Maryland and North Carolina in the Campaign of 1780-1781,

In looking over the little work 'Maryland and North Carolina in the Campaign of 1780-1781," by Prof. Edward Graham Daves, of Baltimore, which the gifted auther first read before the Maryland Historical Society last fall, we are struck with the amount of but little known, though important facts which it contains. It gives a preliminary notice of the earlier battles of the revolution, in which the troops of the two States won distinction, (often side by side) promitions are present among which is the battle of Guilnent among which is the battle of Guilford court house. It also gives points in which North Carolina stood foremost in the sister-hood of States, and others in which Maryland had pre-eminence over Daves emphasizes the neglect their acheivements have suffered at the bands which this State makes displays. The of historicans by calling attention to the fact that many a North Carolina boy fully shown and the State has never had knows all about Bunker Hill, and very little of Moore's creek, and many a Maryland boy can recount the incident of the "Boston Tea Party" while mainly ignor ant of the burning of the brig Peggy Stewart, with her cargo of tea at Annapolis in Oct. 1774 in open day by men olis in Oct. 1774 in open day by men was often heard "where is the North Aslesp in Jesus! far from thee who boldly assumed the responsibility of Carolina exhibit?" The positions asthe act, and there are other similar cases of discrimination.

Julian Hawthorn in an able document entitled "Terrestrial [Flight" has placed cycling and its health and pleasure giving influences above all other sports. Mr. Hawthorn is not alone in his estimation. Physicians who have studied the question in all its phases, from Dr. Hammon of Washington down to the wise country doctors, concur in the statement that eyeling is most invigorating not only to the physical system, but most refreshing and soothing to the mental organs. We have in this sport the muscle making exercise of base-ball, horizontal bars and club swinging; the gentle pleasure derived in that aesthetic but from Ashville for exhibition at silly game of lawn tennis; the joyous and World's Fair. A magnificent section of exhilirating effect produced by traveling through the air as though on gauzy wings. And after a run of fifteen or feet six inches in diameter. twenty miles the condition of our muscles also beeches, birches, black jacks, etc. makes us welcome with keenest appreciation, the delightful rest which comes to the tired, minus the consciousness that Rev. Edward Bull of between 100 and toil produced the weariness. Verily, cycling is a gift of the gods! Hawthorn Quixetically exclaims, "God bless the man who invented the bicycle!"

There are a great many fools on earth but among the biggest and most palpable are those old issues who cry down any thing in the line of exercise which Have you no religious instruction? Are may have in its operation the power to that both this State and city will have give pleasure. An old Puritanic idea still prevails among some of the hardheaded old timers that sports are frivolous and only indulged in by the man with few brains-reminding us most forcibly of one of Alexander Pope's expressions-"The Puritans did not object to bear-baiting because it hurt the bear, but because it gave pleasure to the spectators!" They do not object to the health giving properties of cycling, but to the pleasure it affords the rider! Deep down in the heart of some men lies the most miserable and evil of all human meannesses-the spleen which is always aroused by an exhibition of pleasure in another. This is, undoubtedly, the been appointed to assist Solicitor Pou in prime provoker of the various and puerile objections to bicycling.

When Vice-President Stevenson was anvassing North Carolina last September he was presented with the traditional "left bind foot of a graveyard rabbit," a good deal about which was said in the newspapers at the time. The animal, it was alleged, had been captured in the old city cemetery of Raleigh. A firm in that State which makes a speciaity of rabbit skins and handles thousands of them every year, has just received an order for "100 000 radbit's feet, hind feet preferred." It is evident that some enterprising Northern firm is getting ready to take advantage of spring the North Carolina rabbit foot on the country as an emblem of good luck. New York Eeening Post,
