THE PASSAGE OF THE WILSON BILL.

The Wilson bill has passed the House and gone to the Senate.

The passage of the bill is matter of gratulation, but the manner of its passage is no less gratify-

A month ago the passage of the bill by the House was regarded as doubtful, and a little later it was boastfully claimed by the opposition that there were thirty-eight Democrats in the House who would vote against the bill; but when the test came only seventeenn Demoerate voted against it, and the bill passed on a vote of 204 in its favor and 140 against it. A majority of the electoral college—would vote.

There was no doubt what would be

UNHORSED THE YANKEE PICKETS.

Clever Ruse of a Confederate Cavalryman to Secure a Horse.

The Confederate cavalryman was often puzzled as to how to provide himself with a horse. The authorities gave him the choice to keep mounted or go into the ranks with world. He will go overland to San his musket, as horses were not fur-

To be dismounted and become foot soldier was worse to him than foot soldier was worse to him than a courtmartial and he would risk much in his efforts to get a horse from the enemy. The sequel is not hard to guess. Two of the pursuers were quickly and most unceremoniously unborsed, the third being so much astonished and frightened at their fate as to turn and beat a hasty retreat. The two horses, without their riders, continued down the road, and were easily captured by the Contederate, who, by his clever ruse became their owner, "and kept his place in the cavalry.

The two pickets left to themselves burriedly made their way back to their comrads as crest fallen and astonished as two men could well
