A WAR INCIDENT.

Some History of the Attempt to Capture New Berne in the Winter of 1864 by the Confederates.

The following correspondence and incidents connected therewith were prepared for publication in the JOURNAL, in anticipation of the visit of Captain J. Taylor Wood to New Berne during the week of our Fair in February last.

Captain Wood writes: Halifax, N. S., Dec. 24th, 1892. My Dear Sir-- I have been in hopes for some time that I could say positively that I could accept your kind invitation for next February.

Looking forward with much pleasure to seeing you and also others of our friends and with the best wishes of the season. Yours very truly, J. TAYLOR WOOD.

And again he writes: Record of American and Foreign Shipping. Office of the American Shipmasters Association.

My Dear Sir-- I found it utterly impossible for me to get away from my office, I had been looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to this visit.

BELLAIR, AND WHAT IS GOING ON THERE.

A Correspondent at Bellair Writes as Follows: Bellair postoffice is six miles west of New Berne, and takes its name from an old mansion which was the property of a Frenchman at the time of the American Revolution.

We are a rural, aggressive, and progressive and sometimes, digressive people. Some of us digressed last year from the ordinary custom of cotton planting.

This should be the motto of some clothing shops. When you enter some, you "abandon all hope" of getting your money's worth.

APRIL 12th, 1776.

Newberne and Craven County for Independence.

A date very memorable in the annals of North Carolina, of Newberne, and of the United States. The day on which North Carolina, by unanimous vote of her Provincial Congress, then sitting at Halifax, first of all the thirteen Colonies, empowered her delegates in the Continental Congress to declare "Independence" of Great Britain.

Whatever doubts there may be concerning the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence,--and "soberly" lower-sill-filled ones are entertained,--the record of the resolution of April 12th, 1776, reflecting and emphasizing, as the writer believes, those of Mecklenburg of the year previous, is clear, and indisputable.

This resolution, which was a month earlier than the famous Virginia resolutions on the same subject, and no doubt hastened them, was sent to our delegates in the Continental Congress in session at Philadelphia, viz. Wm. Hooper of Wilmington, Joseph Hewes of Edenton, and John Penn of Granville.

After supper they walked down to the store of Thomas Duncan, and so intense was the crowd to see Big Ike, who they had read so much about, until Mr. Duncan had to threaten pulling them out and close his doors to do business.
