A carload of stock arrived yesterday for Mr. J. W. Stewart, another carload is on the way, and Mr. Price is still out west buying for him.

Mr. Blaine is no worse, there is no apparent change in his condition but as he is suffering from brights disease, his ultimate recovery is not looked for.

Have you yet handed in a list of names of people that you know who would be good ones to send Fair premium lists to, to Mr. Chas. Reizenstein who is engaged in mailing them?

Rev. J. M. Rose of Pine Level, Johnson county, who has been spending a few days in the city, left yesterday for his home. He will however return shortly to enter upon mission in the country near New Berne, that portion along the line of the A. & N. C. R. R. from Cozant to Dover being the main points. He will labor at least among four congregations.

We notice some very fine sawed shingles on the steamer Howard wharf yesterday which were attracting attention on account of their excellence in shape, finish and general make up. A portion of them were from the mill of Messrs. Gallup and Kehoe at Quaker Bridge and others from the floating shingle mill on the Sadie M. Rand which is operating very satisfactory up Trent river.

Advertising space in the Fair edition of the JOURNAL is already being sought. That issue will afford an exceptionally fine opportunity for advertisers on account of its being sent out to so many selected names and also on account of so many copies of the paper being kept for good lengths of time that the possessors may refresh their memories on the special information it will contain.

After the 1st. of January the registration fees on all letters or packages will be eight cents instead of ten. The Columbia adhesive stamps will also go into use on that day, and be used just through that year. They will be issued in all denominations. They differ in size, and form from those now in use. Each stamp bears a design commemorative of the discovery of America by Columbus.

Mr. Lee Churchill has finished putting up the new iron front fence of the Baptist church, which was ordered through Messrs. Disosway & Churchill. That church now has a fence to be proud of. It is a beautiful one, which will doubtless serve the present membership as long as any of them live and which will not be subjecting them to annoyance by needing repairs or rebuilding. The fence is built from a sum of $500 left to the church by Mrs. C. E. Patterson, and it bears an inscription to that effect in her memory. Iron fences are expensive, but when of proper design they are attractive, and when the long service that they give is considered and the short one of wooden fences, it might not be extravagant for them to come into more general use than they are.

A few of the worst places in the Quaker Bridge Road were poled last spring to great advantage, but there are now a number of places that should receive similar attention without any delay. Passers over the road tell us that they do not know of any public highway on which a little judicious work would tell so strongly. There are several places in the road that are annoying but there is one in particular about 1-1/2 miles on the side of the White Oak bridge toward New Berne that is dangerous and almost impassable. This place extends only some 20 or 30 feet and could be poled with a very little expense or trouble. It is hoped the road overseer will investigate the matter without delay. The road is a very important one and yet in its present condition if there should be a heavy rain it would travel over it would almost

Coming and Going.
Miss Rosa Ricard, is visiting friends in the city.

Miss Georgia Mayo, of Portsmouth N. C., arrived to visit the family of Mrs. Theresa Roberts.

Mr. H. D. Wood returned home last night from Winston to spend Christmas. The following students came in to spend the holidays at their homes: Mr. James Simmons, from Horner's military Academy, Oxford, and Messrs. Peter Hill and Geo. J. Dudley, from Davis military school, Winston.

Mr. E. L. Morton, State Senator from New Hanover district, who has been spending a few days in the city in the interest of the Tide Water Oil Company of Wilmington, left yesterday morning.

Conference Assessments.
The assessments made by the late session of the North Carolina conference on the nine districts composing it as published in the Christian Advocate foot up $43,611.

The money raised by the assessments is to be apportioned to various objects as follows: For Trinity college, $5,000; domestic missions, $8,225; foreign missions, $13,500; missionary debt, $5,810; church extension, $3,000; bishop's salary, $1,876; conference claimants, $5,500; Paine and Lane Institutes, $600.

The amount allotted to be raised in the New Berne district is $5,700, divided between the various objects as follows: Trinity college, $664; domestic missions, $1,124; foreign missions, $1,770; missionary debt, $739; church extension, $336; bishop's salary, $249; conference claimants, $732; Paine and Lane Institutes, $78.

Have We Such a Citizen.
An exchange states that a citizen of Madison county has built a large brick building designed to be used as a factory and has offered it free of rent for one year, as an inducement for the coming of a factory. We wonder where a match for this display of interest can be found. Any community ought to appreciate every industrial enterprise, to seek the prosperity of those already established and to labor for the establishment of others. New Berne has one industry, the knitting mill that has just been started. Its success and consequent future growth, demands to a very great extent upon the people of New Berne, and those who trade here. If other merchants of the city and tributary country, give the New Berne factory the preference whenever they make an order for goods in its line, and our citizens generally do likewise in purchasing for use a bright future for the factory is sure to follow. Remember home industries, and do all you can to build up your town.

