Superior Court. The following cases occupied the attention of court yesterday:

John Jackson, trespass. Judgment suspended upon payment of cost.

J. B. Bryan, false pretense. Guilty. Judgment not rendered.

John McNiel, Assault and battery. Guilty. Judgment, $25 fine and cost.

Alton Grimes and Daniel Keys, convicted of the previous day of affray. Fined each $25 and costs.

State vs. Cicero Mason, Assault with deadly weapon. Guilty.

Civil Issue, Hurst, Purnell & Co. vs. N. B. Ippock. Judgment for plaintiff.

Civil Issue, R. S. Primrose vs. Tony Bishop. Judgment for plaintiff.

State vs. Aaron Nelson, Wilful trespass. Guilty.

In a number of cases, sentence has not yet been pronounced upon the convicted parties.

Summons served on Cleveland. Willis B. Smith, a young lawyer of Richmond, had a summons served on President-elect Cleveland notifying him to appear in the Chancery Court of Richmond next Monday, and answer a bill of complaint filed against him and others by the aforesaid Smith. He claims $5000 damages for alleged breach of contract for his professional services in the settlement of the public debt of Virginia.

Cleveland was chairman of the advisory committee, and among his associates were ex-Secretary Bayard, ex-Minister E. J. Phelps and others. All of these are made defendants in the suit brought by Smith. Mr. Smith has been watching ever since that time for some of them to come into the State so as to serve them with summons.

Plurality of Harrison over Cleveland in Ohio, as officially announced, is 1,042. S. M. Taylor's plurality for Secretary of State is 1,029. The vote of the Presidential candidate is as follows: Harrison 405,187; Cleveland 404,115; Bidwell 17,912; Weaver 14,852.

A very destructive fire occurred in Fayetteville, Wednesday morning about 2 o'clock. It is supposed to have had its origin in a burglary. There were five two-story brick buildings burned. They comprised nine stores with the stocks. The total loss is $40,000. The insurance amounted to $18,000.

Some professional burglars evidently are about Raleigh. The Chronicle tells of a very bold attempt of theirs to open a safe in the store of Wyatt Bros. by the use of burglars tools and powder. The explosion attracted attention and they were broken up in the work and fled leaving their tools and not having obtained any valuables.

Wilmington is having a grand time with her Welcome Week celebration; the weather is fine, thousands of visitors are present and the business portions of the city are gorgeous with a bewildering display of bunting, flags, banners and other adornments; there have been boat races, marine parades, military and firemen's parades, industrial parade with numerous elegant floats, a tournament &c.

The Winston Sentinel says Philip Hines is in the lead so far as big hogs have been heard from. He has one that will tip the beam at one thousand pounds. We would like to see that hog at the New Berne Fair. Eastern farmers might find it hard to surpass him but if he should prove entitled to the first premium they would submit with grace and start out for another trial at the next fair.

Winston's severe losses by fire are causing the purchase of another fire engine for the city to be advocated. A movement is also in progress for the organization of a hook and ladder company. New Berne is very creditably supplied as to engines, but we ought to have a good hook and ladder company equipped with everything necessary for the best work. Such a company can render extremely valuable assistance in many cases and we doubt not if we had had one when the big fire at the market occurred it would have been the means of saving thousands of dollars worth of property right then that was destroyed.

Notice to the World. Payment will be received by me to the mortgage of $500 given L. J. Moore et al. The condition for which it was given has not been complied with. ISAAC H. SMITH.

PHYSICAL TRAINING IN SCHOOLS.

Of Great Importance if Judiciously Enforced.

