WHEN one recalls the discussions that threatened the Democratic party during the election, and recognizes the now safe front it presents, the measure of enthusiasm that marks the recent victory will be fully appreciated. Its integrity has been unbroken, its policy unchanged, and its ebullience untempered by a single thought; and that thought is based on the ideals set up by Jefferson, Jackson and Tilden.

LOCAL NEWS.

The fire was only a burning chimney. Chattanooga, Tenn., had a sharp earthquake shock Friday morning at 3 o'clock. It opened doors, threw down lumber etc.

The season has come for telling of the big logs. The Monroe Engineer says Rev. J. D. A. Secret has just killed one that netted him 412 pounds.

Jay Gould is No More.
Jay Gould is dead. Consumption carried off "the wizard of Wall street" Friday morning. He died peacefully and with but little pain. He was surrounded by relatives and spoke words of love and farewell to each of his children a few minutes before he breathed his last.

The disease had hold of Mr. Gould since January, 1891, but he directed his physician to keep it secret, and such was the strength of his powerful will that he concealed his sufferings from his family to a great extent, so that to them his attacks were only tired spells. His will kept him up and decided even his closest friends as to his condition. Until two weeks ago he had confidence that he would be able to keep up and get around for some years. The announcement that he died with consumption created great surprise.

Mr. Gould's property is left in just the same shape as it was before his death. His son George is said to be perfectly competent to take up the burden where his father laid it down. He has an ample fortune of his own, being worth $10,000,000 in his own right outside of his father's estate.

The most conservative estimates place Jay Gould's fortune at $60,000,000. It is generally put however at $100,000,000. One of his closest associates and oldest personal friends says it will not vary $10,000,000 either way from the latter figure.

The African Methodist Episcopal Zion Conference.
(For the Journal.)
The twenty-ninth annual session of the North Carolina Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion church convened in this city at noon on Wednesday last with Bishop Cicero R. Harris, D. D., presiding. Later on he has been associated by Bishop J. W. Hood, D. D., who began his career in the South as the pastor of Old Clinton Chapel.
This conference was organized in this city 28 years ago with 13 members, of which number only three are now living and two of these are present, namely, Bishop J. W. Hood and Rev. W. J. Moore, P. E., Rev. D. J. McIvor, of Fayetteville is the other.
The original bounds of the conference now constitutes the bounds of three district conferences—the North Carolina, the Central North Carolina and the Western North Carolina—either one of which has four times as many members as the original North Carolina Conference—with quite four times as many members. The growth in twenty-eight years therefore is indeed stupendous not to say marvelous.
Among the members were for the most part ignorant, having been denied educational advantages, while now lots of the preachers in these conferences are graduates of the leading and best colleges of the country. The discussion of the very able reports which come before the conference amply attest the culture and ability of the disputants.
Observed in the conference in addition to the names already mentioned can be seen Rev. R. H. Stitt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Rev. C. D. Hazel, of the New England Conference, Rev. Geo. W. Clinton, of Pittsburg, but now editor of the Star of Zion, Prof. S. G. Athas, Secretary of Education, John C. Dancy, Collector of Customs at the port of Wilmington and editor of the Quarterly, the literary organ of the connection, Rev. L. A. Ferebee, Conference Evangelist, Rev. A. H. Hooper, P. E., Rev. Ovelton, of the Virginia Conference, Rev. R. S. Rivers, P. E. of the Central Conference and many other able members of the Conference, who have contributed and best colleges of the Zion Methodism like Rev. A. McIvor, Moore, A. F. Moore, T. K. Bird, Wm. Sutton, S. B. Hunter, R. H. Simmons, J. W. Levy, A. G. Oden, L. B. Williams, V. A. Crawford, H. C. Phillips, J. W. Eason and others too numerous to mention.
Bishop Harris read his Episcopal addresses on Thursday, and it abounded in useful and valuable suggestions as to what each man should do for the spread and growth of the church here and elsewhere. He also appointed all the committees and ordered them to report before conference adjourns.
The opening sermon was preached by Rev. E. D. Jones, of South Port, Wednesday evening. On Thursday evening Rev. C. D. Hazel preached, Last night Prof. S. G. Athas addressed the Conference on the need of the educational work in a timely and appropriate address and was followed by John C. Dancy who emphasized the force of his suggestions. Bishop Hood also made some trite and timely remarks on the work of education.

