No preacher is listened to but time, which gives us the same train and turn of thought that elder people have tried in vain to put into our heads before.

A HINDOO baby is named when it is twelve days old, and usually by the mother. The names the father calls it then, especially nights, wouldn't usually look well on a visiting card.

A SCOTCH blacksmith, being asked the meaning of metaphysics explains it as follows: "When the party who listens dinna ken what the party who speaks means, and when the party who speaks dinna ken what he means himself that is metaphysics."

The perfect woman is as beautiful as she is strong, as tender as she is sensible. She is calm, deliberate, dignified, leisurely; she is gay, graceful, sprightly, sympathetic; she is severe upon occasion, and upon occasion playful; she has fancies, dreams, romances, ideals.

The weighing of mails on the Washington and Charlotte railroad is finished. Each train going South averaged 10,500 pounds and those going North 6,000. The total number of pounds handled daily amounted to 31,000. For this the railroad company receives an annual compensation of $377,071.75.

BISHOP ARNETT, chairman board of trustees of Wilberforce (Ohio) University, the leading college of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, arrived in Winston Friday. The object of his visit here is to make an inspection with the view of locating the Obataqua or Summer Assembly of the National Association for the education of colored youth.

The chief Republican organ says that "Rhode Island is not a Democratic State, and cannot afford to be." All wrong. Owing to an undemocratic system of apportionment, and the requirement of a majority over all to elect State officers, Rhode Island has a Republican Governor and other officials. But in the last three elections the Democrats have carried the State by handsome pluralities, and both her Congressmen are Democrats. Every city in the State has a Democratic Mayor and local government. Rhode Island is a Democratic State and cannot afford to be anything else.—N. Y. World.

BECAUSE

short crops abroad made a market for an increased amount of American breadstuffs the Protection organs "point with pride" to the fact that "the McKinley bill has not suppressed exports." No one supposed it would, when the Old World is hungry; but it eats up in taxes the greater part of the small profits of the American farmers' crops.

At Richmond, Va., Moses Norman, a negro youth, was accused of stealing two morning papers from residences on Franklin street. He was caught in the act by the officer who made the arrest, and the Justice sent him on to the grand jury. He said he thought it was a petty offence (the larceny of six cents worth of papers) to send any one to the Hastings Court for, but that he could do nothing else in the matter. It was stated that on some routes as many as 75 and 100 papers have been stolen in one morning.

Nearly 300 out of the more than 800 parties who made professions of faith in Christ at the Fife meeting in Wilson handed in cards showing their church preference. Those handed in showed thus: Methodist, 60; Baptist, 50; Presbyterian, 20; Episcopal, 20; and Disciple, 10. Mr. Fife was presented with a check for $500 and $440 was raised for incidental expenses.

In response to the question asked by a correspondent in yesterday's JOURNAL we are informed that Col. H. H. H. of the World put down the river formed by the junction of the Euphrates and Tigris as the Shat-al-Arab, and an island formed by the river is called Aladin. Bishop Newman, of the Methodist church, however, in his book on Travels in the East calls that portion also the Euphrates, as well as that above the junction.

Under the inspiration of having had the State Sunday School convention in session here, our Sunday School people ought to go forward and organize a township convention in every township organization at all, but eight counties in the state have in every township. These are called banner counties. They are Henderson, Rowan, Cabarrus, Guilford, Alamance, Durham, Cumberland and Duplin. Craven ought immediately to be added to the number. A CAUTION.

Do not be Deceived by a Temporary Advance into a Failure to Reduce the Cotton Area.

An advance in the price of cotton about planting time has a tendency to cause farmers to put in a larger crop than they had previously decided upon. But the still lower price that has ruled fall after fall ought to show the fallacy of such hopes. But to the experience of the past, with which all are familiar, we add a present warning from Messrs. R. H. Rountree & Co., commission merchants, of New York. In a letter to Messrs. Green, Foy & Co., dated March 25th, they say:

"Owing to lighter receipts and more favorable Liverpool advice, a reaction began, which culminated in an advance of 33 points which were lost at the close. Yesterday adverse cables from Liverpool and a report that port receipts would increase next week, caused local longs to sell freely the purchases made during a few days previous, resulting in a decline of 11 to 12 points, but closing steady. Liverpool came to the rescue today with 84 advance and the market opened 7 points higher, and with slight changes, closed steady, to 4 points decline on opening. Should receipts continue light next week, a further advance is probable.

