Monday night several of our curious being rather small, took his gun along to make up for his lack of avoirdurpois. The parties from Bellair on arriving a the appointed place to meet their ghost ship met a large crowd from New Berne The crowd after meeting and thorough ly organizing for the watch, posted themselves ready for the attack. Some were armed with pitchforks, others with Win-chesters and lastly bat not leastly came those with "little brown jugs." The ghost being forewarned, fearing "it" might fall into the ambush thus adroitly planned, did not make its ap-
