It will be the same old fight, Cleveland against Harrison. But the result will not be the same.

LA PATRIE, the leading French paper in Canada, openly favors annexation with the United States.

THE rice trust has shut down four mills in New Orleans. The planters and brokers are going to combine to fight the trust.

THE cotton compress syndicate has purchased all the compresses of New Orleans except two. The price paid was $20,000,000.

WALTER SHAW, arrested for killing his mother and aunt at Houston, Tex., confesses that he killed them to get $40 with which to continue a spree.

MR. CLEVELAND made a ringing speech at Providence at the closing rally of the Rhode Island Campaign. "Tariff Reform" is the keynote of his splendid address.

IF Cleveland and Boies are nominated—and the Star thinks that will be the ticket—they will have a fair chance of carrying several Eastern and Western States that have gone Republican in every Presidential election since the war.—Wil. Star.

BISHOP Herbert Vaughan, of Belfast, who has been appointed Archbishop of Westminster, to succeed the late Cardinal Manning, has a well earned reputation as a scholar and preacher, and, like his predecessor, is of sturdy English stock. His appointment is likely to be received with much favor.

HERE is an interesting item clipped from the Marion Free Lance: There is in this county a terrapin which was picked up in 1846 by Mr. M. S. McCurry, of Golden Valley, and the date on the shell. The same terrapin has been found and marked from time to time until now it bears the dates 1846, 1865, 1875, 1876, 1880 and 1891. The bidders for the "overland" mail route between Wilmington and Southport ought to buy that terrapin and break him to harness at once—that is, if they really expect to secure the terrapin route.

It is now alleged that a practical cotton picker is found and the owners offer to pick cotton, by contract, for 40 cents per 100 pounds. Alliances or agricultural associations or business men can rent the machines and pick cotton in certain sections. It is said here that if the machine is really perfect it will revolutionize things.

A REPUBLICAN contemporary remarks that the $21,000,000 appropriation by an economic Congress for rivers and harbors is a pretty respectable sum. Well it is, but then it will be expended upon respectable rivers and harbors, and not on duck ponds and creeks that run into the ground and can't be found in the summer time.—Wil. Star.

LOCAL NEWS.

The great fire at New Orleans is estimated at $3,000,000. Besides a large business portion of the city, 90,000 bales of cotton were burned.

There being more wind than cotton buying yesterday, some of the members of the Exchange engaged in the pastime of the season kite flying.

Mr. J. M. Patrick of Lenoir, who had been suffering for some months with a diseased eye had it taken out Monday by Drs. Duffy and Hughes and is getting on very well after the operation.

The first number of "No Name" has reached us. It is a monthly paper, published at Smyrna, N. C. It is the organ of the Smyrna Scientific Society and the editors are John M. Phillips and Bernard W. Spillman.

The Charleston News & Courier states that the contract has been made for the construction of the N. W. & C. railroad in that State to the North Carolina line and that it is now probable that the line will include New Berne.

We are in receipt of the annual report of State Auditor Sanderlin. It makes a very convenient book of reference when it is desired to know anything of areas of counties, &c., kind amount and value of taxable property in each and the State's receipts, expenditures, &c.

From the Danville, Va., Daily Register we take the following: "Mr. A. M. Baker, manager of the Danville and North Danville Dry Goods company is one of the best dry goods men in the South." We are glad to see another New Bernian so well appreciated in his new home.

We noticed the schooner Joseph pretty well loaded and still receiving goods yesterday from our wholesale merchants for the merchants of Onslow county. Among them were a large lot of groceries from Capt. E. R. Jones, others from Lucas & Lewis and a good supply of agricultural implements from J. C. Whitty & Co.

We have had the letter from Washington which we publish today some little time, but agreeable to the instruction of the writer we have held it until the present. It leaves him in the Patent Office Department in his tour of inspection. It will be followed by another letter that will put our readers in possession of some astonishing facts that are contrary to generally received beliefs and that are but little known outside of the Patent Office.

Truck Outlook.
Around New Berne a large amount of truck crops were planted and they are looking fine. The acreage in potatoes is probably about 25 per cent larger than last year. Mosses, Hackburn & Willet have 750 barrels planted. The season here as elsewhere is later than usual but the truckers look forward with as hopeful anticipations as they ever do at this time of the year.

Prices of truck from places farther South run well and if the crops from the different sections follow each other in regular order without conflicting there is no reason why the prices should not be maintained and the crops prove as profitable as though the season were an early one.

