THE population of Jerusalem is under 50,000, the most correct information available making it not over 47,000. Of this number 20,000 are Mohammedans and Christians. The number of Jews in Palestine at the present time does not exceed 55,000.

THE Emperor of Germany still persists in demanding the passage of his Army bill without compromise, in consistency with his declaration: "Caesar, or nobody." If the German people prove true to themselves in the impending conflict they will solve the alternative by making him nobody.

IF I could borrow Jacob's ladder and climb up into heaven, and ask Gabriel, who stands in the presence of the Almighty, if he could tell me how much love the Father has for the world, all that he could say would be, "God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."—Moody.

INFIDELITY has, from time to time, created their imposing ramparts, and opened fire upon Christianity from a thousand of its batteries. But the moment the rays of the truth were concentrated upon their ramparts they melted away. The last clouds of ignorance are passing, and thunders of infidelity are lying upon the ear. The union and harmony of Christianity and science is a sure token that the flood of unbelief and ignorance shall never more go to the world.—Prof. Hitchcock.

A most wonderful phenomenon has occurred in South America. During a volcanic eruption there was a severe quake of the earth, and an entire mountain ridge sank to a considerable distance. Three rivers were dammed up, and their overflow drowned twelve persons and a great many cattle.

Compliments Our Firemen. The Goldsboro Daily Argus in telling of the saving of a portion of the plant of the New Berne Lumber Co., from the flames speaks thus: "It was saved by the superb work of the Fire Department of that city, which is the finest volunteer department in the world."

The Atlantic Hotel. Numerous friends of Mr. B. L. Perry, of Beaufort are delighted to learn that he will be in charge of the far-famed Atlantic Hotel at Morehead the coming season. He is an affable and experienced hotelier, who always studies the convenience and wishes of his guest.

Cyclones Deadly Work. Terrible cyclones have swept through Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky. A number of people were killed besides great destruction to property. Half of the Tennessee penitentiary is in ruins. About five hundred convicts had just gotten out of their mess hall when it collapsed under the fury of the mighty wind.

A two-story brick building at Nashville was leveled, killing and seriously wounding several people.

In Mississippi a number of lives were lost and several houses were completely demolished. One building was completely carried away without anything at all left to mark its location. Another building was turned around bodily. It for nearly faced the north, but the cyclone reversed it, and it now looks south.

In Kentucky it was not quite so severe.

ADDITIONAL REMARKS.

On the Meeting of the Stockholders of the Fair Association.

The Receipts of the Last Exhibition Greater than Ever Before—The New Permanent Improvements—Important Benefits From the Fair.

The reports read at the meeting of the stockholders of the East Carolina Fish, Oyster Game and Industrial Association Friday night show that the receipts of the Association through its last exhibition were greater by about $400 than ever before; the receipts from season tickets alone were $1,690.

Permanent improvements have been put on the property during the year to the extent of $643.17 which the finance committee in their report, notice as having been judiciously expended and the property enhanced in value at least to the amount of the expenditure. The Association now owns property that cost them $12,000 and which is worth vastly more than they paid for it.

The finance committee close their reports as follows: "When we consider the physical value of your handsome property the debts due by you appear but insignificant in contrast, and the constant increase in its value by the continued permanent improvements, to say nothing of the constantly increasing value of real estate in your city, we feel safe in tendering you our congratulations upon the healthy financial condition of your association."

"But we will not submit our report without further congratulating you in having the affairs of your association in the hands of so efficient a management, the officers and heads of which are ever so zealous and energetic in behalf of its success."

"And especially do we commend to your gratitude the wise, judicious and exclusive efforts of your President and Secretary and Treasurer in bringing about the successful state of affairs, under which you are now existing. We predict for the association continuing and increasing success under sensible management."

The remarks of Mr. Jas. A. Bryan relative to the effects of the Fair and its importance were well received and highly complimented. He showed it as the greatest advertising feature the East Carolina Fair has ever had bringing into conspicuous notice its tremendous fishing industries, its wealth of oyster beds, its prolific and unsurpassed trucking lands and its vast timber forests. The Fair is doing more as Mr. Bryan said to bring these things into notice and to enhance the value of such property and to build up the city and section along these lines than any other agency at work. It viewed only from individual advantage to be gained it behooves every one to constantly advance the interests of the Fair by every means in his power.

Why Epidemics Come.

As there is some fear that cholera may visit this country during the present summer, we will give a few remarks from an exchange where cleanliness is shown to be the great preventive to epidemics, and if this one point is carried out in time there is very little danger from any of these virulent diseases.

"It has been asserted in a medical journal that after Prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, died of typhoid fever at Windsor Castle in 1861, the discovery was made that there was an open cesspool directly underneath the room which he occupied. Whether or not this circumstance was the cause of the Prince Consort's fatal illness, it illustrated the fact that only thirty years ago the world had not learned the most elementary lesson of cleanliness in life.

It is not many years, indeed, since epidemics ceased to be regarded as "visitations of Providence," and practically nothing was done to prevent their recurrence. The simple truth is that this "Providence" visits the unclean with pestilence much oftener than it does the scrupulously clean.

What a vast number of fatal illnesses, even at this day when the virtue of cleanliness is more widely recognized than ever before, is due to the toleration of filth!

