"WILL the third party carry any Southern State ?" was the question put by a reporter, at the Metro-politan, to Col. L. L. Polk, who as president of the National Farmers' Alliance and in sympathy with the independent movement is supposed to be better informed thereon than anybody. "I think," was his answer, "that the third party has a good fighting show in nine South-ern States, and in Georgia it is dead sure of winning. If the Southern States stand by the ern States, and in Georgia it is dead sure of winning. If the Southern States stand by the movement, se I have every reason to believe they will, the third party will also carry every State west of the Missouri river. conspicuously for learning, purity and Mr. Pettigrew is a worthy represenative of this time honored name-a young man of talent and thought he would make an able and conscientious officer. His canvass would inspire our people with confidence and do much to heal any disaffection existing in the ranks of Democracy. An earnest advocate of the peoples' rights, the East can present no abler, purer exponent of Jeffersonian Democracy and, we think the first district will reflect credit upon itself by presenting this rising young Democrat for the Attorney Generalcy. Of an agricultural family his interests and sympathies are with the people and in their wisdom they cannot select a more gifted champion or more aggressive standard bearer. OBSERVER.

We give space in this issue to the nomination by 'Obrerver' of Chas. L. Pettigrew, Esq. of Plymouth, for the Attorney Generalcy. As a young man of talent, energy and brains, he has few equals.

a century this name has been illustrious in N. C. history—faithful to every trust and equal to every emer-

The first Bishop of N. C., was the great-grand-father of Mr. Pettigrew. and his grandfather was the last farmer Congressman from this district before the election of Mr. Branch. It is said Mr. Pettigrew is a gentleman of learning, scope and depth, and inherits many of the attributes that has made his name famous. He has much of the brilliancy and magnetism that so dis-tinguished his uncle, the lamented

General Pettigrew.

We believe the East is entitled to the Attorney Generalcy and the East would be glad to see Mr. Pettigrew secure it. -Washington Gazette.
