AFTER THE BATTLE. Each Side Charging the Other With Murder—Pinkertons Freed—They Claimed to Have Been Fooled and Forced into the Fight.

No new deaths were reported to day and the whole number of those known to have been killed in yesterday's battle are 11. Nine of these were residents of Homestead and two Pinkerton men. It is believed that several other Pinkerton men were shot and fell into the river, and that the current carried their bodies away, but there is no way to verify this.

The locked out men, many of whom had not closed their eyes in sleep for 48 hours, retired early last night and few of them put in an appearance this morning, but a strong armed squad was detailed last night to guard every approach to the immense plant. The complete routing of the Pinkertons yesterday evening puts the men in high spirits and the more radical boldly declare that should another attempt be made by the company to obtain possession of its property the enemy will receive even worse treatment than that accorded to the detectives brought here on the barges.

Hugh O'Donnell and other conservative labor leaders denounce the action of the mob after the surrender of the deputies as having been brutal and cowardly. To the credit of the great majority of the men who are locked out, it can be said that they had no hand in the assault upon the defenseless men. They did all in their power to protect the men who had thrown themselves upon their mercy. But they were powerless to control the angry mob of foreigners, especially the female portion of it. Had it not been for the wild demonstrations indulged in by the women, who called upon their husbands and sons to avenge the killing of the workmen who were shot by the Pinkertons, it is probable the latter would not have been so roughly handled.

Burgess McGluckie addressed the crowd at the rink, and said: "Fellow citizens, I call upon you and each of you to act in an orderly manner. We will not permit any further unlawful demonstrations. All the men will be locked up, and not one of them will be allowed to escape. Each one of these 'bums' and 'beats' who came here to shoot down honest working men will be charged with murder. We will see if the poor people have not equal rights with monopolists who employ and send to their place a gang of murderers and cut-throats." This address was greeted with cheers. It had the desired effect, and the mob became more orderly.

TO ARREST FRICK FOR MURDER. There is talk of a movement on the part of friends of the strikers who were killed at Homestead yesterday to have H. C. Frick, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, limited arrested on a charge of murder. It is claimed that Mr. Frick is directly responsible for the employment of the Pinkertons and that he is culpable in the eyes of the law as was Milton Weston, a Chicago capitalist, who was convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to serve seven years in the penitentiary for causing a riot in the Murrayville gas field in 1885. Weston sent an armed force to take possession of that property in dispute. One man was killed, and although Weston was in Chicago when the trouble occurred he was found guilty of murder in the second degree. The only apparent difference in the cases is that Weston acted as an individual, while Frick is the head of a corporation.

MAY INDICT THE STRIKERS. Mr. Frick was not visible to the majority of callers at his office today, but Secretary Lovejoy, of the company said: "The Amalgamated people who committed these recent overt acts will probably find themselves in a very bad hole, for when the proper time arrives a number of them will be arrested on a charge of murder, and I need scarcely say there will be no lack of evidence. It will be overwhelming. I think that the national officers of the Amalgamated Association have a heavy burden of responsibility to bear in this case, for timely action and prudent counsel on their part would, in my opinion, have gone far toward preventing this trouble. This outbreak settles one matter forever, and that is that the Homestead mill hereafter will be run non-union, and the Carnegie Company will never again recognize the Amalgamated Association nor any other labor organization. The Homestead trouble will doubtless also have the effect of influencing any other mills heretofore union to become non-union, and thus free their owners from the arbitrary dictation of labor unions. I also consider that this riot by the so-called members of the Amalgamated Association will be its death blow. It will certainly go far to alienate the sympathy and good wishes of the best people in the community."

About 10 o'clock tonight the headquarters of the Homestead men were invaded by three men, who mingled among a good sized crowd in the rooms and distributed an incendiary circular, evidently prepared by the Anarchistic societies of Pittsburgh, or perhaps Chicago. The Anarchistic met with the greatest surprise of their lives. The strikers, so far from falling in to the arms of the emissaries of destruction and dynamite, at once took them prisoners and prepared to hustle them out of town. Homestead is strangely silent this morning. It is the quiet of sober after thought. The leaders are wondering what will be the next step. The men are bathing their wounds, or making preparations to bury their dead.

The leaders of the men propose at once to have the fence of the Carnegie property rebuilt, and also to repair all other damage caused by yesterday's riot. This will be done so as to prevent any suits for damages from the company. The old guards were secured by the men, and placed on duty to again look after the company's interest. There is much surprise here over the reported release by the Sheriff of the Pinkerton guards. When the men agreed not to kill the guards it was the understanding that the guards should be placed in jail till information for the murderers could be sworn out against them. The report of their release excited much angry discussion at first, but this was quieted when it was remembered that if the men appeared as witnesses they would themselves be liable to prosecution for riot. Several of the leaders expressed relief over the release and believe no legal complications will arise.

They declare that had the guards not come here there would have been no violence. As evidence of their sincerity a committee of three went through the works at an early hour this morning, coiled up the ropes, and hose, took down all barricades and removed so far as possible all evidences of a conflict. Homestead again is waiting, waiting confidently and sternly.