Close of the Business School.
The business school which Mr. R. B. Holloway has been running in the city closed yesterday with the award of four gold medals to those who had been taking valedictory lessons. There were two classes of the students—one was made up of pupils from the Collegiate Institute, the other from the citizens at large. To each of these classes two medals were awarded, one to the pupil whose penmanship was the best, the other to the one who had made the greatest improvement during the course of lessons.

Among those connected with the Institute, Miss Bertha Tucker was awarded the medal for the best penmanship, and Mr. Lewis Swindell for the greatest improvement. In the citizens' class, Mr. A. J. Leary was awarded the medal for the best writing, and Mr. N. F. Vincent for the greatest improvement.

The judges met, examined the writing of the pupils and made their decision yesterday afternoon, and last night the presentation of the medals was made by Rev. Rufus Ford at the Collegiate Institute in the presence of pupils and friends. The medals were pretty in design and appropriately inscribed, with a blank space for the name of the winner.

In addition to those to whom the medals were presented, the judges deemed the following worthy of special mention for good penmanship: Misses Ida F. Wayne, Bessie Tucker, Fannie Trenwith and Annie Abbott, and Messrs. J. C. Gaskins and John M. Erdman.

Special mention for improvement was made of Fred. W. Richardson, J. F. Hargett, C. J. McCarthy, John Erdman, H. Roper, Wesley Foreman, John H. Russell, Sam. Windley, Hugh Lancaster and Miss Mammie Gaskins.

The changes in the handwriting of some of the pupils is very marked, a heavy sprawling style having given place to a good, graceful style, and the possessors may be proud to be master of. Good results have also been attained in Mr. Holloway's book-keeping classes.

Examinations are being held this week at the New Berne Collegiate Institute.

From time to time there has been much comment on Rev. J. A. Weston's labors to prove that Peter S. Ney, who taught school in North Carolina seventy years ago, was Marshal Ney, Napoleon's favorite. Mr. Weston has been abroad in search of fresh evidence, and writes that he is more than ever convinced that the soldier and teacher were one and the same. His volume on Ney is to appear during 1893.

Children Cry for Fisher's Castoria.

LIKE A LEAF.

BY J. E. PARSONS.

Like a leaf on the tree
In this life to me,
In the spring, it buds;
In the summer, it grows;
But when Autumn's cold blasts
O'er the branches play fast,
The leaf once so gay
Is a thing of the past.

So my life had its budding—
Its blossom, its growth,
In infancy weakness,
Its pleasures of youth,
Its sternness of manhood,
To bear life's cold wave,
Soon its Autumn must follow,
Then, the Winter, its grave.

The leaf had its purpose
As it clung to the tree,
And was cheered in its work
By the bird and the bee,
When its mission was ended,
It, its tendrils unbound,
And the leaf, from the branches,
Falls, tenderly, down.

Will the mission of life
In me be fulfilled
Ere the eye lose its lustre?
The pulse become still?
When the time comes that I
Must let go of earth's tree,
Will my falling to earth,
Be as peaceful as thee?

—Suggested by picking up a fallen leaf.

W. E. CLARKE, P. M.

Disgraceful Conduct of an Adventist Preacher.
We have been asked to warn the public against Rev. Geo. T. Clark, an Adventist preacher, who has been preaching at several points in Lenoir county where he aroused considerable excitement.

On last Friday night he preached at Woodington church, about six miles from here, and on the following Saturday he was in Kingston and got heavily drunk. On his way home he stopped at Mr. N. A. Tynal's place and slept in the yard and behaved in a most unbecoming and indecent manner. We warn all of our readers against such an impostor. He travels from section to section and it is on this account that we call attention to his bad conduct.—Kinston Free Press.

A Railroad Collision.
Two sections of the northbound freight train on the Winston-Salem division of the Norfolk and Western Railroad collided eighteen miles from Roanoke Wednesday night. Fireman Coleman, of Roanoke, jumped from his engine to save his life and broke one of his legs. This was his first run on this road. The cars were badly damaged.

Died.
Miss Jennie S. Whitford, daughter of B. E. Whitford, of Zora, died on December 16th, 1892, of typhoid fever, aged 39 years.

Miss Jennie was an exemplary member of the Disciples church, and her death is a loss not only to her immediate family but to the community in which she lived.
