Who is Treasurer of the Elm City Athletic Club?

The Raleigh Chamber of Commerce has enthusiastically endorsed the plan of building another State exposition in 1895.

Charles Cox, perhaps the ablest citizen of Moore county, died in Cape Fear township Thursday at the advanced age of 110 years.

Today is the fiftieth anniversary of Judge Wm. Gaston. A description of the scene at his death bed will be found on another page.

Mr. James A. Bryan of New Berne was married Thursday, Jan'y 18th at St. Marks church, Jersey City, N. J., to Miss Julia Rush Olmsted of that place.

A hurricane at Oak Cliff, and South and East Dallas, Texas, on the night of the 20th inst. destroyed $100,000 and killed a boy. Its path was fifty or a hundred miles long.

Governor Carr received a telegram from Sheriff White, of Madison county, stating that Charles Hensley, the murderer of his cousin, Bud Hensley, had been arrested at Houston, Texas.

All the young ladies who are to take part in the Business Men's Carnival will please meet promptly at the Y. M. C. A. Hall this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The parts will then be assigned.

Mr. John McGuy, of Cattleburg, Ky., who has been taking a pleasure tour in California and other Western States passed through last night enroute to the Virginia Dare Hotel, Beaufort, where he means to spend a short time.

The test of the Atlantic engine horses to the engine yesterday was entirely satisfactory. The horses were gentle, pulled easily and obeyed to perfection. They were driven on the mechanized road and other streets for about half an hour.

We are glad to know that there was no balloon accident at Washington. Prof. Odell of the Grace Shannon Company (the same one which is to operate at the New Berne Fair) made no ascension until Friday and then gave a beautiful one.

A Duluth, Minn., telegram says: "Rev. Father Connelly, the Catholic priest, convicted of criminally assaulting Miss Julia Southerland, a member of his congregation, was sentenced to twenty years and three months imprisonment at hard labor."

The case of the N. C. Packing Co., of Beaufort, vs. Mr. Nellie B. Dey and owner, was heard by Judge Seymour in chambers Monday. The suit was to recover pay for damages to empty cans in transit to the factory. The Judge reversed his decision.

The Raleigh Visitor says: C. H. Price recently escaped from the Michigan penitentiary, is supposed to be lurking in North Carolina. He is a clever forger, having stolen $100,000 from the United States express office at St. Louis. There is a heavy reward for him.

Mr. P. H. Pelletier, administrator of Mrs. M. Shade, Dec't, gives notice of the sale of three valuable lots. One is the vacant lot on Broad street, between his old residence and Mr. G. D. Bowdens, another is the improved lot near the foot of Hancock street, which until recently was the home of Mr. Crabtree and lastly a vacant lot adjoining.

Mrs. W. S. Barrus of Pollockville, who has for a long time been afflicted with Bright's disease, and who has been down for several weeks with an attack of it died thereon Saturday evening and was buried Sunday afternoon Rev. S. H. Taler, of Goldsboro, officiating. Mrs. Barrus was an exemplary Christian, a member of the Presbyterian church. She leaves three small children.

ANNUAL SERMON.

Before the Female Benevolent Society
A Useful and Worthy Organization
—Treasurer's Report—Collections.

The annual sermon before the Female Benevolent Society of New Berne was preached in a Union meeting Sunday night in Centenary M. E. church by the pastor, Rev. J. T. Lyon, the occasion being as he stated in his preliminary remarks the 57th anniversary of the organization of the society. The sermon was based on the new testament narrative of Dorcas, whom Mr. Lyon spoke of as the originator of female benevolent societies in the church. The sermon was an appropriate one; it presented the needs of such work touchingly and in beautiful at times almost poetic language.

At its conclusion the collection usual at these annual meetings followed. The amount realized was $35. Previous to the sermon the report of the Treasurer of the Society for the year 1893, was read, it was as follows:

Balance on hand Feb. 4, 93, $59.31
Interest on County bonds, 60.00
Collections at Presbyterian church, 20.96
Collections from gentlemen, 235.30
Collections from ladies, 43.25

Total, $418.82
Expended during the year for wood, rent, fuel, and groceries, $400.72
Balance due Society by Treasurer, 18.10
Total, $418.82

Nearly 200 loads of wood have been distributed since the last annual meeting. By death and removal the society has lost several liberal contributors whose places have not yet been filled by others. The society to carry on its work will have need of other contribution than those already in sight and benevolently disposed citizens are requested to enroll themselves as contributors. The bulk of the society's funds comes from small but regular donations in very many cases 25 cents from each one is the amount from each contributing member which the ladies collect monthly.

