Mr. W. H. Oliver left yesterday morning to attend the national meeting of fire insurance companies.
Company G, of the First Regiment, some time ago decided to give its pay for the James City duty to the widow of Lieutenant Colonel D. N. Bogart, who was killed at New Berne. Company G, of the regiment located at Raleigh, decided to apply its pay in the same generous manner.
The News and Observer says that Commissioner of Agriculture Lane, of Alabama, has written a letter to Commissioner John Robinson, in which he highly compliments the North Carolina Hand Book, and says that it is the finest piece of work of the kind which has come to his office.

The Henderson Herald gives the following item concerning insect pests: "Gardeners are raising heavy complaint about the multiplication of insects infesting their vegetables. It is the cabbages, the cabbages, and cut worms are said to be more destructive this year than ever before. To mate and change plans of early setting have nearly been destroyed."
The outside decorations of the capital on the 30th will be red and white, the Confederate colors, and the same will be used in the interior decorations. This is in accordance with a suggestion made by Col. E. D. Hall, commander of the veterans. The decorations of the tier on which the capitol containing Mr. Davis' remains will not will be black and white.
A perfect tomato is that in which you see the farmers patronize the home merchants, the merchants patronizing home printers, the laborers spending the money they earn with their own tradesmen, and they buying their things at home instead of going abroad. The spirit of reciprocity between business men and mechanics, tradesmen and laborers, the farmers and manufacturers, results every time in making the town a good one for business.

Those desiring to have anything inserted in the JOURNAL on a certain day will please get it to us during the morning of the previous day. There is a disposition on the part of many to put off bringing in such matter until late in the afternoon—possibly after their own day's work is over. We cannot work our printers all night and the only way you can be sure that what you bring in will come out the next day is to furnish it early.
The Colorado beetle will sometimes play the mischief in a crop of potatoes in a very short time unless they are fought diligently, and the curlew bug likewise makes havoc in a grain crop. Drawbacks exist in everything, and from the tobacco growing sections comes a statement that the flea bug is doing much damage to tobacco. The unseasonable weather has increased the number of these bugs so that they are more troublesome than usual.
Winston has had another big fire, probably reaching a loss of $200,000, with insurance of about three-fourths of that amount. The mammoth plug and twist tobacco factory, next the largest in the South and owned by P. H. Hanes & Co. was also burned with a few other buildings including a warehouse belonging to A. J. Reynolds. Five hundred people are thrown out of employment. Some of the firemen were overcome by the heat and a number were hurt by falling bricks, &c. Greensboro was asked for help but arrived too late to be of service.
If there is any street in the resident portion of the city that more imperative needs than another every foot of it kept available for use that street is New street. Three leading churches are on this street and it is used considerably, and yet, unfortunately it is one of our narrowest streets. As soon as the city's finances permit the street improvements should be extended to it and it should be re-drained as some of the streets have been already, so the little ditches at the edges of the road bed can be closed and vehicles thus be enabled to use clear up to the trees when need arises for it.
Centenary M. E. Picnic
Centenary M. E. Sunday School found it raining when they got to their journey's end (though it did not last long) consequently the plan of taking dinner in the grove was abandoned, and it was spread in the dining room of the Atlantic Hotel instead. The genial proprietor, Mr. B. L. Perry, throwing the hotel open to the large party of pleasure seekers.
The dining room tables were used, and were filled four times.
The excursion stayed until the arrival of the mail train at night, consequently they did not get back until about ten o'clock last night. Those attending think it was the best picnic the school ever had.

Coroner's Inquest.

The great portion of the day was taken yesterday by Coroner Primrose and his jury in investigating the killing of Wm. McCoy, col., Monday night, and the inquest is not yet ended. It will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning in the City Hall.

Thirteen witnesses were examined during the first session of the jury and about as many more in the afternoon.

