The French government has sent fifty-one workmen to this country to inspect our industrial establishments.
One trouble with this country is that it pays too much attention to the doings of the stock market and not enough attention to enterprise, any achievements of legitimate business men.
Our friend, Mr. Johnathan Haven, writes to inform us that the first steamer to ply on the waters of the Pamlico was a side wheel steamer built in Washington, N. C., in 1882, and named after E. D. McNair, of Tarboro, N. C.

Opening of the Collegiate Institute.
The New Berne Collegiate Institute opens tomorrow with the following faculty J. D. Hodges, A. M., Principal, Rev. Theo. H. Posey, of Sampsonville, S. C., First assistant; Rabbi I. Kaiser, teacher of vocal music and German; Mrs. A. B. Ferber, Primary Department; Miss Hattie Dail, higher mathematics.
The departments of instrumental music and art will be arranged and provided for a little later.
The school hours observed will from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.
The school will have two aims—to fully prepare boys and girls to enter the best colleges and to fit for actual work those who cannot attend college. The course of study will be slightly varied to suit certain intended callings, as school teaching, a mercantile life, &c.

Satisfied With Her Road Investment.
The Herald speaking of how the tax system of working roads pans out says—"The first year of the new road law in Rowan county is rounded up. During that time there has been paid to the treasurer a total of $2,748.89 for special road tax, and the roads have cost $2,719.15 leaving a balance in the treasury of $29.74. No money that the county has ever expended has been used for a better purpose than that put on the public roads."
People may grumble at the expense when road improvements are proposed and possibly kick while the work is in progress but when they once get the improvements, few indeed could be found who would be willing to go back to the old ways. This can be verified in the city of New Berne as far as our permanent street improvements have been finished and it will be the case in the country whenever a system of road-making and working is established that will bring the public road up to the standard that ought to be maintained.
People who use bad roads ought to protest against them in a very suitable way and on every proper occasion until some way is devised by which they will become a thing of the past.

Mosquitos are more numerous and blood-thirsty than they have been at any previous time this summer. The frequent rains are no doubt the cause.

It is urged that all pupils enter promptly tomorrow morning so that the work of classification may be performed expeditiously and the regular work taken up and carried on without interruption. This will be advantageous to all the teachers and to every scholar.
"Early History of Raleigh."
We acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the Early History of Raleigh, the Capital City of North Carolina. It is the address which Hon. Kemp P. Battle, LL. D. Professor of History in the University of North Carolina, delivered October 18th, 1892, by invitation of the committee on the Centennial celebration of the founding of the city. The address is scholarly, valuable for its great amount of compact information and interesting in a high degree to every North Carolinian.
The little book is very neatly gotten up in a strong flexible binding and contains, in addition to the address, the prize centennial poem, read on the occasion and a full account of the celebration.
Mr. J. J. Baxter, who began receiving his stock the first of the week, has got in pretty good shape and was selling right along yesterday. Mr. W. B. Swindell is his chief salesman.
The time for paying State and county taxes has arrived. Mr. R. F. Broadus of No. 2 Township led the way. He paid Friday. A colored woman of the city, Annie Latham, was second. She paid yesterday.

A two year old child of Cea. Fisher, col., died Friday night from the effects of a draught of concentrated lye which it drank a day or two previously. Its mother had the lye in a mug from which the child was accustomed to drink, and sitting it down she turned to look after the child and while her back was turned the child picked the mug up and took the fatal drink.
A fearful scene has been discovered at Port Royal, S. C. The bodies of twenty-six sailors and one woman washed up on the beach—evidently the victims of some wreck. No information whatever has yet been received as to the identity of the foundered ship. The steamship Alvo of the Atlas line from has been long overdue, but the owners are still confident of her safety.
Rev. D. H. Petroe has presented the JOURNAL office with a portion of a corn stalk which he brought from Stokes county. It was raised by the father of Mr. Petroe and it is unquestionably a green stalk. It measures eight and a quarter inches around and it grew proportionately high. Some of the stalks reached a height of twenty-four feet, and they bear large full years of corn. One of our printers says the stalk would make a nice base ball bat, but we will endeavor to keep it for our next Fair.

The Rev. F. M. Jordan, the veteran evangelist, has received a call to the pastorate of the Second Church, Durham. His acceptance is said to be doubtful.

The Ferris wheel company of Chicago have issued a beautiful souvenir of the great Ferris wheel that attracts so much attention at the Exposition. It is a story in romance of this wonderful piece of engineering skill.
Big Ike, who has been spending a month or two in Wilmington reducing a big bankrupt stock which he purchased there, came in Saturday afternoon by the new railroad for a brief visit home. He will return to Wilmington, and on the first of next month move the Wilmington stock to New Berne.
A bale of fraudulently packed cotton was discovered at the Wilmington cotton compress Thursday. Fifty pounds of white sand were in the middle—a clear case of artfully contrived swindling. The bale came from South Carolina and will no doubt be traced without difficulty to the party. Steps for a thorough investigation and prosecution have been taken.

When the Democrats turned the government over to the Republicans in 1889 the treasury surplus was nearly $100,000,000 the annual surplus revenue the same, and the excess of gold above the reserve was $28,000,000. When the Democrats received it back in 1893 the treasury surplus and the revenue surplus were gone and the free gold was less than $1,000,000.—New York World.
"There is, indeed, more ready cash in the rural districts of Georgia, says the constitution, than one might suppose. The farmers have been living economically during the dull times—saving up for "a rainy day," and working harder than they had ever worked before so that the fall, when times are getting brighter, finds them in fairly good condition with cash on hand and cash in sight."

Between worn out senatorial courages on the one hand, and on the other the test of physical endurance, which seems to be the only way of bringing the repeal bill to a vote, legislation of vital importance to the welfare of the country is compelled to see a rather serious gamble. The election of Senates by popular vote is one of the clearest objectives insisted upon by the advocates at Washington.
