LOCAL NEWS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
Howard.
That great big man.

Temperature yesterday: Maximum, 57 1-2; minimum 30, range 21 3-2.

Race horses continue to come in for the Fair. A good one came in from Durham yesterday.

The Vesuvius trials Monday were not satisfactory. Other experiments were to have been made Tuesday.

Today being Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, there will be services in the Episcopal church at 11 a. m. and 5 p. m.

The basket party to be given by the ladies of the Church of Christ tonight will be held at the residence of the pastor, Rev. D. H. Petre.

The market is unusually scarce of fish and oysters boats. We take it for granted that they are down the river specially preparing for next week—the Fair.

The regular meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews will take place this afternoon at 7:30 o'clock. The members are requested to come promptly.

The steamers Albatross and Defiance, of the N. N. & W. direct line, will both arrive this morning. The Albatross will sail on the return trip this afternoon.

Only four more days remain in which you can supply yourself with Fair season tickets, at the low rate of $1.50. Due notice has been given and no change will be made.

Prof. Walter Steele, the aeronaut had several men at work yesterday making the trench through which the balloon will be inflated and the needful preparations for the ascensions at the Fair.

The Senate Judiciary committee report favorably on the nomination of Judge Jackson. It is understood that the Republicans will vote as a unit for his confirmation and if opposition arises it will be from Democrats.

A travelled gentleman who was in the city yesterday said that this was one of the finest fish markets in the world. It was not only supplied with an exceedingly large number of varieties, but those we did have were nearly all of the best table varieties, and their flavor was remarkable—of surpassing excellence.

The Chatham Record says that in order to give an idea of the vast number of partridges and rabbits killed this winter in Chatham, we would mention that one firm at Siler city, Lamb & Teague bought and shipped since Christmas 2,632 rabbit skins and about 4,000 partridges.

Inquiries are being made as to boarding house accommodations during the Fair. They are ample. The annual canvass of the city to see who will take loaders has been made by Rev. Edward DuBois, and more people have opened their doors for boarders than ever before. If any visitors wish to engage a place in advance, they can write to the secretary of the Fair, Mr. Chas. Reizenstein and he will see that they are properly placed upon arrival. There is room for all—come.

A steamer and possibly a sail vessel also will leave to-day to get the cargo of the Schooner Hannah E. Predmore, and bring the vessel to the city. No further news has been heard from her since the revenue cutter Winona, came in and reported finding her deserted on Brant Island shoals, near the mouth of Neuse river. The lumber is from the mill of the New Berne Lumber Co. The schooner belongs to Messrs. W. P. Burrus, M. D. W. Stevenson, H. S. Gibbs and W. D. Melver. The indications are that she struck Friday night, and that those aboard left her somewhat hurriedly.

More Oyster Legislation.
A bill has been introduced in the legislature to amend the present oyster law. The character of the proposed legislation is not known and as hasty and ill-considered legislation on this subject has been a prolific source of trouble it is hoped that the Assembly will take no action on any measure until the people of the East have been heard from on the subject. The oyster business is of serious importance to the people of New Berne, and indeed to all the people of our section. Whatever the legislature proposes to do with regard to it should be generally known.

The last act was passed in great haste and is confessedly imperfect. A repetition of it in some procedure would be wise and urgent.

Coming and Going.

Rev. Rufus Ford, left yesterday morning to perform the ceremony for Dr. R. H. Temple of Kinston, and Miss Nannie Noble, of Jones county. The groom is Mr. Ford's brother-in-law.

Mr. C. G. Smith, of Goldsboro, arrived last night to visit his brother, Mr. J. H. Smith.

Mr. J. T. Carskaden of Washington, City National Bank examiner, is in the city.

Mr. C. M. Brown of Washington, N. C., drove in yesterday to spend a short time in the city.

A Massachusetts House-burning Tragedy.
D. J. Collins, of Massachusetts, insured an old house for $500—much more than it was worth, and then hired two men to burn it. They did so, and burned up two men in it. Collins was arrested Saturday, and committed suicide Sunday in jail by hanging himself. He confessed the crime first and implicated the others. One of them is under arrest, and he's turned state evidence against the other, but he cannot be found.

It is claimed by the guilty men that they thought the occupants of the house were away.

St. Valentine's Party.
The Valentine party at the Collegiate Institute last night gotten up by the King's Daughters was a fine success.

The attendance was very large and enough variety entered into the pleasures to give increased zest to each one. There were pantomime shadows of several scenes, choosing of partners by shadows, a splendid supper and the lending of valentines through a post-office. A recitation by Miss Erwin Taylor, of High Point, who is visiting Miss Maud Green, was highly complimented. The financial results were quite satisfactory.