The following taken from one of our exchanges is well worthy of consideration:

The best thought of the country is in favor of some approved system of physical training in the schools. The need of this is more urgent in towns and cities than in the country, for reasons which are obvious. We cordially endorse the position taken by the Youth's Companion on the subject and commend it to the consideration of all educators. The physical of city children must be kept up by some intelligent method of training applied along with their mental exercises. It is argued that "for some of the mental training imposed upon such children physical drill should be substituted. One hour—two hours, if necessary—might be taken from the school hours and devoted to muscle-building exercises. Under a competent trainer and leader such exercises develop the greatest amount of result in the shape of enlarged muscles, and what is equally important, they lessen nervous development, as is evidenced by less craving for excitement.

Many schools are already equipped with such arrangements, and the results have been most gratifying.

Every public school in every large city should be provided with appointments for regular physical exercises and drills. The time spent in exercises of this kind shows more muscle building result than the same amount of time spent in some laborious occupation demanding the use of certain muscles only; in fact, these exercises correct errors of unsymmetrical development that exclusive occupations induce.

For girls especially such exercises are valuable. Girls are as capable of developing muscles as are their brothers, and they are no less womanly for being possessors of muscle or for knowing how to use it.

Of course there is such a thing as overdoing physical training, and it is not uncommon to find young men and women injured permanently from excessive exercise in gymnastics. It is the reasonable practice in these things, as in mental training, that we want, and it is the happy mean we advocate. Physical training in the schools is exceedingly desirable, and we are glad to see a disposition to encourage it. The mind should not be overtaxed and the body neglected. A symmetrical development is the true object of education.

Success Attending New Bernians. Prof. F. D. Clarke, brother of our postmaster, Mr. W. E. Clarke, has taken the position of Principal of the Michigan Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, the fourth largest institution of the kind in the world.

Mr. Clarke had formerly been principal of the Little Rock Ark., Deaf and Dumb institution for many years. He gave up that position for his present one which he entered upon yesterday.

We see in the Little Rock Optic that another vacancy occurred in the Arkansas Institute, caused by the resignation of the art teacher. This position was offered to Prof. Clarke's niece, Miss Mary Bayard Morgan, of this city who was then attending the State Normal and Industrial school at Greensboro. It is quite an honor. She has entered upon the discharge of her duties in the Institute. She arrived there Thanksgiving Day.

For a young lady yet in her "teens" to have so responsible a position, Miss Morgan pursued her art studies under New Berne teachers, Miss Aurora Mae, of the Collegiate Institute and Mr. Nace Brock.

IT DIDN'T WORK.

Boys Meet With a Bad Accident by Experimenting With Firearms.

Now that the hunting season is upon us, there are pretty apt to be mishaps occurring from time to time, especially among youth who have not had the danger of being careless with firearms sufficiently impressed upon them.

The experience of two Winston boys as narrated below by the Twin-City Sentinel, may prove a warning to some others, though fortunately it did not result fatally:

"John and George Williams, two white boys, aged 18 and 12 years respectively, went out hunting Saturday just east of Winston. After trying their hand for a few rounds the idea suggested itself to one of the boys to load a rifle with shot. The plan was carried out, and rather seriously too for the elder. George was too close to the shooting. As the gun was to be heavy for him to shoot off hand, John consented to allow his brother to bring his right shoulder into requisition for a rest. When everything was in readiness George pulled the trigger. The result was an explosion and John was knocked down and for several minutes he lay unconscious. The shot and powder flew in the face of the boy and inflicted ugly as well as painful wounds. George's fingers were also badly burned.

"The two brothers are of the opinion that they have learned a valuable lesson."

Died. At her home at Keshaw, Nov. 25th, Mrs. A. R. Delamar, age 67 years. She leaves one son and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

She was a consistent member of the Church of Christ at this place. We tender our warmest sympathy to her bereaved friends and loved ones.

A FINE OFFER.

One Hundred Dollars for the Best Monograph on North Carolina History.