But unless the new crop acreage shall be reduced, we can see no hope of any material sustained advance, for whether receipts shall be light or heavy, the stocks in sight are a guarantee that there will be a large surplus at the end of this cotton year. If there were no farmers deceived by any temporary advance, which may come either from present light receipts or in the belief that the cotton acreage will be greatly reduced and crops diversified and are thereby betrayed into planting a large area in cotton, lower prices will soon follow, and if a large surplus of cotton is now being marketed, how low it will have to be marketed, certainly very low.

In view of these facts, would it not be well for each farmer to begin reduction at home without waiting to see what neighbors will do? And at the same time increase acreage in grain, grasses, fruits, truck, etc., thereby becoming independent of Western grain, hay and meat producers."

We are glad to be able to note that the advice contained in the last sentence is already being put into execution, that the increase in other crops than cotton has been continuous and the increase for several years and is still increasing. More truck is being sent off each year, more grain is being raised and as a natural sequence more hogs, and more attention is given to live stock of every kind.

As grain crops and live stock receive larger attention, it naturally follows that there will be a falling off in cotton, and wherever the course is pursued there need be no fear that prosperity and independence will follow.

The First Fast Day.

Editor JOURNAL—In an extract from the Charlotte News, printed in the Wilmington Messenger of the 1st inst., it is stated that "The first day of public fasting and prayer in America was ordered in North Carolina by the 'Committee of Public Safety' of Rowan County, Nov. 11, 1775.

Was it? The following taken verbatim from the Colonial Records, (Vol. 10, page 115.) shows that by order of the Continental Congress a fast & day was observed in "Newbern" four months before that in Rowan; and the piece I quote from the Colonial Records includes also a very interesting item of our local history.

GRAHAM DAVES.

Proceedings of the Safety Committee at Newbern:

Newbern, North Carolina, July 21st, 1775.

Agreeable to an order of the honorable the Continental Congress yesterday, the 20th instant was observed as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer to humble ourselves before God and to deprecate his impending judgments upon this rebellious and sinful people and offences. Divine service was performed in the church and a very animated and spirited discourse suitable to the occasion was read by a member of the Committee, to a very crowded audience, who were assembled on the occasion in the afternoon of the 20th instant. The following was read previous to the day, to wait on the Reverend Mr. James Keed, Member of the Parish, to request and entreat him to perform divine service in his church on the fast day and deliver a sermon, but their entreaties were vain, he giving as a sufficient reason, that as he was one of the missionaries of the honorable Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts, he should render himself obnoxious to the Ministry and of course lose his mission.

The Committee taking into consideration the refusal of the said James Keed, to perform divine service in his church on the fast day, a motion was made that the said suspension be agreed to; whereupon it was resolved unanimously, that the said suspension be confirmed.

IN GENERAL COMMITTEE.

Newbern, July 23d, 1775.

The Select Committee having passed a vote of censure on the Reverend Mr. James Keed, for refusing to perform divine service in his church on the fast day set apart by the Continental Congress for a fast, a motion was made that the said suspension be agreed to; whereupon it was resolved unanimously, that the said suspension be confirmed.

A SPRING IDLE.

At last! the Spring has come, by gum! All of a sudden, the trees are budding! And vegetation, commenced to hum. The young men's fancy, for his dear Nancy Grows warm and fervid with the beam of the sun;

The boys are wishing they could go to school, And tear their trousers—have lots of fun.

The little chicks, (prospective broilers) Now stunne their wee, piping throats And make the ambient air melodious. While the old hen, scratches gravel And keeps a constant clucking.

The deep throated bull frog, Sings the soft notes of the night With his Basso Profundo, And keeps up a strong rivalry With the crowds of darkey boys, Who at night fall assemblé And believe they are singing.

While tattering the circumambient atmosphere.

And all the signs abound, They are lying all around (Just like a weather prophet) That gentle Spring is here When wood won't be so dear, (And hence a saving to one's pocket)

Let genial breezes blow, and gentle showers fall And the golden sunlight warm our generous soil For a suitable reward for the plucky trucker's toil Will be of greater help to us all.

Hail! Vernal Spring! and thou Fernal March, be not too generous With thy boisterous winds When they blow in leading thee thou mayest be leading thy time honored twelve days, And cut them short To say five or six.

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men."

Our advice to you is, not to send to Pennsylvania for your "pants," or to Vest Virginia for your "vests," or to Dakota for your coats, or to Colorado for your collars, or to Connecticut for your "neckties," or to Hatteras for your "hats," but come right to Howard's where you will find all the above goods just in and at reasonable prices. Sample lot Hair, Cloth and Whisk brushes, Pocket books and purses.
