Resumption is the order of the day. Banks and mills are resuming. Derogates will resume and give employment to 3000 men. Mills at Newnan, Ga., also resume and furnish work to over 1,500 men.

It was not to have been expected that the party which had looted the country for years would vacate the premises peaceably or that there could fail to be much confusion in sweeping out the litter of bad laws. These are but the troubles of transition, and when the new tenants of the place of trust get settled we'll show you some fine Democratic housekeeping remarks the Courier-Journal.

German and Russia are fighting each other with a war of tax rates. Germany "protects" her subjects against the importation of cheap Russian bread-stuffs, and Russia "protects" her subjects against cheap goods of German manufacture. The game is one of self-inflicted injury, each country, metaphorically speaking, putting its own ears in order to see which can endure the fortune longest. This is protectionism carried to its logical limit.

Our Local Insurance Order.

The Knights of Harmony are still increasing in membership and in attendance. The attendance at the last meeting of Craven Lodge No. 1, was 62, and 12 applications for membership were received. The lodge now has 230 members enrolled.

This order deserves to grow and succeed on account of the special beneficent features connected with it. It is more often the case than otherwise that when a man dies, the lack of income during his illness and the increased expense owing to that illness make it so that even a small sum of money comes in very acceptable to his family. This order pays the family of each member the very day his death occurs $25 to be used towards burial expenses, and a few days later it pays them an addition sum equal to $1.00 for each member of the order from a fund kept ahead for the purpose so as to avoid delay. This is done at a cost of 25 cents per month for dues and an assessment of $1.00 per member when a death occurs, and not one has occurred thus far. The small expense connected with membership is a commendatory feature.

The order in addition to its excellent workings has an additional charm to New Bernians though the fact that this city was the birth place of the organization.

Attempt at Poisoning in Littleton.

The Littleton Courier tells of a dastardly and fiendish attempt at poisoning there.

A colored woman employed in the family of Dr. Willis Alston was in love with a colored man and the attachment was not reciprocated.

Hearing that he was going to marry some one she swore she would kill him before he should marry any one but her. She procured an ounce bottle of strychnine and gave it to another colored man to put in the first one's well, but he became frightened and revealed the affair and the woman was arrested, the preliminary trial held and she was committed to Warrenton jail to await trial at Superior Court.

The well in which the woman intended the strychnine to be put was exceptionally good water and several families near set there for their drinking supply.

If the scheme of the inhuman wretch had been carried out the probability is that she would have destroyed the lives of about twenty-five people, among whom was the family of her employer and against none of whom she had any spite, simply to gratify a jealous grudge.

Locked in the School Building.

Mr. J. M. Hines brings to our notice an occurrence of Sunday afternoon. A number of the larger boys of the town, after Sunday School was out, having first possessed themselves in some way of a key to the Collegiate Institute building, caught some of the smaller boys and by force carried them into the building and locked them in one of the second-story rooms.

It was no doubt intended as a practical joke but it involved a trespass both on the rights of person and property which joking does not warrant.

Some of the parents of those locked in have blood in their eyes and if there is a repetition of the offence they expect to make it warm for those engaged in it.

Arrival of a Steamer at Beaufort—The First in That Harbor—Court Adjourned that Everyone May Visit, and Attend a Reception and Luncheon on the Stranger.

In the letter following are described the arrival and reception of what was probably the first steambot ever in Beaufort Harbor. Do any of your readers know of an earlier visit of a steambot to the Port? Robert Fulton's boat, the Clermont, the first successful attempt at steam navigation, ran first from New York to Albany in 1807, requiring 24 hours for the trip, and it was some years after that before steamers became at all common.

At Beaufort her arrival was considered of sufficient importance for an adjournment of Court then in session, that those in attendance might have an opportunity of visiting the steamer.

Other references in the letter may require some explanation to those of today: "Capt. Harry's Packet" was a "pilot boat" running between Newbern and Beaufort, but it did not go all the way at that time. The "Haul-over" was the space or neck of land between Clubfoot and Harlow's Creeks, across which, before the present canal was dug, passengers and their effects had to be transferred, hence its name, which doubtless some of our older citizens will remember. From the "Haul-over" persons went on to Beaufort by land, or by boat, via Newport River, as preferred. The names of several, formerly prominent in Newbern and Beaufort, will be recognized.

GRAHAM DAVES, BEAUFORT, Sept. 9th, 1824, Thursday morning.

Dear wife—I was summoned to the boat at Newbern by that provoking fellow Harry to take passage to this place at 12 o'clock noon, on Saturday, and we got under way, if the term be applicable, in a dead calm. In consequence we were in the river and creek all night. Day broke as we walked over the Haul-Over, and from the calmness of the night the mosquitoes were worse than I ever knew them. We took a cup of coffee at Bell's and landed at Beaufort after 12 at noon on Sunday. I took Brookfield with me, and Attmore had been down for a day or two before. At candle light Judge Donnell and W. C. Stanly arrived by water from the Haul-Over.

As we landed on Sunday at Beaufort we discovered a large steambot working her way up the Sound towards Beaufort, and she very soon came to anchor in the Banks Channel near the old fort. She was from Philadelphia, bearing mail to Charleston, to ply between Charleston and Hamburg on the Savannah river, calculated alike for passengers and freight; but principally for the latter. She was bran new and right off the stocks, a vessel of the largest size, of beautiful and convenient construction, and her cabin was finished in the highest style, completely furnished with berths, bedding, curtains, mirrors, settees, etc.