Good Work in Savannah.
Who is there that does not remember with rejoicing the glorious work that was accomplished in this city under the preaching of Rev. E. G. Pearson, D. D., who is now conducting a series of meetings in Savannah? We know our readers will be glad to hear of him and his work and we therefore give the following extract from a letter of Rev. L. C. Vase, D. D.

"We all loved him in New Bern. He has been laid aside since last June but is now able to work again. He began preaching here on Sabbath, March, 30th, but was unable on two nights to speak. So I had to preach once, and another of our pastors the second night.

My church is for the overflow meeting. The church we use (the Wesley Memorial church) is not large enough though it can hold about 1,500 or 1,700. It is packed and jammed every night, and we have large congregations in the mornings. There have been between 100 and 200 conversions of congregations already and we are expecting greater results next week.

Dr. Pearson is still feeble and Mrs. Pearson cannot work in the field in New Bern, but he is a favored workman for God."

WASHINGTON CITY.

TOUR OF INSPECTION.

Corcoran Art Gallery—War Department—Washington Monument—Secretary of Agriculture—New Berne's Trucking—Seed Department—Patent Office.

Washington, D. C., March 19th, 1892. We informed you when visiting Dr. Henion we were out on a tour of instruction and observation. From Willard Hall we went to the Corcoran Art Gallery, not distant, to kill time, until noon when we expected to call upon the Secretary of War, to attend to some matters for others. A street only dividing the War Department and Art building. A turn through the rooms of the latter is always interesting and elevating.

The painter can even excel the poet in descriptive scenes however realistic the latter's efforts may appear.

Strikingly proven was this in a picture on the wall we had before us. Two dogs are represented on the plains lost in the snow, their own tracks obliterated and they have hopelessly given up. Not a tree, bush or any obstruction in a vast sweep of territory without a hill or undulation. In its centre stand the dogs, one has its head up howling and the other with its head run under the neck of its companion, indeed the picture of despair. No sound comes back in answer to the call—they are beyond the reach of the master, lost in their anxious effort to serve him. Here is loneliness depicted as no writer could describe. Tennyson beautifully exclaims "As lonely as a wood bird resting on the sea foam in its weariness." The bird blown from land in its flight exhausted falls at last upon the sea. Instantly teaches it now its fate.

In the voyage of life but few of us escape the sensation of its condition, and some, in reality, experience it and the condition of the represented lot does fall in serving others.

We were on time at the War Department, handed to the Messenger, at the door of the ante-room of the Secretary's office, a letter of introduction from Senator Ransom and after the enquiry whether we were a member of Congress, he invited us in to a seat and disappeared with the note through a partition door.

Members of Congress have precedence in visiting the heads of the different Departments. We were now with a number of others, some before us and some coming in afterwards. While waiting we cast our eyes around at the beautiful and costly fresco and stained work in the gorgeous room, and at the portraits of the ex-Secretaries of War, hanging in gilt frames on the walls. The great War Secretary Stanton, a son of our Carter county, the most famous among them.

The door opened after we had waited about twenty minutes and in came a pleasant looking gentleman, who was gray, six feet in height, well proportioned, dressed in a dark gray suit, Prince Albert coat, and to red to those present. He turned to two young men to whom he said, "I'll do it" and they immediately withdrew.

It was Secretary Stephen D. Elkins. He now came over to your correspondent extending his hand which was met with ours and holding on to it he asked "How is Senator Ransom this snowy morning." We made a short, very short speech in reply, to which he observed "please say to Senator Ransom so far as it involves upon this office his wishes shall be complied with." We bowed ourself out without further delay.

How do you suppose your correspondent was recognized by the Secretary, who had never seen or heard of him before, among a number of others? Do you know why white sheep eat more grass than black ones? We suppose so, then you may unravel the mystery of the first question.

Down now to the Secretary of Agriculture. Boarding a car drawn by four horses and running quickly, we were soon in short walking distance of the place.

The Washington monument reaching up five hundred and fifty feet above in the cold wind stands out clearly against the dark clouds. Some time back Mr. Washington Bryan and your correspondent ascended it in an elevator, five hundred feet, requiring about nine minutes walking down, we used up half hour. Since then in the same time we walked from Squire Brinson's store, in Newbern crossing the Trent railroad bridge and thence down to Gray's paper factory. From the top of the Washington a wagon and two horses appear as toys and is said, good eyes can take in a stretch of forty miles.

The messenger invited us in the ante-room of the Secretary's office in which was a young lady doing lively work on a type-writer. She carried in our card and in a moment returned with the invitation to walk in. The Secretary approached and taking us cordially by the hand said at once, this we did but himself still standing we stood quickly up again beside him, until the request was repeated to take the chair.