New Potatoes on Valentine Day.

Mr. Jas. F. Taylor has Irish potatoes at his store of this year's growing. Who ever heard of such a thing before in the middle of February? They are of the Bliss' Triumph variety. The potatoes are quite young however—only a little larger around than a lead pencil. They grew in a barrel where they were stored in Mr. Taylor's warehouse through all the recent cold weather.

It is an ordinary occurrence to see potatoes sprout at any season, but to see young potatoes clustering around an old one is somewhat of a curiosity under any conditions, especially at this time of the year.

Ready for Your Exhibit.

Both agricultural and game exhibits are now coming in to the Fair. What we say in this issue is the last that will reach some of our country friends before whatever they send to the Fair will be here and as a final word we will urge them to send as good and full an exhibit as they can.

We hope that no one will hold back because of timidity in regard to what they can show. The way to surprise everybody by the increased excellence of the Fair is for everyone to send in as good an exhibit as possible. Do not depend on your neighbor any further than to urge him to do likewise.

Do not underestimate the importance of what you can do and do not be ashamed to send a small one if you cannot send a large one. You need not think that it will not be appreciated. The "littles" are important and are what makes up the immense aggregate.

We mean the above remarks for farmers, merchants, mechanics, house-keepers, artists, and in fact every one. Do your part in showing the products and advantages of this section and you will doubtless be in for a good share of the extremely liberal premium which the Fair gives and have the consciousness at the same time of duty well performed.

A bill to make valid certain probates in which the records previously examined are used instead of the records "privately examined," passed second and third readings.

A bill to incorporate the People's Bank of Kinston, passed second and third readings.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.
The following bills were introduced and referred.

Mr. Vance, of Buncombe, to exempt men of 60 years of age from jury duty. Finance.

House bill 268, to amend article 10 of the constitution on homestead and exemptions.

The question was on the amendment of Mr. Starnes to strike out the word "and" in the paragraph in section 4 relating to waiver in the sentence, "stipulates in writing that the homestead and personal property of exemption of such person shall not be required to join in such waiver to make the same effectual."

Mr. Blair demanded the repeal of the homestead. It opposes the poor man and it does not protect him. The millionaire only gets the profit. The people of Mountainy are in favor of repeal. It has been a curse to North Carolina. Wipe it out.

Mr. Lane, of Alamance briefly stated his reasons why the bill should pass. He favored it. The homestead remains as it is except in three cases relating to personal property and character. These are the exemptions. It right vote for it. A man, the owner of a homestead, waives his homestead in writing, if he is married, with the consent of his wife, without having examination. In whose interest is the proposition made. The man who has $5,000 has already all the credit he wants. The man with less than that needs credit. He has a little money. He wants the chance to use it. It is true there is a scarcity of money. Men who have money won't lend it out because the borrower can get behind the homestead. The records show more money now than was ever known, per capita, in history. The trouble is the existence of unavailable capital for want of credit. He knows men who get all the money they want at four per cent. They have credit. If this bill passes, and is known at the polls then the people can get all the money they want at the same rate of interest. There will be no more talk of hard times. The cry of hard times does not come from the rich. It comes from the small farms, small stores and small business. Such can do nothing. Resort is had to mortgages, detestible resorts. He hopes to see them abolished. There need be no fear about politics. Submit it to the people.

Mr. Robertson favored the bill without the first two amendments.

Mr. Jones, of Caldwell, spoke next. He showed that there is an average of $500 of property to each head of family in North Carolina, and the homestead law exempts $1,500—making more than half of our property withdrawn from the channels of trade. A mortgage has a most depressing effect upon the basis of credit. Usually a mortgage is given for not more than one-half of the value of the property. The whole property is thus checked and kept out from the channel of trade. This bill will make these mortgages in great measure disappear. Mr. Stevens' amendment should not be adopted. It is humiliating to a man to be required to get the consent of his wife before he can dispose of the property he has by his own energy.

Mr. Vance, of Buncombe, spoke against the bill. He was opposed to any measure which operates against the homes of North Carolina. He wished to protect the women of the State against the acts of their husbands in conveying their lands away. He spoke earnestly and at times eloquently.

Mr. Fuller, of Randolph, spoke on the same line.

Mr. Anderson's bill to table the bill and amendments was lost, and on motion of Mr. Adams, the bill was postponed till next Tuesday at 11 o'clock.

Bill concerning the extension of time for certain counties to settle taxes was tabled, on motion of Mr. Watson, of Forsyth.
