THE lines are drawn and this is to be a square stand up fight between the representatives of the protected and pampered monopolists, and the representatives of the unprotected and plundered people. There are only two sides which should

In the 22d line, section 6, of the democratic platform, as published, the word gold should not have appeared. It should read: "and we demand that all paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin"—meaning silver and gold.

GEN. STEVENSON is popular with Southern Democrats. He was First Assistant Postmaster-General under Cleveland, and as a "head-chopper" was a pronounced success. He "turned the rascals out" of the post-offices so fast that they hardly had time to pack their carpet-bags.—Wilmington Star.

LOCAL NEWS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
Standard books for sale.
J. C. Harrison—Sale of land.
National Bank—45th dividend.

Local showers today.
Goldboro has her first cotton bloom. It was from the farm of Capt. T. H. Bain in the suburbs.

Some one has borrowed a bound file of the JOURNAL. They will please return it to this office right away.

The Argus states that during the storm of Friday, the wind struck the Goldboro lumber plant, unroofed the dry kilns and did considerable damage to the mills—to the extent of $500.

The children's day exercises of the Baptist Sunday school at Morehead City consisted of twenty renditions—songs, recitations, etc. The programme embraced a good variety, and it was quite entertaining and well rendered.

The hour for opening the ice cream parlor opposite the post office has been changed. It will be open every Tuesday and Friday evening from seven to ten o'clock. It is conducted by the King's Daughters, a most worthy organization.

An interesting camp meeting is in progress at the banks eight miles from Morehead. It began Thursday the 23d and it is the intention for it to continue through the week. It is stated that near 1,000 were present Sunday. Crowds went over from Beaufort, Morehead and other points.

Mr. R. D. Springle, a farmer and merchant 59 years of age, who lives near Core Creek, Carteret county, was married on the 18th inst. to a granddaughter of his first wife. She was 17 years of age. If they should be blessed with children there will be a good chance for the curious to figure out the complex relationship of the family.

As will be seen from a notice elsewhere where the Board of Directors of the National Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of five per cent. This is its forty-fifth dividend and speaks well. This bank is one of the best paying in the State. By careful management in its business affairs it has won the perfect confidence of the people and established a good name.

Mr. Wyman, who is in charge of the Sewerage work for the Lewis Mercer Construction Company has been notified by Lenster Duffy, Superintendent of Health to discontinue the work during the heated term as soon as the part now open is filled in and the short strip connecting it with that part finished at Berne street is built all of which is expected to be accomplished today.

The committee on our citizens on propositions of the N. W. & C. Railroad met last night to consider the proposition as made a few nights ago, which was afterwards drawn up into writing by representatives of the railroad and submitted to the committee. After deciding on such alterations as they deem desirable they will forward the amended agreement to the railroad authorities for ratification.

Today is "Popular Education Day" at the Assembly. A part of the programme is a meeting of county superintendents of public instruction. Tomorrow will be a very interesting day. There will be two contests for gold medals—the inter-collegiate oratorical contest between eight picked men, two from each of the four leading colleges of the State, and at night there will be a concert by the glee club of the University of the State.

We see it stated by a Raleigh correspondent of the Wilmington Messenger, that there have been sent out from the Agricultural Department twenty-five sets of beautiful jars to as many ladies in various parts of the State, these jars to contain pantry products, such as preserves, jellies, pickles, etc., and that the ladies are responding rapidly to the requests for their co-operation in this business. We hope that New Berne ladies will not delay in securing a supply of these jars and filling them with the beautiful dainties they know so well how to make. They are seldom behindhand in any commendable movement and a good report may be expected of them.

THE NATIONAL BANK OF
NEW BERNE, N. C., June 27, 1892.
45th Dividend.

The Board of Directors of this Bank has this day declared the usual semi-annual dividend of five per cent, payable on and after July 1st proximo.

TEACHERS' ASSEMBLY.

A Few Departures—200 New Arrivals—Review of Bishop Lyman's "Trip to the Holy Land."
(SPECIAL JOURNAL CORRESPONDENT)
FIFTH DAY, SATURDAY, JUNE 25.
The day is not as clear as the other days with which we have been favored—clouds obscure the brightness of the morning.

Quite a large number leave for their homes. Some have completed an engagement, some can spare no more time, some have other duties, and it may be among the possibilities that some of an aesthetic turn of mind have wrestled with some such problem as the "whenceforth of the wherewithall," till they have got tired.

To those who remain, it is, according to the usual custom of the assembly, a day of rest. No public sessions are held in assembly hall—every one is left free to follow the suggestions of his own sweet will. The day wears on with electrical displays from the clouds and slight rains, till darkness closes her wing over the scene.

The train brought down a couple of hundred, more than replacing the number of departures in the morning and recruiting our household to the number of, say, seven hundred.

A large audience greeted Bishop Lyman in the Hall at 8:30 to hear him speak from personal recollection of "A Trip to the Holy Land." The Bishop spoke in an easy, simple, conversational manner, while the intrinsic interest which attaches to every place and scene in this land of the far away and the long ago, held his audience in the closest attention. And as we seemed to be, almost in reality, and without an effort of the imagination, making the "trip" with him.