The good that is done through this systematic organized effort is too manifest to need expatiating on. The ladies acquaint themselves with the needs, the circumstances, the worthiness, &c., of those whom they assist, and what passes through their hands is thus assured of being rightly placed and of giving the greatest benefit possible.

The society is worthy of the highest encouragement and hearty co-operation of all, and as opportunity presents it should receive it.

May Remodel the Church

Presbyterians have under consideration the remodeling of their church so that the pulpit will be at the rear instead of toward the entrance as now, and the slope of the floor be changed to correspond. New pews would also be put in. Something over $500 is now available for the purpose and it after further investigation the deacons and elders consider it feasible to proceed now they will submit the matter to the congregation for their approval and action.

Many have long desired this change to be made. Having to face the congregation as they enter is beyond question trying to some timid, nervous people especially those who have not been accustomed to it and this no doubt militates against the congregation's growing with the rapidly it otherwise would. We believe the change would work well and hope all funds needed for having the work performed will be forthcoming.

Coming and Going

Mr. S. C. Hamilton and Mr. Lovitt (lines left yesterday for Greenville where they are making arrangements to start a large saw mill business as partners. They will be gone this time about a week.

Mr. J. M. Hines left for points on the A. & N. C. R. R., road below New Berne on a canvassing trip for the JOURNAL.

Mr. D. S. Anna of Palo Alto is in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ellis returned yesterday from Pollockville. Miss Rena Smith, sister of Mrs. Ellis came with them on a visit.

Rev. S. H. Taler of Goldsboro, who is supplying country churches of the vicinity recently served by Rev. F. W. Harris passed through yesterday enroute to his home.

Mr. W. B. Royall arrived last night moving from Goldsboro to the city.

Arrangements for the reception of the Khedive of Egypt, show that his visit to England is regarded as an important political event. He will be accompanied by two of his ministers, will reside in Buckingham palace, will be banqueted at the Guild hall and will be entertained with gala performances at Covent Garden.

A FINE REPORT.

The Presbyterian Church Gave Away in 1893 Nearly as Much as It Used for Own Purposes.

The report of the Treasurer of the Presbyterian church for the year 1893, read before the congregation by the pastor, is the best financial statement in the history of the church and one of which any church might be proud.

The current expenses of the church had all been paid at the time the report was made out except $22.33 and the amount due from contributions which had not then been handed in was sufficient to wipe this amount and leave a credit of $79.22 to this account.

Presbyterian churches contribute to various objects of work—home missions, publication, education, bible fund, etc.

Each church has apportioned to it, the amount which it is considered proper for it to raise for each of these objects. In every instance except one, the collection at the church was in excess of what was asked; it fell short on the collection for Tusculum Institute, Alabama, the Seminary for the education of negro ministers, about $3.

Taken as a whole the amount apportioned to the church for this outside work was about $350; it raised $328.28, almost a thousand dollars more than it was assessed, and lacking only $21.72 of the amount expended on itself.

The amount, as stated, 2004 for itself was $146.60 and the amount given away $328.28. The previous year the church raised for these same objects nearly $500 more than it was assessed.

On home mission work the record is gratifying in the extreme. Besides raising in regular collection amounts in excess of what was asked for, Synodical home missions (that is for the State at large) and for Presbyterian home missions, that is for the local mission of which the church is a part it made two liberal special contributions for work near home—$160 for the Dover field and $110 for Greenville church. In addition it contributed a special offering, $428 to synodical missions, the principal portion of which, as we understand it, will be used in the western part of the state.

This is a good record of liberality of course the inherent generosity of the people has much to do with this, but to a large measure the secret of the success lies in the systematic benevolence in which the congregation is being trained—method always accomplishes more than spasmodic effort.

New Berne Wants Corbett and Mitchell

NEW BERNE, N. C. Jan. 20.—Special. We have telegraphed an offer of twenty thousand dollars to Corbett and Mitchell to fight here Thursday, February 22, our fair week.

ELM CITY ATHLETIC CLUB.

