THE phrase "Where am I at?" is not necessarily a sign of inebriety. Even the Prohibition candidate will be apt to ask the same question the day after election.

THERE are two ways to be miserable on a hot day. One is to stay at home and mourn because you did not go off on a big excursion; the other is to go on the excursion.

ACCORDING to the report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 was expended in sugar bounties last year. The Republican party has a patent on this method of cheapening sugar.

It was not essential to the vindication of so honorable and estimable a gentleman as the Hon. James E. Cobb, of Alabama, that he should have been subjected to an inquisition into his personal habits, out of which he was sure to emerge completely exonerated, but he is to be congratulated nevertheless upon the triumphant result of this unpleasant ordeal. The Watson charges have fallen flat, and the only man thus far seems to have been injured by them is their author and promulgator. Mr. Cobb was all right anyhow, with or without an investigation. His character and standing, as a sober, upright citizen and conscientious legislator are too well established to be affected by the shafts of calumny.—Post.

THE NORTH CAROLINIAN.

The initial number of the North Carolinian, dated Friday, August the 5th, is now before us and we are charmed with its appearance.

It is an eight column four page paper filled with "new as is news," good selections and sound and elegant Democratic editorials. While finding no fault with the North Carolinian, there are two things that specially please us—it makes its debut on Friday, and the price of the paper is two dollars a year.

Josephus Daniels is not the man to shy at Friday enterprises. He is no crank trusting to luck, but a well poised man relying on industry and enterprise joined with the fearless advocacy of sound principles, to work out their legitimate results.

Placing the price of the Carolinian at two dollars a year shows that it is to be no "shoddy goods," but of a high quality. There is such a thing as publishing a good weekly newspaper at a dollar a year, but it is done at the expense of brain and muscle, and soon passes away. A good weekly is always worth two dollars a year—a poor paper is worth nothing.

The JOURNAL congratulates Mr. Daniels and the public on the establishment of the North Carolinian. We can wish for it no better fortune than that its success may be equal to its merits.

TRAVELLER'S NOTES.

Impressions of Asheville, Its Buildings, Its Streets, Its Scenery and Its Characteristics.

ASHEVILLE, July 25th, 1893
EDITOR JOURNAL:—My first visit to Asheville was in the summer of 1869. It was then quite a small place, with a few churches, a court house, and one good hotel, called, if I remember correctly, the "Eagle." I rode from Morganton over the mountains in a stage coach, upon my arrival I was met with cold, disagreeable weather. My second visit was in December 1890, I was a delegate to the Inter-State Immigration convention, I then rode over the mountains at night during a howling blizzard, and found the place wrapped in snow and ice. This is my third visit, and the weather is hot and oppressive as any I have ever felt any where. Such are my experience of the three visits here.

That Asheville has made very rapid progress, and is still doing so, is plainly visible on all sides, immense sums of money have been invested here, and the end is not yet. On all sides are evidences of wealth. The city is laid out as well as the features of the site will admit, but the streets are very narrow, and the grade in nearly all of them, is so steep, that in walking down them, a visitor from a level country, feels like putting on brakes; and in going up, feels the need of something to pull him ahead.

There are a great many very beautiful dwellings here, as beautiful as paint, putty, minarets, bay windows, brackets, tin shingles, wide doors and plate glass windows can make them, and they cost large sums of money. The surroundings of many of them are very beautiful, magnificent grass lawns, elegant shade trees, parties of beautiful flowers mostly exotics, and well gravelled walks, running down into shady nooks, the whole scene made more beautiful by groups of happy children playing under the shade and making the air resound with shouts of joyous laughter.

But there are some lots that are neglected; a portion of the front fences are in dilapidated condition; still with all of these defects Asheville is a pleasant and rather a pretty place.

The expenses of living here are fearful, house rent is exorbitant, the house at which I am stopping, rents for seventy five dollars per month; and is valued at $10,000. You can rent a better house in New Bern for $25 per month, or you can buy as large a lot, and build on it, a better house, all for $4,000.

I have not seen a level lot 100 feet in width unless graded, since I have been here, some of the lots are 20 feet below the side walks and some are 30 feet above them. Often the front door of a house, when on a level with the street, the rear of the house will require a long flight of steps to reach the back yard.

This may be a good spot for persons to make money in, provided they have capital to commence with, but for men of small means, I think there are many places in North Carolina far preferable. One who has means sufficient to start a medium large business here, successfully, has enough to live in affluence elsewhere.

I do not, and I never believed, that any mountain country, is as favorable to longevity as the sea coast. We judge a tree by its fruits, and we judge the salubrity and healthfulness of a country by the appearance of the inhabitants. The men and women of the east are, on the average, of better physique than those of the west.

Catarrh.

Catarrh is a most disgusting ailment and yet many unnecessarily suffer with the disease. They will try local applications, which do no good whatever, but fail to try such constitutional treatment as is afforded by a use of B. B. B. (Bottan Blood Balm), which removes the mucous poison in the blood and thus eradicates the cause of the disease.

N. C. Edwards, Lumpasas Springs, Tex., writes: "I was greatly annoyed with catarrh which impaired my general health. The discharge from my nose was very offensive, and I used various advertised remedies without benefit until finally the use of B. B. B. entirely cured me. I am proud to recommend a blood remedy with such powerful curative virtue."

B. C. Kinard & Son, Towaliga, Ga., writes: "We induced a neighbor to try B. B. B. for catarrh, which he thought incurable as it had resisted all treatment. It delighted him and continuing its use he was cured sound and well."

Notice of No-Co-Partnership!

After much consideration and due deliberation, I have concluded to never sail in the old ship—that ship—that has brought so many to ruin—Co-partnership. Often I am asked the question, "Don't you want a partner? you have more business than you can attend to. I am making no money and would like to close my business and go in with you, as you seem to be making all the money!"

Where did you Get that Hat?

In the question often asked Big Ike on the street. Let me look at it. I never saw any like it before. Some think it a Cleveland Hat, some a Harrison, and some a Weaver Hat. Makes no difference to Big Ike, he had just as leave get a dollar from a Weaver man as a Harrison man, and a Cleveland man as a Weaver man. All the same to him.

Boys, Take Warning!

I fear some of my friends will be disappointed this year in going to the Annual Picnic at Alam Springs. If comes off Tuesday after the first Sunday in August. Boys, take warning, NOT the first Tuesday in August.

The Right Time!

My brother merchants say it is too dull to advertise. I am doing more now than I ever done. I believe it pays better to advertise during the dull season.

A Penny Saved, Etc.

Has Hard Times got to your house yet? Have you made up your mind that you would try Big Ike next time you go to New Bern. Next year promises to be the hardest year Eastern North Carolina has ever experienced. What will the harvest be? In the daily study of every farmer in the country. Will he have enough to satisfy the mortgage he gave last Spring.