"We jumped from the steamer into the frail boats in the midst of a heavy, running sea, and were rowed to the wharf landing at Joppa, the part of the country, and then made our way on horseback, with our baggage strapped to the backs of mules, up, by a series of hills, over a way which was in no sense a road, but only a bridle path thirty-five miles to the city of Jerusalem.

We entered the Holy City by the Jaffa gate near Mount Zion, between which and Mount Mariah, on which the temple was built, there is a deep ravine. A strong wall was built about Mount Mariah, carried up to its summit, and filled in, to make a surface upon which the temple might stand, and although in the destruction of the city, not one stone of the temple was left upon another, this wall, which was no part of the temple, was uninjured and remains to this day. A very beautiful Mohammedan mosque now occupies the former site of the magnificent temple into which we may enter after paying a small fare but not till we have put off our shoes, for to every Mohammedan it is holy ground.

We visit Calvary, "the green hill outside the city wall, where the dear Lord was crucified," and are pointed to three holes in the earth, where the crosses were planted. The place of burial is near, both under the roof of the Church of the Holy Sepulcher.

We cross the brook Kedron—only a little rivulet, six inches deep, and dry in summer—and enter the garden of Gethsemane. Here are abundant olive trees, mostly small, though its life time is a thousand years. Two trees are exceptional. They are large, and have the appearance of most extreme age. They are said to have been here in Christ's time, and it is credible.

We make the ascent of the Mount of Olives, and on the summit, where the Saviour pressed his last footsteps, see the sun rise gloriously, and look out over a view magnificent and beautiful beyond description.

We descend the eastern slope to the place where was the home of Mary and Martha and Lazarus, and think "There was love, sweet love, and the heart grew warm. When the Lord to Bethany came," and return to Jerusalem by the road that leads around the base of the mountain.

We go down to Bethlehem, the city of David, six miles to the southward, and there, in a church built in the fourth century, see in a cavern, the place where we may readily believe Christ was born. The city is small, but beautiful, and presents the same appearance as in the olden time. Not only are there the same fertile valleys and green hill sides, but the shepherds still watch their flocks by night, as in the days when the angels sang Christ's natal song.

We went down the dreary, desolate road from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell upon a company of Arabs, by whom we would have been stripped and wounded but for the presence with us of a sheik. With such a one along we are safe, otherwise it is a case for the Good Samaritan. The waters here, so "bitter" in the time of Elisha, stave their healing by him, have continued pure and wholesome "unto this day."

We went to the Jordan, where John baptized and Christ received baptism. The waters, clear at their fountains, near the mountains of Lebanon, are here turbid and noisome. We bathed in the river, which is attended with some danger, as the current is swift, and the banks are lined with trees and thick with undergrowth.

We went to the Dead Sea, the very

THE PREACHING AT MOREHEAD.

There was quite a galaxy of noted ecclesiastical talent called into use at Morehead and Beaufort Sunday from among the visitors—more so than often get together except at special ministerial gatherings.

In the morning Bishop Lyman preached in the Assembly Hall; Dr. Shearer, President of Davidson College, in the Methodist Church, and Dr. Skinner of Raleigh in the Baptist Church.

At night, Dr. Wm. E. Hall, of New York lectured in the Assembly Hall, on "The Resurrection," which was the only service in the town the others being discontinued to give an opportunity of hearing him. At Beaufort, Dr. B. F. Dixon, President of Greensboro Female College preached in the Methodist church. Next Sunday he will preach in the Methodist church at Morehead, other prominent divines will also preach in the town that day, among them the celebrated young North Carolina minister Rev. Thos. Dixon, now located in New York.

Coming and Going.
Bishop Lyman of Raleigh who has been lecturing and preaching at the Assembly passed through yesterday morning en route for New York.

Col. W. J. Martin one of the professors of Davidson College who has been attending the Assembly spent Saturday and Sunday in this city with Rev. O. G. Vardell and left for his home yesterday morning.

Mr. F. C. Bryan who has been visiting relatives in the city returned to Norfolk.

Mrs. J. J. Discoway and Miss Emma Discoway left yesterday morning to spend the summer in the Western part of the State, and Miss Daisy S. Sobenock to visit friends at Durham.

Mr. Jas. F. Taylor returned on the steamer Neuse from a Northern trip.

Prof. and Mrs. Geo. W. Neal left on the Neuse to visit their daughter, Mrs. John H. Bell, of Washington City.

Mrs. John Tull of Morganton, is visiting relatives in the city.

Mr. W. H. Oliver went down to attend the meeting of those interested in collecting historical facts called by Prof. E. A. Alderman, for yesterday which was postponed until today.

Miss Jennie Willis left for Morehead in company with Misses Emily White, Nellie Edwards and Mrs. F. A. Woodard, who have been visiting at Rev. R. A. Willis'.

Our former townsmen, Mr. Louis Ulrich, of Morehead, passed through en route to Henderson.

