THE wheat and oat crop in the Wilson section was never finer. The Advance says that wheat is now in the formative period, and the rains for the past week will be the making of an excellent yield. Corn is small, but is looking well. An excellent stand of cotton was secured and it is growing finely. All crops are clean. Farmers complain of a bad stand of peanuts.

The fact that the Democrats of Arkansas have nominated a Union veteran for Governor is a sign of the times which should not go unheeded by those who are still full of the hatreds of the war period. The South is as solid for the Union as it is for Jeffersonian Democracy.

Mr. A. L. Butt had quite a good attendance at his panoramic exhibition last night. He showed the Revelations of St. John on Patmos, 24 fine scenes. Tonight he will show "Beautiful Pictures of the Old Bible"—30 scenes extending from the creation to the time of Solomon. Three of the scenes are active pictures, that is the objects move. They are "Entering the Ark," "The Burning of Sodom," and "Elijah as Mt. Camel calling down fire." The three last scenes will be panoramic pictures—parts of Solomon's temple in gold. Only 10 and 15 cents admission. It is for the benefit of Hancock Street Methodist Church.

CLEVELAND AND STEVENSON.

BOTH NOMINATED ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

The Man of Destiny and Stevenson of Illinois Will Lead to Victory.

CHICAGO, June 23—8:30 A. M.—First ballot complete. Cleveland 6161, Hill 113, Boies 103, Gorman 361, Stevenson 111, Morrison 5, Carlisle 15, Campbell 2, Patterson 1, Whitney 1, Russell 1. Cleveland is nominated. Great enthusiasm.

3:44 A. M.—Ohio moves rules be suspended, and Cleveland be made nominated by acclamation.

Motion seconded by Daniels of Virginia and Flowers of New York.

Motion carried and convention adjourned until 2 o'clock p. m.

Convention called to order at 2:50, Chicago time.

Lamb of Indiana nominated Gray, and said Indiana's 15 electoral votes were certain for Democracy with Gray on the ticket.

Worthington of Illinois nominated Stevenson of Illinois.

Uhl of Michigan nominated Judge Morse of Michigan.

Evenson of Illinois was nominated on the first ballot.

Mr. Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, is about 55 or 60 years of age. He was Fourth Assistant Postmaster General during Cleveland's administration, and has been in public life otherwise.

He is a most magnificent man, a special friend of the South, and a thorough-going Democrat. He is also very popular. He was by all odds the most popular man in Cleveland's cabinet. His name adds strength to the ticket.

He is of North Carolina parentage, and has a warm attachment for the State. That this is returned is shown by the fact that on the vote for President North Carolina gave him 10 3/8 votes, leaving only 5 1/3 for other candidates.

The ticket is a good one, calculated to inspire respect, and win. It deserves the support of all patriots.

Yacht Club and its Social!

The Yacht Club will have a great social gathering at the club house this evening commencing at 6 o'clock special arrangements have been made for refreshments and the money raised will be used in improving the club property.

One of the first events on the programme is a boat review to take place about dusk. There will also be a boat naming contest. The one that received the title of "The Elder" at the last entertainment is to be renamed. Special music will be provided for the occasion.

The old bath house has been torn down which makes quite an improvement in the looks of the surroundings.

The club will now fix up necessary conveniences and have a fine swimming ground on the opposite side of Neuse river.

About a dozen new names have been handed in for club membership among whom are business men of the city. So many have been joining lately that it is probable that action will be taken to limit the number who will be allowed to join.

Decayed Away From Home.

Mr. G. W. Johnson, of Raleigh was on the train yesterday morning with his son Guy, returning home from Hunting Quarter. This is the first time Mr. Johnson and his son have met in two years and he tells us the following story of his son's experiences and the circumstances of his going away.

He left home two years ago as assistant to a book agent, John Peebles, of Baltimore, with his father's permission, to work with him as far as Durham and then return—he being 14 years of age at the time.

Peebles, however, refused to let him return, and compelled him to go with him to Baltimore preventing correspondence with his father and representing that Guy was a runaway son of his own. He succeeded in gaining the credence of the hearers instead of the boy. At Baltimore he shipped him on a vessel bound to the West Indies in a way as to secure the wages earned to himself and not until the return of the vessel to the United States did Guy's father get any tidings of him. Since that time there have been in correspondence but the son getting free from Peebles, chose to keep on at work—as first as a hand on vessels and later as a corymbor, near Hunting Quarter.

This State where his father went down to see him and got him back home yesterday.

TEACHERS' ASSEMBLY.

The Sharpies and Steam Yacht—Opening and Annual Addresses—Elegant Musical Instruments—Magnificent Surf-Bathing—Dancing.

(SPECIAL JOURNAL CORRESPONDENT)

SECOND DAY, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, '92. The busy hum of the days activity commenced at an early hour. In the dining room of the "Atlantic" a very animated scene was presented. A friend at my elbow suggested that he came here for board but got "plank."

