Business Men Expect of the Public Schools." Every superintendent and teacher of public schools ought to be present at the contest, a suggestive question discussed. It is proposed to inquire into and to show whether or not the schools supported by public taxation are doing the work which has been assigned to them by our Constitution and the School Law. Several public school officers will take part in the discussion of this interesting question. The "Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest" for the Teachers' Assembly gold medal will be one of the new and most interesting features of the Assembly programme this summer. There will be at least one contest in the contest from each society of our four principal colleges for males; the oration is to be original and the length of the speech is limited to fifteen minutes. All the colleges will be represented by their best speakers in this contest and there will be hundreds of friends of each institution present on the occasion. College societies who propose to enter the contest are requested to notify the secretary as early as possible, so that the programme may be properly arranged. The Assembly programme this year will be more of a "popular" character than ever before. It is intended to make all the work of special interest to "the people," and we would be glad to see present several thousand persons who are not teachers. The Teachers' Assembly intends to keep away, as far as possible, from the "normal school idea," and it strives to be what it set out to be—"a people's educational meeting under the direction of the teachers."

A Valuable Industrial Edition.

The Raleigh Chronicle states that Col. John D. Cameron of Asheville who was one of the many heartily welcomed and prominent visitors to our late Fair has since that time visited a few other cities, Fayetteville among the number, is now engaged in getting up a cotton factory edition of the Fayetteville Observer, the object of which is to give a history of all of the one hundred or more cotton factories in North Carolina, their motive power, number of looms, spindles, &c., character of fabric and, in fact, every thing pertaining to such establishments.

The edition will be a large one, upwards of 30,000, to be a production of 74 pages, printed on book paper and handsomely illustrated and will be the best medium ever resorted to bring to public knowledge the industrial operations of North Carolina as associated with cotton manufacture, and the best means of making known the interests and operations of the individual manufacturers.

Col. Cameron's extensive and accurate knowledge will fit him for the work he has undertaken. We are confident that the edition will be a valuable one both for preservation and wide distribution and that the industrial facts which will make easily accessible will prove a great stimulus to the further developments of the cotton manufacturing.

What a pity New Berne has not got a cotton factory that the issue could tell about. Other cities, towns and villages have them and they are flourishing. How long will New Berne continue without one or more?

Coming and Going.

Mr. Henry R. Bryan left yesterday morning to visit relatives at Kinston.

Mr. W. T. Lane left for Goldsboro on a business trip.

The steamer Neuse of the E. C. D. line took out the following passengers: M. W. E. Oliver leaving for Washington City on insurance business; Mrs. D. N. Kilburna returning to her home in Lenoirburg; Mass. from a visit to her sister Mrs. E. H. Cleypoolle and Miss Harriette Lane leaving for the North to purchase her spring stock of millinery.

Mr. W. O'Berry, of Goldsboro came down last night to visit Mr. J. E. Latham.

Mr. D. M. Hardy, of Goldsboro, came down to spend a few days in the city on insurance business.

The family of Mr. Elijah Taylor arrived moving from Olinstonville, S. C., to the city.

Mr. A. Schuitzer, returned from the North where he has been purchasing a spring stock.

The steamer Trent brought in the following passengers: Mr. J. W. Timberlake, returning from a visit to relatives at Pamlico; Miss Tamar Jones and Miss Eva Hadden, of Pamlico, and Mrs. Barfield of Wintrop, coming up to visit friends in the city.

TO FARMERS. A situation wanted by an experienced farmer competent to oversee or to take charge of a farm, and willing to engage in any form of work.

Mrs. Mary Simpson Bryan.

This estimable lady, who died suddenly a few days ago at the home of her daughter in Durham, deserves more than a passing notice at the hands of her friends and neighbors. The relic of the late Dr. James P. Bryan, an influential and educated Physician, she had learned to look upon the suffering side of life, and had trained herself to assume and bravely to perform the duties of sympathy and help incident to her position. Descended from intelligent and prominent ancestors, she had employed the privileges of birth and family to make her courteous to her neighbors and to enable her association with her fellow-men.

Her father, Col. Samuel S. Biddle, was known in his day as a patriotic citizen, eminent throughout his section for his devotion to all the interests and institutions of his country. And at Fort Braxwell, where he lived and where Mrs. Bryan spent her youth, he was considered a pattern of high, generous character and an example for all his countrymen to follow.

Perhaps there was no trait in Mrs. Bryan's character more conspicuous and attractive than her tender consideration for her children. She was the eldest among her daughters, and she died with a silver cord which brought the very bitterness of death in the breaking. What a beautiful home-life was hers. At Kinston, in New Berne and in Durham, this gentle mother's love made her the very crown and joy of the young girls who had grown up around her. The very light of life went out from them when she faded into the land of shadows. May the memory of her devotion and the legacy of her truth keep them forever from the evils of the world, and be an invisible guide along all the pathway of their future.—Rat. News and Observer.

"BIG IKE'S" TRIUMPH.

"Big Ike" one day came through the town Riding on a hobby.

The crowd grew denser and followed. Declared he looked quite nobly. And as he rode down Middle street The crowd grew denser and followed; Maidens clasped their hands in glee, And young men cheered and howled.

"Who is Big Ike?" some stranger asked, And why this demonstration? He is the poor man's friend, they said, The greatest in the nation.

For he has ridden down and slain Bug PROFITS and HIGH PRICES; Has killed all sorts of greed and gain With manly, true devices.

Behold the Conquering Hero's come! This fact is worth relating— Down at his stand, on Middle street, To serve you he is waiting.

"Assume a virtue if you have it not." —SHAKESPEARE.