Over a dozen witnesses were examined before any material facts were developed, but it is now substantiated that two men were seen running from the scene of the shooting directly after it occurred. Two men whom they passed inquired what the shooting meant but they kept on their way without answering. They ran through the vacant lot along side the colored Old Fellow's Lodge near the A. & N. C. R. R. shops toward the macadamized road.

Hattie McCoy, the wife of the deceased was seen on the macadamized road very soon after the shooting occurred, barefooted and with her hat in her hand. Two men were just a little ahead of her and yet she claims to have stayed at the house of Hagar Pitts, col., a place of bad reputation, through the night, and it does seem pretty well established that she was there before the time of the shooting and also later and she did not leave Hagar's until the next morning though she was sent for and informed that her husband was dead. There is also evidence brought forward to show that she visited another house of similar character during the night but this is denied.

Hattie McCoy seems to have been a pretty bad character for years. It was brought out that her husband found her an I Cassy Morton, a yellow woman, who seems to be her most intimate companion with two white men on the street Sunday night and that on his threateningly approaching the crowd there was a general scattering and the husband was also looking for his wife the next night—the night of the shooting.

After the shooting occurred the two men who ran were seen by several. Just preceding the shooting a colored youth Henry Dawson, walking up Hancock street saw four people, two men and two women ahead of him.
He recognized one woman as Hattie McCoy, from knowing her and recognized the other as Cassy Morton from her name being called. This witness swears emphatically that one of the men was white and one colored—the white man turned around and he recognized him beyond doubt as "Dick Blackledge."
The party stopped where the shooting occurred and the witness was but a short distance off when it happened. Both the men and both the women ran when the shot was fired taking different directions through the vacant lot previously spoken of.
Further developments are looked for this morning.

Hancock Street Methodist Picnic Gets Back.

If the length of time they stayed is any criterion Hancock Street Methodist Sunday school must have had the biggest time of any that has thus far gone. They went off on Tuesday, the 23d inst., at 8 a. m., and did not return until the next morning about 7 o'clock.
The protracted stay, however, was none of their choosing. An hour after the steamer landed at the wharf at Arlington farm the wind which was blowing very hard lowered the water so as to leave her aground and she could not be gotten off until the next morning.
Considering the circumstances all on the excursion made out very well. After the boat accommodations were exhausted a ware house near the wharf in which hay was stored made a very convenient place for the resting of the smaller children; a good portion of the larger ones amused themselves far into the night by taking rides on a truck that was there and in one way and another the hours were passed pleasantly.
All unite in saying that in spite of the unexpected delay they had a very good time, and return thanks to Messrs. Danenburg and Sultan for the large share they contributed towards it.

Craven County Finances.

Mr. Thomas Daniels, Treasurer of Craver county informs us that the county is in better condition now than it has been before for about twenty-five years.
The raising expenses of the county are promptly paid as they occur and there are no vouchers out-standing but what can be met upon presentation. Consequently county scrip instead of being handed around at from 50 to 60 cents on the dollar is now worth 100 cents on the dollar.
The bonded indebtedness is also being regularly reduced. From $150,000 it has been got down to between $55,000 and 60,000.
These are some of the beneficent results of a sound Democratic administration. May good officers, such as we now have long continue in power and prosperity continue to follow its wise exercise.

Silver Plating.

I am prepared to replate your OLD silverware at Barrington's Machine shop on Middle Street.

Collegiate Institute Notes.

Quite a number of the students were off Wednesday on the Centenary Sunday School picnic.

Lawn tennis is the game just now. The students are delighted with their speaker, Dr. Thos. Hume, and their preacher Rev. W. S. Crossy. No better selections could have been made.

The faculty of Institute has kindly consented to let the pupils have a lawn party on the Green soon. All former students will be invited and a very pleasant occasion is anticipated.