She was out from Philadelphia 6 days before the Cape of Delaware to Ocracoke where she came in. Berne had had a previous acquaintance with the Captain (Lambert), a very gentlemanly, pleasant man, and an invitation generally was given by the Captain to visitors and inhabitants to come on board about 12 on Monday, to steam about the harbor. It being Court-Week this comprehended a great many, and at the appointed hour every boat in the waters was in requisition to convey the folks on board. They spread over the whole front of the town, and were seen coming from every quarter, crowded with all the "beauty and fashion," as well as a great deal else, of the place, bending their course towards the steambot, Henry Schultz, Lambert, Master. Everybody was there, the Misses Taylor among them, under the fine awning spread over the quarter-deck. The Judge had concluded not to open Court until the evening, but after being on board an hour we saw it would be some time before steam sufficient could be raised to move her, and therefore concluded to return to town, open and adjourn Court, dine, and go back,—all of which was done.

At three we were again on board and the boat got finely under way. We moved up and down before the town, and in the Banks Channel, and out towards the Bar, until her heavy rolling began to excite some uneasiness in the stomachs of some of the ladies. The steambot was constantly spread with nice table was constantly spread with nice ship biscuit from Philad'a, chipped smoked beef, apples, and a variety of the best of liquors; of which our Oretrognies made as hearty an use as they seemed to have a hearty welcome. We were brought into the town channel about 5, and took our boats to town, for they were all in tow of the Steamer.

The Henry Schultz then put to sea under a salute from the town artillery, which was handsomely returned by Captain Lambert.—Depend upon it it was quite an affair, and could not have occurred at a better time.

Hollister and family arrived in a carriage (Lewis Williams) from the Haul-Over, and are at Mrs. Thompson's. We finished the Court business on Tuesday. The Judge and Stanly went home on yesterday. The rest of us were to have gone today, but it rains and blows hard ahead, and we hope to go tomorrow. I am at the Court-House writing to you. Farewell, the girls must not forget me. They have been very good and punctual in their correspondence.

Your devoted husband,
EDWARD GRAHAM,
Hillsboro, N. C.

Some Pungent Political Points and Newsy Paragraphs From the "Em City"

NEWBERN, N. C., Sept. 3.

Editor Goldsboro Argus:—Even in these days of political apathy and general ingratitude it is a subject of severe criticism that the Administration is so slow in complying with its election promises that the horse that pulled the plow should eat the fodder.

Though Collector White has weeks ago tendered his resignation, Chairman Simmons, who has been promised the position, remains at home here as uncertain when he will receive recognition of his work as he was on the 4th day of March.

Mr. S. H. Lane, who hopes to succeed Mr. Robert Hancock as Collector of Customs at this port, is, in the condition of the Georgia Asport during his first courtship, he is "vexed with uncertainty and distracted with doubt," as well as Mr. M. Manly, who is expecting to be New Berne's postmaster, if he lives "till a Democrat is appointed here under the present regime."

Another "departure" is being made here. A city directory, containing a synopsis of its history, together with comparative statistics showing the increase in trade and shipments of different products is being gotten up and will soon be ready for the printers. To this will be added a census for 1893, which will doubtless show some 10,000 population.

A. HATCHETT.

THERE'S A SHOCK to your system, with the usual pill. And there's weakness afterward, and caused by it. How can you expect any lasting benefit from such things?

The nearest to Nature's own way is with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. In every derangement of the liver, stomach and bowels—Sick and Bilious Headaches, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks—they promptly relieve and permanently cure. No disturbance, no griping, no reaction afterward. They regulate the system perfectly—one tiny, sugar-coated Pellet is a gentle laxative or corrective—three for a quartet.

They're the smallest, the easiest to take—and the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money is returned.

Buy of reliable dealers. With tricky ones, something else that pays them better will probably be offered as "just as good." Perhaps it is, for them; but it can't be, for you.

Too well known to need lengthy advertisements.—Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, 50 cents.

To the People of the Old City of Elms and Surrounding Country.

It is with regret that I have been absent from the old City of Elms, Newbern, so long a time but circumstances have been such that it was not in my power to have done otherwise. Although I have not been with you in person yet I can truly say my heart has been with you, and during my absence I have been looking after your interest as well as mine.

I say the people's interest because they have heretofore appreciated the bargains I have given them in buying the different bankrupt stocks throughout the State of North Carolina, and make the statement without fear of contradiction that the fifteen thousand dollar stock which I have recently purchased in the city of Wilmington is the best Bankrupt Stock ever thrown on the market in the State of North Carolina, and that when it has been reduced so that it can be moved to Newbern that such rejoicing and such crowds has never before been seen at any store as will be at Big Ike's clothing store in the old City of Elms.

To the ladies of Newbern I would earnestly beg you not to be alarmed by my absence, that it will be as good when moved to Newbern as was the first day I bought the stock, that you will do well not to make your purchases until you have seen my stock.

To give you an idea of my assortment of dress goods, quality and prices, I have sent samples to my Newbern store where my clerks will be pleased to show you.