The above is a telegram sent from New Berne by what we had thought was an entirely "defunct club" and we doubt now if the organization has any acknowledgment of its state of existence. Pretty spunky for New Berne, isn't it, that is, if this "Brave Six Hundred" did not know it was too late before playing their high hand.

The New Year.

One of our subscribers furnishes us with the following beautiful lines with the request to publish as a fitting companion piece to the poem published in Saturday's JOURNAL—"Old Tinkie Creek I Love Thee Well":

And what though a year be gone by?
Another is o'er, let it gang—
We part 'tween the auld wi' a sigh;
Let us welcome the new wi' a sang!

A sang for the blithe new year,
E'en though, could we forecast it a',
We might gie to the new the tear,
The sang to the year that's awa'!

But the years as they come and gang
Are his win is loving and true;
Sae, we sigh, but a sang, a sang,
For bairns the auld year and the new!
D. M. Henderson.

Tribute to Mrs. S. J. Dudley.

At the Union meeting of the several city churches Sunday night in behalf of the Female Benevolent Society there was read the following tribute to the former esteemed head of the organization whom death removed last year:

During the year just passed, the Female Benevolent Society has been called to mourn the loss by death, of its President, Mrs. Susan Dudley, who had held that position for more than 16 years, and had won the love and approbation of all its managers.

She was more widely acquainted with the poor of the town and vicinity than any other member of the Society knowing well their character, circumstances and necessities, and while full of sympathy for them in their sorrows, and ever ready to extend help to them in their trials, yet her good judgment and clear insight rendered her less liable to be imposed upon by plausible falsehood than many others.

Thus, she was eminently fitted for the position which she held so long, and which she filled so entirely to the satisfaction of her fellow-workers. In her death the society has sustained an irreparable loss and its members will miss in her a friend and leader, whose advice was always wise, whose presence was ever cheering and whose influence was at all times elevating and encouraging.

A BUG GNAWED HIS HEART.

A Young Boy's Death Gets a Strange Explanation.

Munroe, Ind. Jan. 19.—A remarkable case of a boy being killed by a bug that gnawed his heart deeply interests local physicians. Samuel Leonard, 7 years old, died a few days ago with very peculiar symptoms. The boy had been sick for some time, but his case was different from any other. A post-mortem examination revealed that part of the heart had been eaten away by an insect, causing death. Near five years ago the boy drank water from a bucket and swallowed a water bug. The insect ate away through the boy's heart, and then began devouring the heart, the bug, according to doctors.

Coughed up a Lizard.

At Woodstock, N. Y., Jan. 19.—A 9-year-old child of St. Johnsville, died yesterday in a peculiar manner. She had been all for some time, and yesterday she coughed up an animal about five inches long, resembling a lizard, and with a thick membrane running around its middle. The child died from exhaustion. The animal had a greatly enlarged head, eyes, tongue and body. It is believed to have been killed in removing it from the child's throat.

Where the Curfew is Rung.

The only town in which curfew is still rung is Fayetteville, N. C. Notwithstanding the abolition by statute in the sixteenth century of the custom of ringing the curfew in England, this American town has kept it up for nearly two centuries, or since it was first settled. The custom has there very nearly its ancient significance, ordering the people to put out the fires on the hearths and to remain indoors for the night. Fayetteville has been the same quiet, peaceful village that it is now ever since the Revolutionary war, when for a brief season it was a military town, the center of those operations which made the name of King's Mountain, Cowpens and Guilford Church historical. Every evening curfew is rung in the night, and is listened to by the day that is done, and seldom are people seen upon the streets after its sound has ceased. It has never been omitted during the last century, and there is no disposition to abolish it. It also has a town curfew, but in this it is not alone, Columbia, S. C., keeping up that custom, which I believe, has fallen into disuse elsewhere.—Globe Democrat.

One of our citizens handed us the above clipping and informs us that it is only within a few years ago that the custom of ringing the nine o'clock bell was discontinued in Wilmington, and in Charleston S. C. Before the war the custom was universal through the south. It had its origin in the fact that negroes were not allowed to be out after 9 o'clock at night. If one was seen at large after that hour, he was promptly arrested and put in the guard house, unless he could show authority for being allowed away from home.

In New Berne the curfew bell has never been rung since the war and of course where it was rung it carried no authority with it—it was but the perpetuation of the custom.