Prof. Mortons mathematics is practiced daily and no effort is being spared to make of the approaching summer, the best that has been held in the history of the Institute.
The regular Friday afternoon exercises were unusually interesting last Friday. These exercises are looked forward to with pleasure by the students and always result in profit to them.
The following is a specimen of composition written by Missa David Gibson for a recent recitation in the Ladies' class from the familiar lines:

"Twinkle, twinkle little star,
How I wonder what you are,
Up above the world so high,
Like a diamond in the sky."
Scintillate, Scintillate,
Thou diminutive luminous heavenly body,
Rejoicing in the exuberant expanse of appellation,
How I wonder what thou art,
Elevated above the terrestrial spheres,
To so great a distance,
Resembling the valuable gem,
Placed in the extensive aerial region,
Surrounding the terraqueous of spheroidal body,
Upon which we reside,
When the flaming magnificent luminous orb gradually sinks
And vanishes from our secular observation,
And with moisture,
Which the vegetable position of this mundane sphere
Has ejected,
The diminutive specimen of botany, entitled "grass,"
Has become exceedingly humid,
Thus you present to our admiring observation
Your beautiful diminutive luminous, not Scintillate, Scintillate, all the nocturnal period.
The following constitute the successful ones who were so fortunate as to get on the honor roll for the month ending May 19th.

Misses Mary Barrington, Lizzie Porter, Ross Dail, Mamie Daniels, Bertha Willis, Mary Wetherington, Mary Voliva, Ruby Daniels, Aleph Cason, Eliza Simmons, Lizzie Ellis, Katie Gilbert, Alice Spencer, Bessie Parsons.

Trouble at a Picnic.

A correspondent writes us that on Saturday the 15th inst., on New River banks the annual picnic was held and such a crowd never was seen there at one time. They have a large pavilion and dance hall on the beach and music and dancing were the order there, as well as eating, but there was something to mar the feeling of those people. "Whiskey-drinking and fighting were a part of the day doing and before the performance ended two men were cut with knives, one of them Mr. Joe Willis, Seriously. He was cut across the throat, that is, around from under the ear to the front part of the neck, gash 5 in. long and in one place 3 1/2 in. deep, and yet he is living, or was, last Thursday 18th instant.
The assaulted was Mr. Martin Boyd of Morehead, a nephew of Mr. John Boyd of that place. The other man, Martin, made his escape but we heard he is arrested. The other man cut, was a justice of Joe maraud Rubin, both sons of the late Capt. Wallace Willis of Onslow, he was cut by Dr. McLendon across the forehead, so we learn.

What the Paper Does.

An Illinois newspaper says: "The real power of a newspaper to draw trade to its own town, or direct the trade in other channels, can hardly be estimated, and what is more, it is a matter that is hardly ever considered as an important factor in the towns prosperity, for the simple reason that it is not thought of by business men. He who will give the matter a moment of unbiased thought will be the last man to pool! pool! the idea."
The local paper, that is receiving a good living patronage from the town in which it is published, will guard well the interests of that town with jealous care. Just the same as the merchant guards the interests of his individual customers.

A Very Fortunate Omission of a Nap.

Mr. W. H. Cohen's infant child had a remarkable escape from death by falling plastering yesterday. The little one regularly takes a nap every day between one and two o'clock. Yesterday the nap was omitted and while Mrs. Cohen was holding her child on her lap in the passage the plastering directly over the cradle fell right into it. Had the child been in it, as is almost invariably the case, the result would have been almost certain to have been instant death. The missing of the nap was a providential event.

The Coast line people have extended their track to the river, and are preparing to build an elevator.
Capt. A. W. Styron is building one and will soon commence another steamer to run in connection with the Coast line, on the sound river route i. e. Leecheville, Sladesville, Scranton, Makielyville, etc. The Capt. is a better and will not be absent.

At 25 cents a copy, a small volume of 250 pages, containing the history of the State, published by the State Board of Education, is now on hand at the State Printing Office, Raleigh. It is a beautiful and useful volume, and is well worth a place on the shelves of every school and library. It is the best history of the State ever published.

In Memoriam.

Death of John H. Cameron, who is much interested in the Cotton Field, is a great loss to the community. He was a man of high character and great energy.