Thousands on thousands of dwellers upon farms, or in small villages in this country, permit dangerous nuisances about their premises—such as neglected vaults under the windows of sleeping-rooms, cellars unventilated and containing decaying vegetables and fruit, sink drains emptying close by doorways, stables too near the houses, or wells within filtering distance of stables.

The people who tolerate these nuisances only too often have to pay the penalty in typhoid and other fevers, diphtheria and other diseases of various kinds. In many country districts which should be almost perfectly healthy, fevers are shockingly prevalent, and generally they are traceable to domestic nuisances of this kind.

Cleanliness means more than washing the hands and face and body. It means the keeping of one's surroundings free from influences which must taint the air that we breathe, our food and our drink. Epidemics are not to be prevented without such cleanliness."

Fresh Meat Supply. Fresh pork is now almost a thing of the past but little comes in, and what there is sells readily at a paying price.

Beef has not been coming in, in such quantities lately as it did a few months ago but in quality it is averaging about as good as that offered earlier in the season.

Mr. Nelson Whitford bought one of Mr. W. F. Crockett's fat Jersey heaves for thirty-five dollars and had it for sale at his store yesterday and other butchers had good meat also.

No finer beef either native imported from Chicago or elsewhere, was ever in the market than that with which Mr. Samuel Colm opened yesterday. His first supply was brought from Wayne county, where he has long been in business, but other was purchased here. Mr. Colm's veal was a fine calf which he brought from Mr. Scheelky for five dollars.

At times the meat markets have been able to furnish a full line of good meats, but often it has been very difficult to get that which is satisfactory, especially has this been the case with beef. A constant and reliable supply is important to the city and will be appreciated if furnished by any one.

A Scientific View of Tobacco Using. Tobacco using is more or less injurious to all those who use it. Some are injured much more than others. Persons of a nervous organization are generally more injuriously affected by it than some other. They are rendered more nervous, more excitable, and more liable to diseases of the nervous system.

Persons who inherit tendencies to insanity are more likely to become insane if they use tobacco. Many diseases are attributed to the use of tobacco. Its use undoubtedly predisposes many of its subjects to disease.

The effects of tobacco using does not end with those who use it, but may be handed down to their children. The children of excessive tobacco users are more nervous because of it, and if the mothers used tobacco as extensively as the father, the human race would be in danger of extinction.—Phrenological Journal.

The Teacher's Fair Party. The North Carolina Teachers' World's Fair party will leave for Chicago on July 20th instead of August 15th, as heretofore stated. This change in date is made in the interest of convenience and economy to all members of the party and to enable the teachers to attend the World's Educational Congress which convenes in Chicago July 25th.

The absolute limit of membership in the teachers' party is five hundred persons and over four hundred applications are already received. The expenses of the trip will be only about one-half as much as all other people will pay, while the comforts and privileges will be much greater. North Carolina will have the largest representation at the World's Fair of all the Southern States. The teachers' party will include about one hundred and fifty Raleigh people.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Trustees Meeting. There will be a meeting of the Trustees of the New Berne Academy at the office of the President, on Monday, the 27th at 4 p. m. W. M. WATSON, sec'y.

AUF WIEDERSEHEN.

The sun sweeps down behind the hills As if the tired world scoring; Worn labor sighs and counts its ills Increased, despite all hopes and wills, While night's dread pall unfolds and chills; But ah, beyond those dark'ning hills Remember it is morning!

The land fades quickly out of sight, A thread of purple given Upon the bosom of the night, And boundless waters in their might Opposed and mock our good ship's fight; But far, oh, far beyond our sight There smiles a waiting heaven.

O hearts hop on! the sun may hide, Lands fade, but latter never, The morning comes whate'er betide; The haven waits though wild the tide; Labor and love at last shall glide Safe to their souls' rest, there to bide In sweet warm peace forever.

My land I feel behind the sea, O aching heart and burning! God knows my soul was wrapt in thee; No more wert thou, in all, to me; Then I would to thy future be, And shall be of the mighty sea Give safe and sure returning.

—E. L. Wakeman.

THE NEXT STATE FAIR.

Waking up Things for a Big Time—the New Executive Committee.

The time for holding the next State Fair has been set. The dates decided upon are October 17, 18, 19, and 20. The Secretary has taken such steps as are possible to hit upon a time favorable in the matter of fair and pleasant weather. The movements of the planets, their influences in meteorology, the calculations of the astronomers, the forecasts of Wiggins and Hicks were taken into consideration, and the time decided upon, promises, on the strength of these calculations, to be a delightful work. So everybody may begin to get ready for another great fair.

Some people croak and prophesy evil, and predict that a big fair can't be held this year on account of the World's Fair and various other things; but the State Fair Secretary thinks that the State Fair will hold its own in every way, and indeed declares that he does not fear to enter into open and square competition with the world. The people of the State and of Raleigh especially praise sincerely the front list of year, and they are doing so already this year. Negotiations are in progress for special attractions, and it is expected that arrangements will soon be completed. The ladies department this year will be of special interest. Correspond with them from all over the State. Handsome premiums will be made for exhibitors of fine stock to derive greater benefit from their exhibits than ever before.—News and Observer.
