NOBODY knows better how the Christian ought to carry himself than the hypocrite.—Ram's Horn.

The best advice in all things is to lay them plainly before the Lord and crave his assistance without preambing to him the kind and manner of help.—Pendleton.

Passion is the great motor and springs of the soul, when men's passion is the strongest they may have great and noble effects, but they are then also apt to fall into the greatest miscarriage.—Sprat.

Did you ever feel the joy of winning a soul for Christ? I tell you there is no joy out of heaven which exceeds it—the grasp of the hand of one who says: "By your means I was turned from darkness."—Spurgeon.

The well-defined spiritual life is not only the highest life but it is also the most easily lived. The whole cross is more easily carried than the half. It is the man who tries to make the best of both. But he who has taken his stand, who has drawn a boundary line, sharp and deep about his religious life, who has marked off all beyond as forever forbidden ground to him; finds the yoke easy and the burden light.—Prof. Drummond.

NOTHING raises the price of a blessing like its removal, whereas it was its continuance which would have taught us its value. There are three requisites to proper enjoyment of earthly blessings—a thankful reflection on the goodness of the Giver, a deep sense of our unworthiness, a recollection of the uncertainty of long possessing them. The first should make us grateful, the second humble, and the third moderate.—Hannah Moore.

THANK God—there is one book—the Book of books, which we all perforce hear, and in which day by day we read. In all great literature you may learn to see God, but best and clearest there; and we might be content to sacrifice the rest of human wisdom for all one sentence means—"Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Ob, if you can read nothing else which is calm and good and true, read that book; its teachings will stay with you in lines of blessing when the world itself has begun to fade away. Farrar.

THE Primitive Methodists have been holding their annual Conference. At home the membership showed a decrease of 552. The mission work was prosperous, six missions in London alone showing an increase of fifteen per cent. In the colonies the growth was more than 350 members, and in the African mission there was an increase of seventeen per cent. One of the interesting items of the meeting was the greeting from Canadian Methodism, presented by Dr. Poole. He said that in Canada, while the increase in population was eleven per cent., that in Methodist membership was fourteen per cent. It was proposed to raise for connexional purposes a public fund, it being fifty years since the formation of the society. The total amount subscribed to it so far is $70,000.

Private Telephone Lines. The Union telephone now on exhibition at the Hotel Albert, is one of the latest and best inventions of the age for rapid and accurate communication between two points. After a personal investigation of the system, we can say that for simplicity of construction, beauty of design and distinct articulation, this telephone cannot be surpassed. We had the pleasure of holding a few minutes' conversation over the wire with Mr. Bellard, and were surprised at the distinctness with which every syllable could be heard. Mr. Bellard tells us that this phone works equally well for a distance of two miles, and can be put up ready for use at a slight advance on the rental of the ordinary telephone. The absence of electric batteries reduces the liability of getting out of order, and prevents entirely the danger from fire or shock. These phones are put up in any style of wood to suit purchaser, are elegantly nickel-plated, and become the absolute property of the investor, the lines will last a lifetime, and we think are just the thing for persons who wish rapid, sure, cheap and private communication with stables, mills, offices, depots, etc.

Mr. Bellard will construct these lines, and guarantee them to work perfectly, at such low rates as to place them within reach of every business man. The short line now on exhibition at the Hotel Albert is ready for investigation, and all callers who wish to examine the phones will be given every opportunity to see for themselves that it does everything claimed for it.

Topic, "How to extend the Sunday school work in the State," by W. W. Lawrence.

Resolved, That the program for the session be closed by the reading of the following words of appreciation.

Words of Appreciation. Kindness Shown on All Sides to a Minister.

Generosity is a beautiful word in our English language.

But its practice makes one feel its force more absolutely when it is enjoyed without solicitation.

Ingratitude is a great crime, and we feel it would be criminal in us to allow our pen or tongue to be still when we are continually made the recipients of kindness.

First, with no solicitation the New Berne Daily Journal, our splendid city journal, is sent to us free of charge.

Then, some of my members, with some from other churches, keep pounding us every now and then.

Then two of our lively stable men generously offer us horses and buggies free of cost whenever we need to ride of an evening or morning, viz. brothers Street and Stewart.

We went on board the steamer coming from Vanceboro to this place, some months ago, with a purse generously supplied us by the church there at the close of a meeting we held, and felt good that we were able to pay our way home. But when we pulled out our money and wanted to pay for the pleasant trip, Capt. David Roberts our passage, he said plainly it was a free ride to us then and hereafter.

Then we found our watch was out of order and would not keep time. Surely we can get clear of some of our money, and we applied to brother Ed. Bangert, who did us a splendid job on our watch, but totally refused to take one cent for it.

Then we felt like contrasting these free-hearted people with the steam car, charged an old colored preacher $5.00 for a ride, and would not take a cent less than they charged a gambler of any other person, and who said to the conductor, "you do not let de Lord on dis road." We felt in our hearts that the editor, and Capt. Gatling and Capt. Roberts and the pounding crowd and the watchmaker and the two lively-stable men here did "lab de Lord."

Jno. F. Butt, Pastor Hancock Church.