A Naval Reserve for New Berne.
At the meeting called last week at the rooms of the New Berne Yacht Club to effect an organization of Naval Reserves, Mr. J. E. Latham was made chairman and Mr. M. R. Howard, sec retary.

Fifty names were enrolled as members, and the chairman was instructed to forward names to Lieut. Stuart W. Cramen, Commander of N. C. Naval Reserves at Charlotte, N. C.

The following officers were elected to serve till permanent organization can be effected:
Lieut. Commander, S. C. Bragaw.
Lieut. Junior, J. E. Latham.
Ensign, F. E. Morton.

This is a step in the right direction, New Berne is perhaps the only town in the State with a population over four thousand that is without a military company. Some towns not so large as New Berne having two. Every town should have some armed enlistment other than that furnished by the City government, and, especially is this applicable to towns geographically situated as New Berne.

All good citizens will at once agree, we believe, that we need a military organization and exert themselves to make it a success.

The projectors of the movement wish to say that to have called upon all persons who would likely have enlisted, could not be done on account of the very limited time.

Another meeting will be held in a few days and it is hoped that every person interested will be present.

One Deer Kills Another.
"It is an ill wind that blows no good." This adage was exemplified in the event that followed the destruction of the greater portion of the high Fair ground fence on the northern side by the storm of Saturday. It resulted in some of our citizens getting a meal of fine venison.

Eight of the ten deer that the Fair Association keeps constantly on the grounds occupied and upon being recovered and got in the grounds again, the larger buck, a three year old fellow excitedly and without any previous intimation of wrath, attacked the smaller one and by a violent thrust in the side tossed him, according to the witness of the by-standers, about twenty feet.

The attacked deer was so badly injured that it was seen he could not live, and it was decided to kill him immediately and use the flesh. Thus we had the luxury of venison out of season and without violating the game law either.

The officers of the Fair, with that promptness of action which has done so much to cause the Fair to attain its high measure of success, had quite a fence set up yesterday rebuilding the fence, and nearly all of that on the southern side was back again in good order by last night.

REMARKABLE SHEET OF WATER.

brilliant, filled with a great variety of salts, but without vegetable or animal life, without outlet, and receiving the constant current of the Jordan, yet never overflowing or even rising. Thirteen hundred feet below the Mediterranean, the fervent heat raises and dissipates the water in vapor as fast as it is poured in by the Jordan. The water is so dense that one floats in it easily, but it covers the body with a sticky incrustation which produces itching sensations and great discomfort.

We went to Hebron, once the home of Abraham, where his white tent was pitched in such number that it must have seemed like a large village for a household of three hundred and eighteen men capable of bearing arms would intimate a total of more than five hundred. Here is the cave of Macpelah, in which Abraham and Sarah, and Isaac and Rebekah rest in their long sleep, and await the brighter morning of the better resurrection. Over their bodies rises the mounds of Omb. Christians are not admitted, we would be killed if we came near—we could not get within a hundred yards.

We went to Damascus, that old city, well known in the days of Abraham, and as we approached it looked down from one of its surrounding mountains, and were filled with admiration as we saw the beautiful city, set like a jewel in the emerald green of its glorious valley, through which a tressed like silver threads those famed rivers, the Abana and Pharpar. We were pointed to the place where Paul was stricken down by the bright Seraphim, to be raised up a changed man with inspired vision.

Damascus blades are used in this city as two thousand years ago—will take one and out of the three of our discourse right here.

SUNDAY, JUNE 26
The day was beautiful enough to invite to the worship of the sanctuary. At 11 a. m., the Hall was filled with an attentive and serious congregation. Rev. Mr. Hunter, Principal of the Augustine Normal school, Raleigh (col.), conducted the service in connection with Bishop Lyman. The Bishop preached a sermon from the passage in Romans 5:19. If when we were enemies we were reconciled by the death of his son, much more being reconciled we shall be saved by his life.

At 5 p. m., the Hall was packed to witness the contest for the Dummer medal. Six competitors entered—Dollie Davis, Lillie Webb and Miss Clawson, all of Beaufort, Miss Fulford of Morehead, Florence Pittman, of Kingston, and Annie Abbott of New Berne. The souls of points embraced memory, voice, gesture, expression and general effort. They scored respectively, 39, 43, 32, 5, 47, 9, 10, 15, 36, 19. The medal was presented with a neat brief address to Miss Einstein, by Prof. Logan Howell, Supt. of schools at Tarboro. The declarations were all excellent, as a whole—so the Secretary said—better than at any previous assembly. The judges, of whom your correspondent was one, were all unknown, even by name to each other, and the competitors were all unknown to them. Miss Annie Abbott lacked chiefly in "gesture." Her declaration was excellent, and in "general effect" ranked as high as any, except one.

If the Hall was packed at 8 o'clock, it was packed and jammed at 8 o'clock, with an audience eager to hear Dr. Hall of New York, on the "Resurrection." He spoke for an hour and a half in his usual animated, rapid, forcible manner, to the great delight and profit of his large audience.
