Judge A. S. Seymour returned last night from Raleigh where he has been holding circuit court.

We call attention to reminiscences of Honor M. W. Ransom during the reconstruction period, published on the fourth page this morning.

An immense navy yard building at Newok burned on the morning of the 5th inst. The loss is considered to be between two hundred and three hundred thousand dollars.

The work of erecting the W. N. & N. warehouse building has commenced. It is going forward under the supervision of Mr. Thos. McGee, of Catherine Lake. The timbers are simply being gotten in readiness now. He expects to push the work rapidly next week.

The Circle of King's Daughters will meet at the residence of Miss Carrie Mayhew's this evening at half past seven o'clock. It is desired that all members be present at this, the annual meeting. The King's Sons are cordially invited to join in the meeting.

In our article on Roanoke Island, we should have mentioned as also active in arranging the detail of the purchase and transfer of "Old Fort Raleigh," Messrs. Pruden and Bonn of Edenton, and Messrs. Skidner of Hertford, N. C. The former also drew up the articles of incorporation.

More Big Bears Killed.

Another shipment of dressed bears was made Thursday from Havelock to New York by express. Mr. C. C. Cannon of Havelock had the good fortune to kill two huge ones on Mr. J. M. Gorrell's place. Each hind quarter weighed a hundred pounds and judging by this the very lowest estimate that could be put on the entire weight of each bear would be 300 pounds. This is immense. The bears were in fine condition, rolling in fat.

They are living principally on gum berries found in the swamps and on late corn which they steal. This species of game continues abundant in that locality and offers fine sport for those who like an exciting hunt.

Superior Court

Morton, Reed & Co. vs. Ralph Gray and Ira E. Hicks, administrators. Judgment signed.

F. W. Hughes vs. Western Union Telegraph Company Judgment for defendant. Rule for new trial. Rule discharged. Plaintiff appealed.

Gaskins vs. Davis, suit for $500. Verdict in favor of defendant. Messrs. Pearson and Gibbs represented the defendant and Messrs. Stevenson, Moore and Clark the plaintiffs.

The Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ives reception, was held last night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Ives, parents of the groom. Miss Maggie D. Wallace, of Wilmington, Mrs. Ives' bridesmaid assisted, Mr. P. H. Pelletier standing with and presenting her. Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ives assisted Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Ives in receiving; Misses Emma Katie Jones and Sadie Eaton escorted the guests to the dining room, and Misses Carrie Claypoole, Sallie Justice and Mary Gulon were very attentive in supplying them with the tempting refreshments when the dining-room was reached.

The presents were numerous and beautiful, the rooms appropriately decorated, and in every way the reception was an exceedingly pleasant social event.

SIX THOUSAND DOLLARS

IN PREMIUMS AT THE COMING NEW BERNE FAIR—MANY SPECIAL PREMIUMS IN ADDITION.

Astonishingly Large Prizes for Victorious Racers—Special Attractions.

The first of the East Carolina Fair Premium List is completed and the others soon will be, and then they will be ready for distribution. Names of parties to send them to are desired, many names will be needed, but it is requested that those handing in the names of friends and acquaintances residing elsewhere for a copy will exercise due judgment as to which ones are likely to feel interested in the Fair, to the extent of either coming or making an exhibit, as the object of the books is to benefit the Fair along these two lines. The premium lists of our Fair this year ranks among the nicest books of the kind ever gotten out in the State. It contains 84 pages plainly printed well bound, and a good neat book in every way. The fact that it was gotten out by the well-known house of Richardson & Son is enough to establish the excellence of its mechanical execution.

An examination of it shows that there are 849 liberal premiums offered in the numerous departments, exclusive of the race premiums and the special premiums. The premiums in cash foot up the grand total of $6,000.

Business men of the city and others offer 72 special premiums. This is greater in number than ever before, and they are not only greater in number, but better in quality and more valuable throughout than ever before.

Turn from these premiums, look at the size of the purses offered for premiums and open your eyes. There are Two THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS offered as premiums on races alone.

The amounts offered on each race range from $350.00 down to $75.00. There are three races for the first mentioned amount and several only a little under that sum. One thousand dollars is the sum of the purses that will be given to the winners in the four races on Thursday of Fair week. If such generous offers as these doesn't bring the finest gathering of trotters that ever assembled in the State, and make some of the hottest contested races we are greatly mistaken.

If you are a lover of fine horses and grand racing, don't fail to be at the next New Berne Fair.

The Fair officials are not lying back in ease content to feel their duty done with the giving of inducements that is reasonably sure of securing the grandest exhibition ever seen in the State—they are not that kind of men. The secretary Mr. Reizenstein is in active correspondence in relation to novel attractions. He has just closed a contract with a new one—something never seen in these parts before—a trotting dog. The dog contracted for comes from Des Moines, Iowa. He weighs 47 pounds and trots a mile in three minutes drawing a six-year-old boy in a sulky made for the purpose.

The boy, sulky and harness weigh 75 pounds. Other attractions are being negotiated for and when contracts for them are completed, we will give our readers the information pertaining thereto.