After breakfast a considerable number took the opportunity to enjoy a sail. The sky was a little over-cast but the wind brisk and invigorating. The sharpies, all reefed, and mostly double reefed, moved upon the water like things of life, and a very enjoyable time was had.

The fleet of sharpies ready for service for fishing or sailing, is superior to any hitherto provided. There are a dozen, perhaps twice that number, beautiful models, staunch, safe and comfortable, with white sails, made all radiant and beautiful by the painters art, which offer an exquisite pleasure to visitors, and rare to a large proportion of them, who come from the inland portions of the State. There is also an elegant naphtha launch, which takes visitors on excursions.

We notice that some of the visitors from the interior can give our long-shoremen a few points in fishing. Just now a young man passed through the hall, rod in hand, returning from a brief excursion, with a nice little bunch of mullets. Our fishermen can't catch that kind of fish with a hook and line. He didn't mean any harm, but the lookers on were not suckers.

The regular work of the Assembly commenced promptly at the appointed hour—10:30 a. m. The large and suitable hall, tastily, but not profusely decorated, and hung round with portraits of distinguished educators, was fairly filled with an appreciative audience. After singing "There is beauty all around, when there's love at home," Bishop Lyman of Raleigh conducted devotional exercises.

The opening address was made by Hon. T. W. Mason of Northampton Co. It was a development of the thought that the aims of the Assembly and the expectations of the people are that the public schools shall give good citizens to the State. Mr. Mason is an eloquent man, of fine presence and his address was earnest and forcible.

Then Miss Lulu Brown of Greensboro sang a song, "The night bird's cooling," to the admiration and great delight of every one.

The annual address was next in order, and was delivered from a carefully prepared manuscript by the President, Hugh Morson, of Raleigh, the First Vice-President, J. J. Blair, Sup't of the Graded Schools at Winston occupying the chair. The subject was, "The promise this organization makes to the people." It was well received and heartily applauded.

At the close, Bishop Lyman made some remarks in which he criticized the public school system, because the schools do not teach religion.

Secretary Harrell presented a gavel, sent by the Southern Education Association, made from a piece of wood from Lookout Mountain, which had been struck by a bullet in the "Battle above the Clouds." It looks "ugly" as it lies imbedded in the center of one side.

The hall is well supplied with musical instruments, there being two organs and two pianos on the platform, of beautiful appearance and excellent quality—Secretary Harrell says far better than at any previous assembly. They are furnished through the agency of Mr. A. Cohn of New Berne. Miss Bessie Worthington, of Rocky Mount, discourses the music, and wins golden opinions.

Miss Gertrude Jenkins of Salem, N. C., occupies her desk on the platform as stenographic operator.

An announcement was made that the boatmen would give a complimentary row to the assembly at half past three. About two hundred availed themselves of the courtesy, and went across the sound to the beach. The wind was blowing quite heavily from the boom, causing the huge waves to roll in magnificently, and dash their white crests upon the shore. Seldom has there been a finer surf for bathing, and it was enjoyed immensely, probably one-half or more frolicking in the water for an hour or two.

During the progress of dinner, some one arose and made the announcement that "Cleveland had been nominated on the first ballot." So great was the hand-clapping and enthusiasm that they seemed likely to forget to finish dinner. After a little it was discovered to be two farming utensils (see ex.)

When the train came in it brought another hundred to "join the glorious fray." Teachers to the right of us, teachers to the left of us, teachers in front of us—four hundred and fifty strong.

At 8:30 Mr. Frank Beard of Chicago, gave one of his inimitable "Chalk Talks" to a large and appreciative audience. He is genial as May, without a philosopher, and as full of puns as Hood. It is remarkable how quickly he can transfer one of his "idle fancies" to the canvass. We shall look for his appearance again with interest.

The music of the orchestra, the low sound of the dancers, as they glide along the floor, the heavier step of the lookers on, the murmur of voices in conversation, all mingle together and rise up like the sound of many waters. As the last sands of the passing day are running out, the company withdraws, the lights are extinguished and silence reigns.

But the silence is not long unbroken. One would not expect the guests to rise very early the next morning, and indeed the guests do not. It is not they who lead up the march of the next day's busy throng.

I am reminded of the story of the school boy, who had assigned to him this line to read "Up, up, up, the sun is in the sky." This is the way he got through it: "Dancing, dancing, the sun is in the sky!" When the morning comes, Lucy, who has been sleeping through the maze of the assembly dance, "doubles up" for another nap, and Dinah; at the head of a small, but very lively brigade, goes on, in a somewhat different "fashion" than the same morn, but with the merry part all left out. And so it comes to pass that even at the early dawn the confused noise of the daily battle for cleanliness is resumed.