A PINKERTON MAN'S STORY. PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 7.—With his head bandaged, one arm in a sling, Joseph Glosier, a man weighing over 200 pounds, was the picture of misery. He said: "I got all my injuries on the way from the boat to the rink, but I am not complaining. I should have had my head knocked off for coming here. My home is in Jersey City. I have a family. Recently I lost my position. A friend told me he could get me a place as private detective in a little town near Pittsburgh at a salary of $15 a week and board. I went home and told my wife. With tears in her eyes she begged me not to accept the place."

"She said something told her the employment offered was not honorable as people were not paying private watchmen such large salaries. But I did not listen to her. After being hauled all over New York and Ohio, I reached Pittsburgh with a number of men, whom I also learned had been engaged as watchmen. None of us knew exactly where we were going, and not until we heard the firing early in the morning did we know there was trouble of any kind. When I was handed a gun I threw it down and told the man who appeared to be a sort of captain, that I would not fire a shot against workmen. I am glad to escape alive. I am sure at least half a dozen men were drowned by jumping overboard when they saw the men on the shore were determined to burn the barges."

STORY OF THE TRUCK AND HOW IT WAS BROUGHT ABOUT. One of a group of four men who were on the barges, said at the rink last night: "We came here from Brooklyn to accept places as private watchmen. When we arrived here in the boats and heard the shooting we realized the kind of a box we had placed ourselves in. Fully seventy-five per cent. of the men had been deceived, and they demanded of the leaders that all firing from the boat cease and a flag of truce be run up. I was selected as spokesman, but when I went to the captain and told him what the men wanted he turned upon me with a terrible curse and said: 'You'll fight or die. You can't get out of here alive unless you fight your way out.' When I repeated this to the men they were very indignant and suggested that the ropes be cut, and we let the barges float down the river. The captain learned of this and said he would kill the first man who attempted to cut the ropes. All day long we pleaded with those in command but in vain. Finally when we saw preparations were being made to burn the barges we decided to act promptly. About fifty of us got together and we resolved to make a final plea for deliverance from our awful position and if it were refused to throw the leaders, about ten in number, overboard and take things in our own hands. When we made this demand the commander saw that we were very much in earnest and they agreed to surrender."

The Beaten Pinkertons. NEW YORK, July 8.—A special train arrived at Jersey City from Pittsburgh, 2:30 p. m., with 272 of the bruised and battered Pinkerton detectives driven out of Homestead. They presented a sorry sight as they limped away in charge of Pinkerton officials. Their stories agree with those already published. One man said that Captain Cooper offered a passing steambot $2,000 and then $5,000 to tow the barges away, but he was afraid to come near.

Pinkertons to be Excluded from Kentucky. LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 8.—A bill will be introduced in the General Assembly at Frankfort today prohibiting the employment of Pinkertons in Kentucky. Feeling Aroused at Frick's Statement. HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 8.—The official utterances of President Frick printed in this morning's papers, again aroused the feeling of every workman who has taken part in the trouble. His statements were attacked on every side.

The Check Tempted him. ALBANY, N. Y., July 8.—A central railroad section boss named W. J. MacDonald, tried to extort a check for $3,000 from judge J. H. Clute to-day at the point of a revolver. The judge grappled with MacDonald and held him until an officer arrested him.

Will They Use Dynamite? PITTSBURGH, July 8.—A startling rumor, which cannot be vouched for, is current today, that the Homestead strikers are determined to make themselves at that place as costly as possible before they will acknowledge defeat. The report is that several outside men, who are thoroughly informed as to the manner of handling dynamite effectively, have been employed to act when an emergency comes. It is said that the strikers will not permit injury to the Carnegie mill, unless they have exhausted other means of defense. The last step will be the use of dynamite. As soon as an armed force appears on the ground, either deputy sheriffs or the militia, it is asserted that the dynamiters will be prepared to hurl bombs into the mill, and an effort will be made to destroy the entire plant.

Serenity of feeling is that blessed calm that reposes upon the ocean of conscious rectitude.

A TRUE STORY. Said Baby Ruth Cleveland to Baby McKee You will sail up "Salt River" in March, '98. When that happy event shall come to pass, Remember, to keep off the White House grass. I'm real sorry your nose will be "out of joint." Let's tell tales! I can cheer you with one that has point; It isn't a fable, but it's every word so. For my papa told me, and he ought to know.

Once on a time—there lives in New Berne, A town that is booming, for each way you turn, They are building new railroads, or water works, Electric cars, aqueducts, and fire alarm quirts;— In this town lives a man, a "Tar Heel" by birth, And a wonderful thing is, he don't WANT THE EARTH! His name is Big Ike, he's 'most great as papa, Whew! said Baby McKee, why Ruth, what a whopper! It isn't, said Ruth, for he keeps a big store, With goods cheap as people ne'er heard of before, The Farmers' Alliance make it their headquarters, And take with them home for their sons and their daughters, Such beautiful hats, boots, shoes, clothes and rings, Bracelets, ribbons, umbrellas, and whole heaps of things; Besides he has trade from all of the town Because of the fact that he puts prices down.

Well, said Baby McKee, when I am a man, I shall be like Big Ike as near as I can, So people can talk of the good that I do, And wear pretty things that I sell them, too. Now, said Baby Ruth, as she sat by his side, And turned up her nose with an air of great pride, Don't Mac, tell the truth, I only ask that, Baby's my tale beat your chestnut "bout "Great Grandpa's Hat"?
