LOCAL NEWS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

HOWARD.
N. Whitford—Fine Dref.
Wanamaker & Brown, Philadelphia—Agents wanted.

The maximum temperature yesterday was 51 1/2, minimum 41 1/2.

The beggar to whom we alluded in Tuesday's paper was put out of the city yesterday by Mayor Ellis.

Mr. Walter S. Land left on the steamer Neuse yesterday for Fortress Monroe with the expectation of there joining the United States Army.

Some complaint, and justly too, is made at having no light at the entrance to the theatre. The high stone steps, with scarcely no rail to them for protection, makes it quite dangerous when the crowd disperses.

Mr. C. E. Stover, is building another neat dwelling, at the foot of Union street, alongside the one he remodelled last year. The change in that building made quite an improvement and the new one will still further add to the pleasing appearances of the place.

Mr. Josiah Daniels, of Hog Island while out hunting with a friend last week had the good luck to kill three raccoons at one shot. He saw only one, and getting into a very advantageous position he blazed away, when down tumbled three instead of one. This is the best coon shot we ever heard of.

With this issue we begin with a portion of the reading matter for the Fair Edition of the WEEKLY JOURNAL, which will be issued next week, but all that is intended to go in it will be required this week. We wish further to state that all addresses furnished us to send a copy to should be written plain. We can not guarantee the parties ever getting them unless the address is written in English.

The operation on Mr. M. E. Whitehurst's eye proved a very successful one, and though improvement in his sight is not looked for, it is expected that it will not become any worse. Mr. Whitehurst returned home yesterday morning satisfied with his experience and well pleased with the institution to which he had been. Dr. Chisholm who performed the operation had nearly 800 cases of eye trouble from several States to come under his observation the last month.

The M. E. Church District Stewards held their annual meeting yesterday at Goldsboro. Messrs. T. A. Green of the city, S. W. Latham from opposite New Bern and W. L. Arendell of Morehead were among those attending it. The assessments are divided through the district in the same ratio as they were last year but the total assessments are about a thousand dollars less for the whole district. Of course each church shares in the benefit.

A Delightful Evening
Fewer ever was an audience at our theatre more pleased than last night at hearing the Torbett Concert Company, and never was a company more clever in its endeavor to please an audience. The program was doubly carried out and even more. Not a single piece failed to be encored and a number of them two and three times.

Miss Torbett with her grace and perfect naturalness, was an immediate favorite and won the highest admiration for the sweet and touching music she drew from her violin.

The vocal music was varied enough to meet the different tastes, and every song abounded in sweetest concord. They sang principally without accompaniment which gave added to the delicacy of the blending of their voices.

The company made a good impression on the large and refined audience present, and it will always find a welcome here.

All articles intended for exhibition at the Fair will be transported upon payment of freight at regular rates, and receipted bill will be given to shipper by R. R. Will be run every day during the session of the Fair, and all railroads in North Carolina will issue excursion tickets to the Fair at greatly reduced rates.

The grounds and buildings will be lighted throughout by electric lights. The programme of amusements includes all the latest novelties and attractions that pertain to a first class Fair, and is so arranged as to offer special attractions for each day.

For premium lists, or other information, apply to Chas. Reizenstein, Sec'y and Treas.

REGULATIONS.

The President and Directors shall have the general supervision of the Fair. It shall be the duty of any of these officers to take speedy and efficient means to quell any disturbance that may arise upon the grounds, and to see that proper order is kept. The employees and policemen will obey any one or more of them to accomplish this end.

The President will wear a white rosette; each of the Vice Presidents red and white; each of the Directors, blue; the Secretary and Treasurer red; Managers, green.

JUDGES.

To secure an intelligent and impartial award is the end to be attained by all the machinery of the Fair, and the Judges will be selected with that view, by the Directors.

They will carefully examine all articles in the class to which they are assigned, and give the awards.

If there is no competition the Judges will not award a Premium, unless there is decided merit; and if they find any article on exhibition not mentioned in Premium List, deserving mention, they will report same to the Secretary and he to the Board of Directors.

No competitor can act as Judge, in the class in which he or she exhibits.

Competitors for premiums cannot be present during the examination of the Judges, unless specially requested by them.

ENTRIES.

The Secretary will receive entries at his office and record them in the Entry Book and give the exhibitor a tag for same.

The name of the exhibitor shall not be attached to any article or stock exhibited until the same have been made by the Judges.

Articles from a distance may ship their goods to the Secretary who will follow their instructions in regard to them and have them exhibited to the best advantage.

All articles entered for Premiums must be upon the grounds on Monday, the 19th day of February.