Dr. Chas. G. Hill of Baltimore has offered a reward of $100 for the best essay on some subject connected with North Carolina, with the preference given for the one that discovers new historical material. It is understood that graduates of the State University, or other alumni who are pursuing, either resident or non-resident courses of study may compete for the prize. In the Wilmington Messenger we see the following conditions for competition laid down:

1. Each essay must contain at least four thousand words.
2. All the essays presented will be the property of the University.
3. The prize will not be awarded if no essay is deemed of sufficient merit.

4. The essays must be delivered by April 1, 1894, to Hon. Kemp P. Battle, Professor of History, Chapel Hill, N. C.
5. Competitors must send their names and the subjects proposed to Hon. Kemp P. Battle by February 1, 1893, and the subject must be approved by him.
6. Any subject relating to North Carolina history may be selected. The following are suggested:

1. The history of the effort by Governor Johnson to make New Berne, the capital of N. C.
2. Gov. Burrington—his character and public works.
3. The part taken by North Carolina in the French war.
4. The Revolutionary legislation of North Carolina.
5. The Convention of 1788, and the position of its majority in regard to the constitution of the United States.
6. The course of Nathaniel Macon in the United States Congress.
7. The history of the establishment of the University of North Carolina in February, 1795.
8. The educational work of Caldwell and Swain compared.
9. The Senatorial (U. S.) course of Wm. A. Graham.
10. The Senatorial career (U. S.) of George W. Hanger.
11. The history of the North Carolina railroad.
12. The boundaries of North Carolina.
13. The legal status of slaves in North Carolina.
14. History of the constitution of North Carolina.
15. The political history of North Carolina.
16. Free negroes in North Carolina; their legal and social status.
17. The Regulators.
18. The Ku Klux Klan in North Carolina.
19. North Carolina and Secession.
20. Reconstruction in North Carolina.
21. The industrial history of North Carolina during the War.
22. History of Public Education in North Carolina.

The Rush for Office. In these days of aspiring for office the following philosophic talk from the Atlanta Constitution may prove entertaining to a good many readers.

The newspapers in Georgia and in every other State fairly bristle with the names of aspirants for office under the coming federal administration.

This is all right. There are a great many offices now held by Republicans which will be filled by Democrats pretty soon after the fourth of next March—and there are naturally a great many Democrats who are anxious to fill them. This is a tree country, and every man in it has a right to ask for any office in presidential down. As a rule office-holding is not a profitable business, but if a patriotic citizen wants to serve his country at a sacrifice to himself nobody should object. It is well enough to give the president and his cabinet a liberal list of applicants from which to make their selections. When many are called the few who are chosen are apt to be of better quality than would have been supplied by a more limited array of willing talent.

We trust that nobody will be molested in this matter.

Look over the field, boys, and if you see anything you want, don't hesitate to ask for it. The chances are, of course, that you will not get it, but that will not make any great difference, and in most instances you may be consoled with the reflection that a better man was chosen.

A Big Cotton Mill. By invitation we made a visit to the Erwin cotton mills a few days ago, and we were astonished at the magnitude of the whole affair. The building is of brick and is 347 1-2 feet in length by 75 1-2 feet in width, and is two stories in height, with a ladder room 40x60 feet, four towers high are being built, one at either end of the building on the east side and in one of these towers an immense tank is being erected to supply water for all necessary purposes. The building will be completed this week and put in readiness for the machinery which will be put in at once. A number of hands will be given employment. Residence for employees are being erected and the place will soon assume the proportions of a town.

—"Durham Recorder."
Would it sound splendid if the above item was about a New Berne factory? Well, we live in hopes.

Methodist Conference. The third annual session of the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, convened in Winston Wednesday morning, Bishop Eugene Hendrix presided. C. G. Montgomery was re-elected secretary. Colporteur T. J. Gallett, reported that he had sold over $8,000 worth of religious literature in Conference bounds during the past year, and $18,000 worth in both State Conferences. A minister in an interview today, said that many preachers from rural districts would have to report unpaid salaries and church assessments, on account of the Third party. Methodists refusing to support preachers who vote the Democratic ticket.