There is every indication that our next Fair will be the grandest one yet. The facts given above, outline some of the reasons for this expectation. Another and very important one is that the completion of the W. N. & N. R. R. between Wilmington and New Berne gives easy communication with a very rich tributary country along its line which has been heretofore difficult to reach. This guarantees much larger number of visitors than heretofore from that direction, and a great increase of fine exhibits from the same region.

And, it being the first year that New Berne has been so accessible to Wilmington, we doubt not they will be here in force—we have an intimation that there is very good prospect that the fire and military companies are likely at that time to return the compliment of the New Berne boys who participated in her Welcome Week exercises. New Berne will gladly welcome them and we hope they will be here in full numbers.

The time for the Fair is drawing nigh: Let every one be making his preparations for it.

Wilmington's Welcome Week.

A very good crowd of New Bernians left yesterday morning to attend the Welcome Week celebration at Wilmington. Those who have come back from the celebration speak in high terms of it. The parade—civil, military and firemen's Wednesday night was a grand one, as the Star says, a magnificent spectacular demonstration, undoubtedly one of the best and largest ever seen in Wilmington. Colored lights and torches were used in profusion, which not only added to the effect but lighted up the streets so that everything could be seen. The parade was at least a hour and a half long, and flashing military and firemen's uniforms added strikingly to the appearance of the cavalcade. Every man had a torch, and the streets in which the parade passed, as far as could be seen, were ablaze with colored lights; bonfires were also built on every corner, and the gas and electric lights turned on in full force. Many private residences along the line of march were beautifully decorated and brilliantly illuminated. At different places sulphur lights of all colors were throwing forth their brilliant rays.

The day fireworks are said never to have been exploded in North Carolina. The display lasted an hour and a half and was witnessed by several thousand people.

The boat races were successful and interesting events.

The fire works prepared for last night cost $1,500, and no doubt a fine report will be heard from them.

The Star in giving the companies composing the parade of Thursday night refers to the New Berne firemen in the following views.

Chief Newman followed in his wagon, heading the Fire Department with Foreman Jas. W. Moore, of New Berne, and "Little foreman" W. C. VonGlabn, Jr. Myers.

Third Division, under command of W. C. VonGlabn and W. L. Burkholder, with the Wilmington Steam Fire Engine Company No. 1, on foot, in charge of Foreman H. G. Walsh, followed by the New Berne Fire Company, under Assistant Foreman M. H. Sultan. The Atlantic engine and reel were tastefully and prettily dressed. The New Berne Fire Company is uniformed differently from the Wilmington Fire Companies, and elected much praise and applause along the line of march.

The Streets in Goldboro.

From the Argus of Wednesday we take the following:

"Our citizens were truly astounded on arising yesterday morning to find the trees everywhere loaded with sleet and ice and great bushes splashing off and falling with crashing audibility to the ground under their heavy burden."

"No storm ever in past years has worked such fearful destruction to the fine and stately trees that have heretofore graced our streets and been the pride of our city as the unexpected sleet and freeze that swooped down upon our community Monday night, and at this writing is relentless in its domain of devastation."

OLD BAKER 1861 AT TAYLORS JUNCTION.

A Compliment to North Carolina. The Washington Evening News, which is ever ready to say a kind word for the industrial South, contains an able article on cotton manufacturing for North Carolina. From time to time that paper has laid special stress on the progress of cotton manufacturing in the Southern States, and it gives as its reasons: First, because it believes that this will be the keynote of Southern prosperity for years to come, and, secondly, because it believes in the South and its tremendous possibilities which the existence of raw material, plant and fuel present for the cheap production of cotton cloth to compete with the other nations of the world.

It appears that in North Carolina there are now 145 cotton factories in operation and a dozen or more in course of construction. Very few have found it necessary to shut down. These factories represent 600,000 spindles, and consumed last year 175,000 bales of cotton.

Another interesting fact is that these factories are not huddled together. They are scattered throughout the State, so that there is scarcely a county which has not important cotton manufacturing interests.

This is only the beginning of what will be a few years hence, says the News. With the rich coal deposits of the South at her very doors and cotton crops grown upon the spot, the Carolinas are destined yet to be a cotton manufacturing district as important as that of Lancashire, and for all that can be seen to the contrary, much more so.—Norfolk Virginian.

A Rich N. C. Tin Mine.

In digging a well on a lot belonging to Dr. J. G. Hort at King's Mountain a few days ago a rich vein of tin was discovered ten feet below the surface. The ore is of the highest grade yet opened up.

The whole town of King's Mountain is underlaid with the richest deposits of tin ever discovered in the Western Hemisphere. Work on the tin mine shaft at Kings Mountain is being prosecuted with a vigor. A steam pump has been put in and the 100 feet level where it is expected to strike the main lead, is being rapidly approached.—Shelby Review.]

WAITING FOR YOU.

As those who, on some lonely mountain height, Watching thro' all the weary hours of night, Await the pale rose of the morning light, I wait for thee.

As one who, waking on a bed of pain, And, helpless in his agony, is fain To wait the sweet return of sleep again, I wait for thee.

As he who, in some vast cathedral, dim With shadows, silent waits, on bearded limb, The music of the Eucharistic hymn, I wait for thee.

As deaf men crave for song, and blind for sight, As weary sons of toil long for the night, And as the fettered spirit longs for light, I wait for thee.