Every article or animal entered for competition shall be under the control of the Board of Directors.

No premium will be awarded on any exhibit when owner has informed Judges of ownership.

Exhibitors will not be allowed to remove any article or stock until the close of the Fair without the permission of the Directors in charge of Department.

The Treasurer as soon as possible, will pay the successful exhibitors who have been awarded premiums.

All premiums not called for within 30 days after awarded will be considered donated to the Fair.

INVITATION.

The members of the press generally are invited to attend our Fair, and if they will make their intention to come known to the Secretary he will gladly furnish them tickets of admission.

SUGGESTIONS TO EXHIBITORS.

Make your entries early, and take your exhibits to the grounds at the time designated in the rules, and don't ask to remove them until the close of the Fair.

It is not a wise plan to conclude, before you leave home, that the things you are going to show are so much better than what anyone else will have, that yours will take the premium as a matter of course.

When you are unsuccessful, don't expose your temper or disappointment by loud and angry talk, and uncomplimentary attacks upon the judges. Judges sometimes make mistakes, but they intend to be honest, and their shortcomings, as a rule, are pure and simple errors of judgment. It is often the case that there is not room for decided judgment, and the skill of the best judges is overtaxed to detect differences. A slight point may have weight to turn the decision against you; but still you are really benefited by the show about as much as though they marked the prize for you, because the public, being aware of close contest, will fairly discriminate and recognize the fact that your animal or article is a superior one, quite an equal match for the prize one, and really good enough for any body. Under provocation, better be silent than noisy, that will be advertising your disappointment.

Don't growl and grumble, but make allowances for the difficulties of running a big Fair without some misfits. What you can't put up with go to the officers quietly, and it will be remedied.

"Comparisons are odious."

BURNES.

We know comparisons are odious but what a prominent grocery merchant of Commercial Row said to us a few days ago is too good to keep. He said "I am always better pleased with the goods I buy of you, in fit and wear, than any I get from these other clothing or shoe men. Now he was right; the Clothing, Hats, Shoes and other fixtures we sell are from reliable dealers—no shoddy stock. When you see anything in this line, try us. RIVER IMPROVEMENT WORK.

The Freeing of Neuse River Channel From Stumps Now in Progress.

For the past two years Mr. W. J. Chadbourne, U. S. Assistant Engineer, has been doing good service in this district in river and harbor improvement work by removing from East Carolina waters those things which were a bar to navigation, or which were a menace to vessels using our streams. In the Neuse river hereofore this work has been confined mainly to the removal of logs, trees and snags, but three weeks ago he began pulling up stumps from the channel of the river.

We paid a visit yesterday to where the work was in progress, out in the channel just in front of the Lewis Ferry wharf a little above the city, and were considerably surprised at what the investigation revealed to us regarding the nature of the river's bottom.

We found that where the force under overseer Durham was at work the bottom of the channel had stumps in it pretty near as thick as large trees would grow in a forest. Mr. Chadbourne gave us the interesting information that the stumps are found entirely across the river as far up and down it as he has examined until the point is reached where the water becomes salt.

These stumps indicate unmistakably that at the time they grew the Neuse river was not flowing just where it flows now, but as nearly all the stumps are in the present river course it is the present river course was low swampy land when they flourished. In the work of removal no attention is paid to the shallow water—leaving the channel is the object aimed at.

One of the stumps pulled up last week, near where the hoisting machine is now working, measured six feet in diameter. One that we witnessed them at work on was near the same size. The stumps were broken into several pieces by dynamite in order to release its hold on the bottom, but one of the roots taken up entirely was about fourteen feet in length, and larger around at the thick part than a man's body. The top of this stump, standing in the channel, right where the tree grew was seven feet below the surface of the water, and yet it was charred across the top showing that at some time in the remote past it had been on fire.

After we had witnessed the removal of several pieces the hooks failed to do their work. After a dozen or more ineffective attempts recourse was again had to blasting. The first thing pulled up then was a big anchor of several hundred pounds weight. It was judged to have been there about half a century, and was no doubt lost by becoming entangled in the stump; so that it could not be released. The action of the water had put a curious appearance upon it. In some places it has, upon a casual look, almost as much the appearance of wood as of iron.

The anchor and some of the big stumps removed will be exhibited at the New Bern Fair. It can thus be seen, to some extent, the benefit of the work being done. One sharp prong of the anchor was sticking directly upward and if a vessel had struck upon it, trouble would have resulted, as it would also if some of the worst stumps were struck.

The Government should continue to look out properly for all improvement work; and entrench on expenditures that benefit the public but little.
