THANKSGIVING.

This is Thanksgiving day. There is no time when it is no appropriate to render thanks to the Great Creator for Histender mercy and loving kindness. From the fortherest north to the remotest south, from the morning star in the east to the setting sun in the weet, let every thing that hath breath praise the Lord: Praise ye the Lord. ate for praise and thanksgiving, we now have especial occasion to fill the courts of our God with sounding praise and exultant hal lelujahs

Other lands have been visited by the pestilence that walketh in darkness and the destruction that wasteth at noonday, while this blessed land has been kept as in the hollow of His hand, secure in His protective care. Other nationalities have been visited by mildew and famine, but our country has been as the vineyard of the Lord.

Even now, at this very moment. the air is vocal with shouts of triimph. Hark! It is the song o glest the opportunity to call on their jubilee! "Pharoah and his horses druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Baland chariots are drowne ! in the size free. Large bottle 50c and $1, Sold sen." "Praise the Lord, in the city by all druggists. of our God, in the mountain of His Holiness."

GIGANTIC REPTIL S.

Some of the Monsters That at On Time lababited the Deep

The Rev. Dr. Gordon, of the fee lias recently made a study of the gigantic reptiles which are sup posed to have been the mer-ice of modern state and backs Ong species, the children was of enormous size, attuiving a length of forty-five feet. Another, the mosasaurus nervinus, was resulv twice as big, measuring when full a thest F. S. Daffy's drag store grown not less than bight a feet. Yet larger was the lieston, har see of all the mighty sourians of that vanished era, which has a long muzzle that is surmised in law. been used as a care in techning.

These enormous creature, in form resembling cels, plower the waters with four paddles and proneller-like tail, in parsuit of fishes which were their food. Their heads were large and flat, and they swallowed their prey whole, being able to take in animals of greater firth than themselves, owing to the arrangement of their jawwhich were provided midway their length with hinges.

When they lived this Configent we lower than it is now. New lessy and Delaware, as well as most of the Southern States, were under water and the Rocky Mounttains, in places Income root le Acvated than at present, appear as a range separated from the Val-ley of the Mississippi by a broad fact, an inland sea, terming with animal life. In those days real sea - rpents not only existed, but their numbers were almost incalcuable, as a proved by their bones left behind in the rock of subsequent forms tion, and in many car - we get -feetly preserved that entere si tons have been found and mounted in the museums. Prof. O. C Marsh, of New Haven, speaks of having seen as many as six of these fossil monsters in view at the same time in one small valley out West. After all, the question is merely one of size, imasmuch as marin snakes are very plentiful at preent in some parts of the world. They swarm in the Indian Ocean and a naval officer was telling me bthe other day that he had seen them in sheals of thousands to gether in the tinlf of Siam. So humerous were they that it was necessary to thread the cables. while at anchor, through barrels in order to prevent the reptileclimbing up the ropes and coming aboard while the ship was at anny means superfluous, owing to the fact that, as anyone may learn by turning to the "Standard Nat-Jural History," these serpents are most dangerously poisonous. They evidently traveled in great nunbers together. The seas from Madagascar to Panama, and from Japan to New Zealand are thickly e reptilian expert of the Smith-smian Institute, says that they are among the most poisonous or all known serpents, their venom-being not less deadly then that of the cobra or rattlesnake.

Furthermore, they are very flerce and aggressive and will commonly attack human beings if hey get a chance. They do not frequent the shallows, unless pos sibly for breeding, but live in the open ocean. When full grown they are from six to eight feet Fishermen in the waters long. where they are found are greatly afraid of them. Their bodies are flat, and the inside of them is almost wholly filled by the lungs, which are large, in order that they may be enabled to stay beneath the surface for a long time without coming up to breathe. They have eyes modified for seeing in the water, so that when they are taken out of their native element they seem blinded and strike wildly. Their fangs, like those of the cobra, REMARKABLE RESCUE.

Mrs. Mich el Curtain, Plainfield, El., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but gree worse. He told her she was a ropel sevictim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, she bought a bottle and to er delight found berself benefited from ley of the Mississippi by a broad first dose. She continued its use and after expanse of salt water, that was, in taking ten bott es found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is well as she ever was.