He lost no time in alluding to our truckers and their success, remarking he was watching their operations with much interest around Newbern, and was very glad they were getting out of the old rut and had exemplified the fact that our people could drop out cotton and survive and prosper; make something to eat as well as something to wear.

After brief conversation we arose to take our departure, when he touched a bell and in came a clerk, whom he directed to give us a note to the Superintendent of the Seed Department for the seed we desired and, to show us through the Seed Grounds. We now bid adieu to Secretary Rusk. "Uncle Jerry," who is a remarkably fine looking gentleman draped nearly in black, his hair white and complexion clear. In manner and size he reminded us strongly of our late Governor Morehead.

In the Seed Department, knowing he was there on a messenger boy, we asked that Mr. Walter Bonin, a son of the late editor and proprietor of the Wilmington Messenger, might be allowed to join us, this request was granted and he was called up, each being equally gratified to thus meet the other.

In the Seed Room thousands and hundreds of thousands of papers of seed are received and sent out to every part of the country, the estimated value of a single paper of seed is one cent. The Southern members of Congress are anxious to obtain all they can while those from city districts care nothing about them. Mr. Cumming, of New York, gave Mr. Williams of this State, eighteen hundred packages, of his allotment, about nine thousand single papers of various kind of seed.

There were in the rooms, about two hundred and fifty women at work. They commence at 9 o'clock and stop at 4 o'clock, with 30 minutes for luncheon.

Put as many canaries in a room as there are women there and as many English sparrows, multiply the number with rice birds in the spring, then again with cat birds and let all sing in their highest notes and an idea could be formed of the clatter in the Seed Rooms. They let all talk and sing if they wish and it is certain they wish. None get less than $150 per day and some as much as $1200 per year salary. The most of the women are young and many are pretty, they are however, intermixed with, here and there, ugly old women, that have forgotten the ways of a girl. So long has it been since they, like Susan B. Anthony, were one.

After getting through with our visit, we went to the Patent office where we met Mr. R. C. Gill busily occupied in selecting specimens for the Columbian Exposition. We may say more of this hereafter if time and weather permit. There is no other museum of the kind equal to it in the world.

An Incident of Cleveland's Inauguration.

We had a pleasant call yesterday from Dr. Chas. Duffy, Sr., of Catharine Lake, Onslow county. He is a remarkably well preserved old gentleman vigorous and of retentive memory.

Dr. Duffy is a strong Cleveland advocate, believing him to be the man for the time. He tells us of an incident that took place at his inauguration, small in itself but which indelibly impressed itself upon his mind as a straw that revealed the true character and simple tastes of the man and the policy that ruled throughout his administration.

At the time of his inauguration, a magnificent Bible considered appropriate to the grand occasion was in readiness, but Cleveland modestly remarked that he preferred to be sworn in upon his mother's Bible and he drew forth the plain well used book and that was the one used, thus administering a rebuke to extravagance and reckless waste.

Coming and Going.
Mr. N. W. Schenck, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. J. J. Dinsway, left yesterday morning returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor left to spend a short time at Kingston.

Mrs. Edward Bell and son, of New York, came in on the steamer New Berne of the O. D. line on a pleasure trip to the city—also Capt. Daniels and Miss Nellie Taylor from North river.

A LEADING QUESTION.
Who is it with enterprise Competition all defies. And to reach each pocket tries.

From whom if you would dry goods buy— Hats, Boots, Shoes, or gorgeous tie. Or Clothes to attract all passer-by?

Who is the man with steady bent, Doth every auction sale frequent, And buy out stocks at low per cent?

And who with his untiring grit, Makes for these goods BIG BARGAINS sit, All for the peoples benefit?

Democratic Ex. Committee.
The Democratic Executive Committee of Craven county met March 20th, 1892. The following action was taken:

Resolved, That the Democratic Convention of Craven county be held Saturday May 7th, 1892, at 11 o'clock at the court house in New Berne.

Resolved, That the primary meeting for the selection of delegates to represent the several townships in the county convention be held Saturday, April 23d, 1892.

The Township Executive Committees are requested to hold the meetings on the above date.

MATT. MANLY, Chmn. S. R. STREET, Sec'y.

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men."

Our advice to you is, not to send to Pennsylvania for your "pants," or to Vest Virginia for your "vests" or to Dakota for your coats, or to Colorado for your collars, or to Connecticut for your "neckties" or to Hattaras for your "hats," but come right to Howard's where you will find all the above goods just in and at reasonable prices. Sample lot Hair, Cloth and Whitak brushes. Pocket books and purses.