Rev. C. F. Sherrill.
We announced last week that Rev. C. F. Sherrill had transferred to the Virginia conference. Since then we learn that he has been stationed at Ashland. This is the site of Randolph Macon College. We are sure Mr. Sherrill will be pleased with his location, as he graduated at that College only four years ago. He got among his old friends, and we wish him much success in his new field of labor.
Mr. Sherrill has done a good work in Beaufort, and has made for himself a host of warm friends, who will regret very much to hear of his intended departure. This year he has received into the church 63 members, baptised 64 persons, confirmed at 23 convalesced and 8 marriages.—Carroll Times.

Notice.
The regular drill of the Naval Reserve will take place at Lott's Hall Monday, Dec. 5, at 8 p. m. instead of 9 p. m. W. Winslow, Lt. Comdr.

Report of the Grand Jury, Fall Term, 1892.
To the Hon. Geo. H. Shuford, Judge presiding.
The grand jury of Craven county beg leave to make the following report:
We have made several presentations and found a good number of true bills.
We have made an inspection of the county poor house and find it to be well and carefully kept, and the inmates well provided with suitable food, clothing and medicine.
We have inspected the offices of the Sheriff, Clerk and Register of Deeds and find them in the best of condition—the record books and papers well and carefully kept.
The report speaks of the jail as being in bad sanitary condition. It is proper to say in regard to this complaint that better sewerage will be given by connection with the regular system as soon as completed, about which there has been some delay but which is now getting on finely.
We quote further from the report:
We find that the sheriff receives only twenty-five cents per day for keeping the prisoners, and believing that this sum is inadequate for that purpose, we recommended and demand that he be paid forty cents per day for his services in order that he may give the prisoners more and better attention.
We find the court house and jail buildings in good order, these being edifices properly looked after.
W. B. BOYD, Foreman.

Rev. J. R. Brooks, D. D.
The Concord Missionary Age gives its readers a pen picture of the presiding elders of the Western North Carolina Conference. It says of them in general that they are all men of deep piety and consecration to the work of the Methodist Ministry. As one of them was for four years pastor of Centenary M. E. church and highly esteemed by all our people for his charitable disposition, his pointed attacks on existing evil, no matter who might be "struck," his exceedingly charitable disposition and his conscientious discharge of every duty. We give what it has to say of him:
"Rev. J. R. Brooks, D. D., may be said to be chief of the cabinet. He is a genuine North Carolinian of the truest texture. He is a man of about fifty-two or three years, judging from his appearance. Dr. Brooks is a scholar of decided merit and a preacher of rare ability. He is a close student, and rarely takes a position which he cannot sustain. He was chairman of the delegation from the North Carolina Conference to the last General Conference, and was voted for Bishop. He would make a good one. We deem it a privilege to count Dr. Brooks among our personal friends."

Climatology of North Carolina.
The above is a title of a publication of 184 pages just issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau, a report of work done in 1891, annual summary for 1891. It contains all of the meteorological records ever taken in North Carolina from the earliest times to the present. The first record is in 1820 at Chapel Hill and was taken by Dr. Caldwell, president of the University. One hundred and seventy-one separate sets of observations are embodied in the report taken in seventy counties. From the results of these observations it is ascertained that the mean annual temperature of the whole state is 59 degrees, and almost exactly the same as the mean annual temperature of the whole northern hemisphere. The mean annual precipitation is 53.59 inches.
Among the table of contents is included a brief history of the N. C. State Weather Service in co-operation with the U. S. Weather Bureau, a report of work done in 1891, annual summary for 1891, tables of normals for the state, index of all observations made in the state, tables of monthly mean temperature and precipitation at all stations from 1820 to 1892, tornadoes in North Carolina from 1820 to 1892, sketch of the physical geography of the State, a general sketch of the climate of the State.
It is believed that few States have ever issued any publication of such permanent value and interest as the present one and it shows that North Carolina is fully abreast of the times.
