Natural Curiosities in the late Known-of Kingdom

On the eastern coast of China peninsula extends in a southeasterly direction, bounded on the north and east by the Sea of Japan. and on the south and west by the Yellow sea, while the Cores strait separates it from Japan. This peninsula comprises the kingdorn of Corea, a tributary of China and a country very little know to the general traveler, although it has been settled for ages.

Corea has steadfastly maintained a policy of strict isolation toward all outsiders-even toward the Chinese, with whom there is no intercourse save on the occasion of the annual embassy, which is accompanied by a few privileged traders, and of the periodical fairs at the Gate-town, near the city of enghwang, in Manchooria.

In spite of this isolation, the outside barbarians have occasionally penetrated beyond the coast. thus we know something about the country and its inhabit-

Of the wonders here described, little is actually known, and that little may be distorted. Briefly stated, they are as follows:

First, a hot mineral spring near miraculous. No matter what disease may afflict the patient, a dip in the water proves efficacious.

The second wonder is two springs, situated at a considerable distance from each other; in fact, they have the breadth of the entire peninsula between them. They have two peculiarities. When one is full, the other is always empty; and, notwithstanding the Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond one is of the bitterest bitter and the other pure and sweet.

The third wonder is a cold-wave cave is such that a strong man cannot stand before it.

A forest that cannot be eradicated is the fourth wonder. No gizes for any kind of sin. matter what injury is done to the roots of the trees-which are large pines-they will sprout up again directly, like a phoenix from her

The sixth wonder is the the stone," which from remote ages has lain glowing on the top of a high hill.

The seventh and last Corean wonder is a drop of the swent of Buddha. For thirty paces around the large temple in which it is enshrined not a blade of grass will grow. There are no trees or flowers inside the sacred square. Even the animals decline to profane a spot so holy.

Marrow Toast.

Marrow toast is a delicious and inexpensive relish for tea or luncheon. Buy a large shin bone and have the butcher split it, then take out the marrow in one piece. Cut the marrow into slices nearly an inch thick and set aside. in a hot dish a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, the same quantity of lemon juice, half a teaspoonful of salt, a grain of cayenne, and several drops of ion juice. Also have in the several squares of toast, p and browned evenly. Cook the marrow rapidly ninety secde boiling it in a quart of had water. Drain the marrow theroughly and mix it with the marrow and seasoning must be not when sent to the table, and cotten before they cool.

Occasional Subsoiling. Probably no work on the farm pays o well as that done with the subsoil low on land that has been well under drained. The advantage of subsoiling is that one operation lasts a number of years, and if the drainage is perfect the land never loses the porosity which the subsoil plow gives it. If new land were drained as soon as the forest were cleared from it subsoiling would not be needed. The decay of roots of trees in the subsoil makes a natural drainage way through which superfluous or stagrant water can pass. But in 29 cases out of 199 drainage is not resorted to until the compacting of soil and its inability to carry off water makes drainage necessary. Then after the underdrain is down it takes years of freezing and thawing and clover growing to establish the old water-course nogin, or rather to make new ones. The subsoil plow helps thi work amazingly. It should follow the drain, and it will do good to repeat subsoiling every few years, thus enabl ing the soil to hold more water without being saturated, because the surplus must always pass off wherever an out let is provided for it.-American Culti

A Dangerous Deadlock

Occurs when the sieve-like action of the kidneys is interrupted, and they par-tially cease to secrete from the blood those impurities for the escape of which they tre such important channels. Bright's disease, diabetes, suppression of the urine and weakness inaction of the bladderthese are complaints to the relief of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is admirably adapted. These ailments unchecked are very to midable, and the utility af a recourse to this fine remedy and preventive Mix cannot be pleaded with too much insistence. The Bitters is likewise efficacious in an incomparable degree for malaria, indigestion, costiveness, rheumatism and debility. In neuralgia it has also proved itself a sovereign medium of relief.
